DAUGHERTY NOT ABLE TO WATCH EVERYTHING, HIS ATTORNEY SAYS

Max Steuer Puts Sole Responsibility for Passing Merton Claim on Senator Goff.

WHY T. W. MILLER DID NOT TESTIFY

"Law Doesn't Compel Him to Drag in Names Not Heretofore Mentioned," Rand Asserts.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—In a voice barely audible, in a hushed and expectant courtroom, Max D. Steuer, counsel for Harry M. Daugherty, began his summation for the former Attorney-General in the Daugherty-Miller conspiracy trial today.

Daugherty, the first Cabinet member to be brought to trial for alleged criminal acts supposed to have been committed during tenure of office, sat in the middle of the packed courtroom, a folded handkerchief held constantly to his left eye, which is "flamed by cold."

Daugherty, an Allen Property Custodian, is charged with conspiring to defraud the United States of over $700,000, in connection with the release of $700,000 of impounded equity assets.

Steuer, after avowing "an abiding faith in humanity and the ultimate triumph of justice," began an analysis of the sections of the Daugherty-Miller conspiracy trial today.

Justifies Jesse Smith. Defending Daugherty in establishing Jesse W. Smith, his "man Friday," in an office in the Department of Justice and giving him credit to reorganize the staff, Steuer said: "Why all this talk about Daugherty giving somebody a job? Why, when the Democrats were in office the town was flooded with jobs? And if the Democrats came into office again it will be the same thing—more cries for jobs."

"You'll get them, too. That's the only way you can build a party," he said.

Comparing Daugherty's position now and then, Steuer, in a confidential tone, said: "There's a lot of difference, I can tell you. Then they hung around the outer room waiting to ask favors of Attorney-General Daugherty, the man who made Harding President. Now they are only too quick to jump on him."

He then went into a history of the employment of Senator Guy D. Goff, who was Daugherty's first assistant. He painted the family and personal background of Senator Goff, and then declared: "Never was a man a more fitting history of a man's life than that of Guy D. Goff."

PHILADELPHIA EXPOSITION IS LOSING $25,000 A WEEK

By the Associated Press.
PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 7.—The Sesqui-Centennial Exposition is losing $25,000 a week, it was learned today. It opened June 1. Less than 5,000,000 persons have passed through the gates.

"The financial failure," said Kendrick, "has been due, not to the management, but to the failure of the people to go there. While we should have had 25,000,000 in attendance, we have had less than 5,000,000."

A King in His Own Castle

"Every man is a king in his own castle." That means something. It goes back to the feudal concept of the lord of the castle, but the import of it applies no less to modern life.

Most every man can be king only in his own castle—his own home. He can never have that sense of authority in a home owned by someone else.

GRAFT CHARGES AT INDIANAPOLIS TO GRAND JURY

Prosecutor Announces He Will Investigate Alleged Intrigue Involving Mayor of City.

PHOTOSTATIC COPY OF LETTER SHOWN

Purports to Show Agreement With K. K. K. to Dictate Appointments to Certain Offices.

By the Associated Press.
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 7.—Will Remy, Marion County prosecuting Attorney, today said he would conduct a grand jury investigation into charges of political corruption that have been made by Thomas H. Adams, Vincennes (Ind.) publisher.

The inquiry will be directed principally toward the photostatic copy of a letter made public yesterday by Adams, which purported to show an agreement by John L. Duval, Mayor of Indianapolis, to permit D. C. Stephenson to make certain appointments of public officials as a reward for Stephenson's political influence.

Remy was prosecutor of Stephenson on the charge of murdering Miss Madge Oberholzer. Stephenson, former "grand dragon" of the Indiana Ku Klux Klan, is now serving a life sentence on the charge.

Remy declined to say whether he would call Stephenson before the grand jury. Adams and his associates have sought vainly to obtain an interview with Stephenson.

Mayor Duval said the letter was unauthentic.

Text of the Letter.

The letter reads: "In return for the political support of D. C. Stephenson, in the event that I am elected Mayor of Indianapolis, I promise not to appoint any person as member of the public works without their first having endorsement of D. C. Stephenson."

"I also agree and promise to appoint Claude Worley as chief of the police and C. J. Klenck as captain."

The letter was dated Feb. 12, 1925. Duval was elected mayor the following November.

The Mayor admitted the authenticity of another letter to Stephenson made public by Adams in which he discussed county political affairs. He maintained there was nothing wrong in this letter.

Adams discussed with his colleagues an invitation of the city council to submit any evidence that he may have in connection with corruption in city government to the committee of the council met to meet with Adams but adjourned when he failed to appear. He said he did not receive the council's invitation until he returned from Chicago and did not have time to prepare for his appearance.

Attitude of Governor. In answer to Adams' demand on Gov. Jackson that a committee of State Legislators and newspapermen be permitted to interview Stephenson, the trustees of the State prison, whom the Governor stated, had control, announced that only relatives or attorneys representing a prisoner were permitted to interview inmates.

ITALIAN GUNMAN KILLED BY POLICE AFTER AUTO CHASE

Joseph Bommarito Shot at Wheel of Car and Companion Injured, in Bootleg Warfare.

SERGEANT STRUCK DURING FUSILLADE

Officer Hit in Shoulder and Right Thigh as He Joins in Pursuit—Slain Man Had Loaded Pistol.

Detectives added another death to the growing toll in the deadly bootleg war between Cuckoo gangsters and the Italian gunmen last night, when they killed Joseph Bommarito, 21 years old, of the Italian faction, after an automobile chase from Fourteenth and Market streets, "a Cuckoo corner," to Eleventh and O'Fallon streets, on the fringe of the downtown Little Italy.

Bommarito was killed at the wheel, a companion, James "Licavoli," 19 years old, was shot in the right leg and Sgt. Homer Knox of Carr Street District was shot in the right leg as he ran from a side street with a loaded pistol.

The police party consisted of Detective Sergeants Carroll and Williams and Detectives Turner, O'Connell and Shelton, who have been visiting Italian and Cuckoo haunts nightly in an effort to stop the feud which has flared up week after week in deadly encounters since early last month.

Chase Is Renewed.

Shortly before 9 o'clock, at Fourteenth and Market streets, where there are saloons and resorts frequented by Cuckoo gangsters, the detectives came upon two parked automobiles, a Chrysler touring car and a Cadillac sedan, each containing four men. The machines sped away in opposite directions when the police car approached, and the touring car was chased east on Market and north on Thirtieth street until lost to sight.

Searching various streets, the officers found both machines again at Seventh street and Cass avenue, where the chase was renewed. The Cadillac got off to a good start and was soon out of sight. The Chrysler was pursued through alleys and streets to Tenth street, where it turned west into O'Fallon. Close behind, the pursuers opened fire and at Eleventh street the touring car bounded against the curb and stopped.

Sgt. Knox had run from Eleventh street with his revolver drawn, to a shelter of bullets. The Chrysler was hit in the rear, one of his shoulder and another pierced his right thigh.

A man jumped from the touring car and ran away. In the driver's seat was Bommarito, dead, his left hand on the wheel and a loaded automatic at his feet. In the rear seat were Licavoli and Vincent Spicuzza, 29, who were taken into custody. Slugs from two shotguns fired by Detectives Turner and Shelton both hit the man, one of Carroll had cut more than 50 holes in the machine, four had pierced Bommarito's head and others had smashed the windshield.

In the machine were three automatic pistols, a revolver and a short-barreled automatic shotgun, none of which had been fired. Police said shots were fired at them from the machine with a shotgun which had been tossed to the street during the chase.

Arrested 59 Times.

Licavoli and Spicuzza refused to talk and were charged in warrants today with carrying concealed weapons. They had been arrested frequently as suspects in recent weeks. Bommarito, who has been arrested 59 times, was a partner of Caesar Cipriano, who was killed Sept. 2 as he left the Baptist Hospital after visiting his brother-in-law, who had been wounded in another affray. Spicuzza was arrested for murder in 1924, when police maintained that Michael Bosomero had broken the gang code of silence by naming Spicuzza and another man as his assassins before he died at city hospital. Spicuzza was not prosecuted.

An automatic pistol was found in the car.

NEW ATTENDANCE MARK SET A THIRD TIME IN 3 DAYS

More Than 39,000 Crowd Into Park for Today's Crucial Contest of Cardinals and Yankees.

By WILLIAM F. ALLEN.
SPORTSMAN'S PARK, Oct. 7.—For the third time in as many days, the baseball attendance record in St. Louis came tumbling down today, when the St. Louis Cardinals and New York Yankees met for the fifth game of the world series.

Between 39,000 and 40,000 persons, on the very tip of excitement, crammed Sportsman's Park.

The day also established a record for attendance on three consecutive days. More than 116,000 persons have paid within a few hours of the game to see their first world series in 33 years. In addition, nearly $1,000,000 in checks was mailed back to fans who could not be supplied with tickets.

When the bleachers and pavilion gates were shut today in the face of clamoring thousands, that almost surrounded the park, there were 100 more persons in the bleachers than on any previous day of the series, standing room had been sold in the pavilion for the first time, and an increased number of standing room tickets at the grand stand were sold at the park as well as downtown.

Time and again, in their desperate race for the National League pennant and their struggle for an advantage in the world series the Cardinals have roused the fans to pitches of enthusiasm that seemed the last pinnacle to which shrieks and delicious rooting could ascend.

Yet at game time today it seemed that a new pitch would be reached, especially if the Cardinals could take a lead.

Though there were only a few persons in their reserved seats at 11:30 a. m., the appearance of Hornsby alone on the field at that hour brought the 10,000 in the bleachers and the pavilion to their feet to give him an ovation. Hornsby stood with his hands on his hips, surveying the field calmly, then retreated out of sight.

Crowd Cheers the Cardinals.

The appearance soon after of the entire Cardinal team was the signal for another outburst. Billy Southworth appeared as the second pitcher in practice and sent two balls crashing into the pavilion, where he reigns as idol.

Then Babe Ruth arrived and was surrounded under the stands by those who chance to be entering the park at the time. "How many today, Babe?" someone asked, and he replied, "Three, no less," but he grinned and the retort came back, "Quit your kidding, Babe."

Sherdel appeared in the pitcher's position in Cardinal batting practice. The crowd did not recognize him, but he made a line drive. Sherdel is added power to Cardinal batting. He is one of the best-hitting pitchers in the league.

The Yankees came on the field in dead silence. The crowd seemed not to purposefully ignore them, but seemed wrapped up in watching Cardinal after Cardinal ring his bat on the ball. Then Ruth. He did not get two steps from the dugout till he was surrounded by autograph flens. Those who had no baseballs asked him to write his name on score cards or any piece of paper they could find. The Babe was obliging.

Crowd Ignores Even Babe. Babe had a hard time reaching the dugout. Photographers crowded up, boys broke through the field guards and he shook their hands and they cheered proudly. Apparently the crowd did not spy him for it was silent to him, as it was to the other Yankees. Even his left field bleachers neglected to join him. Huggins and Hornsby hailed him and posed for photographers. Next it was Hornsby and Sherdel.

BELL'S SINGLE SCORES BOTTOMLEY WITH 1ST RUN FOR ST. LOUIS

Douthit Out of Game With Injured Shoulder and Holm Plays Center—Ruth an Easy Out First Time at Bat.

By J. Roy Stockton.
Of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff.
SPORTSMAN'S PARK, Oct. 7.—Bill Sherdel and Herb Pennock, the two southpaw aces who engaged in a pitching duel in the first game of the world series at New York, with Pennock emerging victorious 2 to 1, met again this afternoon in the fifth contest of the struggle for fame and the winner's share of the purse at stake in the titular struggle.

Taylor Douthit, the fleet-footed center fielder, who collided with Chick Hafey yesterday while chasing a fly ball, was unable to take his position this afternoon. His right arm struck Hafey's chest, and, while he made a brilliant throw to the plate in the same inning, his arm and shoulder were sore and stiff today and Roscoe "Wattie" Holm of the reserves was sent in by Manager Hornsby.

With the teams tied at two victories each and so much depending on today's game, the stands were more crowded than at the two previous contests here and prospects were that St. Louis attendance records would be broken for the third consecutive day.

New Attendance Record.

Henry Goldsmith, the chief usher, brought word to the press box that all attendance records had been broken, though the official figures were not yet available. A squad of police was needed to disperse a vast throng, estimated at 10,000, unable to gain entrance to the park. Goldsmith, who has been handling crowds for many years, estimated the attendance at 40,000.

The umpires were Dinneen behind the bat, O'Day at first base, Hildebrand at second and Klem at third.

Ruth an Easy Out.

The spectators were full of the well-known enthusiasm and as Combs started the game with a nice little off fly to Hafey, the stands cheered. Koenig was just as easy, shooting a grounder to Thevenow.

There was a roar of expectation as Babe Ruth walked to the plate. The stands wondered if Hornsby would stick to his plan of pitching to the big ace. They soon found out. William Sherdel pitched a ball and then a slow one inside but low. It's all right to pitch inside to the Bambino if it is kept low. It takes a master to keep it low, but Sherdel did his stuff properly and Ruth sent a grounder to Hornsby, an easy chance, and there was a wild roar as Rogers tossed out the big threat.

Holm started the Cardinals' first inning with a grounder to Koenig, which the nervous shortstop handled cleanly, but when Southworth sent one to the same spot Koenig fumbled and Billy was safe. Bill then stole second, aided by a passed ball, and went to third while Pennock was throwing out Hornsby on a high bouncer that hit in front of the plate.

Double Play Checks Yankees.

Meusel's hot bouncer, starting the second inning, popped out of Bell's hands, but Lester pounced on the ball and his accurate throw turned it into a putout.

Gehrig worked his string to three and two and then bounced a single over second, just out of Thevenow's reach. Lazzeri picked on a slow ball and punched a single between Hornsby and Bottomley, and Gehrig raced to third ahead of Southworth's throw.

Yankee stupidity and Cardinal fielding then combined to check the rally and end the inning without a score. Dugan hit a slow roller to Hornsby, and Lazzeri, instead of stopping to break up a double play, ran straight into Hornsby's arm. Rogers tagged him and whipped the ball to Bottomley for a double play, and Gehrig, racing home with what he hoped would be a run, was merely a man left on base.

Pennock's stuff was too good for Bell in this inning and, after fouling a couple, he took a called third

Holm Called Out on Strikes.

Sherdel opened the Cardinal half of the third with a punch past Pennock, but Koenig shifted to his left for a good stop and threw out "Wee Killiam." Holm was an easy victim, watching a third strike drop over the outside corner of the plate. Southworth sent a high fly to Ruth in left center for the third out.

LATEST ATTEMPT TO END BRITISH COAL STRIKE FAILS

Miners' Federation Unanimously Rejects Government's Proposal of Aid in Obtaining Agreement.

LONDON, Oct. 7.—The government's latest attempt to settle the long-drawn coal strike has failed. A delegate conference of the Miners' federation today unanimously adopted a resolution rejecting the proposals after the announcement of a district vote to that effect, of 737,000 to 42,000.

The government proposals today were contained in a letter sent by Premier Baldwin on Sept. 17 to A. J. Cook, general secretary of the miners' federation. The principal point was an assurance that, if the miners returned to work, they would be given governmental assistance in obtaining a nation-wide agreement in effect if not work. Such an agreement has been one of the main points held out for by the men.

The miners, numbering more than 1,000,000, went on strike May 1, to support a demand for continuation of the post-war rates of pay and hours of work after the withdrawal of the government subsidy on that date. The mine owners, with the end of the subsidy, had proposed a reduction in pay of 13½ per cent and an increase from seven to eight hours in the working day.

FANS GOT EVERYTHING THEY WANTED YESTERDAY EXCEPT VICTORY

WORLD'S RECORDS GALORE; THREE HOME RUNS, LOTS OF HITS AND BRILLIANT PLAYS

Crowd of 38,825 Packed Into Park for Fourth Game of Series—Ruth Gave Party for Bleachers.

By WILLIAM F. ALLEN.

ABOUT the only thing that a baseball crowd wants that yesterday's crowd did not get was victory.

It got world's records galore, the more remarkable because they were compiled chiefly by a single piece of ash. It got home runs, including the mightiest of record in Sportsman's Park. It got fielding brilliance and fielding "boots" of the kind a home-run crowd relishes. It got the ecstasy of seeing three men thrown out at home plate. It saw two others thrown out at third. It got some chance to see the home team to overcome a lead and the satisfaction, if only fleeting, of seeing the home team respond. It got enough bases on balls to satisfy it for a couple of seasons. It got the comfort of seeing eight Cardinal players hold up their slashing batting and superb fielding in the face of collapse in the ninth-inning pitching.

Thrills, Throbs, Chills, Fevers.

It got thrills and throbs, chills and fevers, almost continuously, for two hours and 39 minutes, and it got itself hoarse—small wonder! It even got that curiosity of modern baseball, a balk.

So much did 38,825 fans—an attendance record for St. Louis—get on a sunlit, playit afternoon to compensate it for the defeat of its pet Cardinals.

But about 3000 of the 38,825 got a whole lot more. Yesterday's choice seats, the point of vantage, the envied spot, was not the boxes, not the front rows of any stand, but a lowly little corner of the $1.10 left-field bleachers.

For there, when he was not hitting homers, Babe Ruth and about 3000 fans held an exclusive, all-afternoon, little tea party. They exchanged confidences and got to be the best of friends.

Ruth Autographs Balls For Fans.

The party opened long before the game when Ruth first went to his left field position for practice. The 3000 said "howdy do" politely and clapped their hands. Ruth answered "howdy do" and lifted his cap. The 3000 began to call for some souvenir baseballs and Ruth tossed up a few. Then they wanted autographs. Ruth signaled to the practice batters to stop the rain of balls in his direction and went over to the wall. The fans passed their balls down and Ruth wrote his name on them and handed them back. There were several moments of conversation. The Babe wanted to know if there were any more. The fans told him "sorry, no," and Ruth waited a bit, then resumed practice.

That established a mutual cordiality. In the first inning, Ruth started his moments of conversation, and the 3000 took him to its heart for the remainder of the afternoon. The rest of the crowd, before game's end, was quite ready to take Babe for their own. They hoarsened themselves and called their praises and clapped their hands and yelled to him as they would to a home hero. Ruth did not exactly disdain them, but he reserved his full response for the 3000.

Hits Home Run on First Ball.

When the first home came in the first inning on the first ball pitched there was generous applause, but the crowd that later was to grow wild over the Babe's dazzling performance used its hands rather than its throats.

Then came the second in his very next time at bat, and also on the first ball pitched, and this time there was nothing perfunctory in the expressions of good will and admiration. Cheers upon cheers rolled from the lower grandstand, to the upper stand, to the pavilion, to the center field bleachers, through Ruth's 3000 in the left-hand corner, on to the left field stands and back to the Yankees' dugout.

A few minutes later, when Ruth returned to his fielding position and the other thousands were still the 3000 roared in mass to receive him. They waved papers, hats, umbrellas and cheered him to the echo. The Babe stood facing them for several minutes, exchanged a few more confidences with them and went back to the business of fielding.

Walks, Then Another Homer.

After walking on the third time up, Ruth came to bat a fourth time and lifted himself to still greater heights. He whaled at one and the ball sailed in a low arc straight for center field. Doubtful took up the pursuit, but the ball traveled farther and faster than he and plumped down in the very center of the center field bleachers—the longest smash to center ever made in Sportsman's Park and many other playing fields.

This, of course, turned the whole crowd over to Ruth and the ovation for him was deafening and protracted. Now the 3000 could

MR. GEORGE HERMAN RUTH.

BABE RUTH RECEIVES 384 CONGRATULATORY TELEGRAMS FROM FANS

OVERNIGHT, by actual count, Babe Ruth received 384 telegrams of congratulations from fans, friends and admirers in all parts of the country.

They came from Boston and Los Angeles, from Kokomo and Palm Beach.

Nothing the big hitter has ever accomplished has quite fascinated the popular mind, apparently, as his slugging orgy yesterday.

hardly wait to receive him. The instant he stepped from the dugout there was stirring among them. When he crossed the infield they were on their feet and when he reached the turf of the outfield their cheering began.

They cheered and cheered and cheered, and Ruth, once again, with his back to the other thousands, stood with his hands on his hips and enjoyed their praise.

Waves to Center Field Fans.

Then he invited the center field bleachers to the party. He lifted his cap and waved it to them. They came to their feet, waving, shouting and acknowledging the contribution to one of their number of a prized baseball that will grace some mantle for many a day.

Not forgetful for an instant of his 3000 in left field, Ruth tossed his cap up to them to convey above the shouting that he would try to give them one next. And try he did, but the Cardinal pitcher in seeking to keep the ball out of the home run range of his bat issued him another free trip to first. Not only the 3000 but the whole crowd by now was pulling for Ruth to make it four and there was some boisterous cheering of Hallahan, the Cardinal pitcher, in the belief that his pass was intentional. It was not, but so eager were the 3000 and the 35 other thousands to see another circuit about that their accuracy of discernment was impaired.

And the crowd regarded the game's end as a real tragedy for once again there was Ruth, but in vain, waiting to come up for another try when Koenig's out that ended the game came.

Fine Throwout for Good Measure.

It would seem that that performance would have filled the cup of the ordinary ball player, but Ruth added a beautiful throw from mid-left to the plate to nip a Cardinal runner at the plate. In the first place, he fielded the ball smartly.

Some fielders might have tried for a shooting catch. The Babe braced himself to receive it on the first bounce and cut loose in the same instant. He did. The ball sailed straight into the waiting mitt of Hank Severel and the Cardinal runner from second was nipped. Ruth and another ovation from his 3000.

Just to give the afternoon a little final polish, Ruth stepped from the dugout in a late inning and barehanded caught a whistling foul liner from the bat of one of his mates.

No a good time was had by all of the 3000 at their little party. To a part of the crowd which measures the enjoyment of a ball game solely by the fortunes of the home team it may not have been an enjoyable afternoon. To them nothing is pleasant that does not find the home team on the long end of the score.

But to the others, and likely the majority, it was a glorious afternoon of baseball, certainly more thrilling to the crowd than all the other games of the series to date rolled into one.

On Edge From Very Start.

The crowd was put on edge in the very first minutes, when Rhem struck out the first two batters to face him, an augury of another great Cardinal pitching feat, which, unhappily, did not materialize. The third man was Ruth and he, as is known, started his fireworks right there. From that point on there was scarcely a dull minute for the crowd, though in the later innings, with the Cardinals hopelessly in the rear, play dragged a bit. The only stimulating thing was the anticipation—yes, hope—that Ruth would flog another piece of horsehide out on to the pavement of Grand boulevard.

It was the second day in succession that the St. Louis attendance record was broken. The opening world series set a new mark and it looked as if the stands could be bulged no further, but yesterday 1000 more were crammed into the unreserved sections and in grand stand standing room.

Crowd Brighter, All Red.

If anything it was a brighter crowd than at the opener here, brighter because of the spreading contagion of wearing red. It appeared in splashes in all the stands. Bleacher men wore red sweaters and some had snook-like improvised costumes. Red hats flamed upon the heads of the women, and the percentage of women in these world's series crowds is large. The red is splashed about so generally and so vividly that if the crowd has any other color note it is not perceptible to the eye that sweeps the throng.

But bright though it was, color faded from vision yesterday and in the later innings there appeared just one focus to which all eyes came—the heaving torso of the Sultan of Swat.

SERIES RECEIPTS SURE TO EXCEED $1,000,000 MARK

At Present Rate New Records for Paid Admissions and Attendance Will Be Established.

It is a certainty that the world series between the Cardinals and Yankees will pass the $1,000,000 mark. Receipts for the first four games total $730,001.

The fifth game, at Sportsman's Park today, will be followed by the sixth at Yankee Stadium, New York, Saturday. If the series is tied after Saturday a seventh game will be played in New York Sunday.

Receipts yesterday were $166,199. A similar game today and a $200,000 gate Saturday will bring the total to $1,096,200. A seventh game, if necessary, would set a new record both for attendance and receipts.

The present attendance record, 301,430, resulted from six games between the Yankees and the New York Giants in 1923. The present money record, $1,183,854, resulted from seven games between the Washington Senators and the Pittsburgh Pirates, in 1925. It is estimated that a seven-game series this year would mean an attendance of 370,000 and receipts of $1,300,000.

This will be the fourth consecutive year the world series has reached the $1,000,000 mark, beginning in 1923 when the six games between the two New York teams drew $1,016,514 into the treasury.

Regardless of how long the present series lasts, the players' share of the receipts is limited to the first four games, and amounts to $172,300. Seventy per cent of this goes to the Cardinals and Yankees, and 30 per cent to the other first division clubs in the American and National Leagues. The Cardinals' allotment will be $52,544, and if they lose $41,688. The difference is due to the fact that the Yankees' allotment will be divided into 25 shares, while the Cardinals' will be cut into 28. Twenty-five Cardinal players and two coaches will receive full shares, and the secretary and trainer a half share each.

Illinois Killed Shooting Stars. DANVILLE, Ill., Oct. 7.—E. W. Meyer, 40 years old, of Gilman, was accidentally killed while shooting rats at his home. He stumbled and fell as he stooped to pick up a rodent he had shot. The gun dropped and a charge of shot struck him in the head.

Sisler. Ruth took his turn at batting practice. Still no cheers—a grounder.

Then a high foul and the next into Grand boulevard. A murmur ran through the stand—not a cheer.

The grand stand crowd assembled early and once again the percentage of women was large. Hundreds of them displayed Cardinal red in some way in their dress, if only a ribbon pinned to a coat. Others wore brilliant red hats or coats or dresses. Still others carried pennants and not a few megaphones. A few were here for a post-game ability to say "I saw them play," but most of them were fans, alive to every tense moment, vivid in their cheering, excitable flushed of face.

Ruth Big Drawing Card. From the attitude and gossip of the fans, it seemed that Ruth was as big a drawing card today as the home team, despite the fact that it was Babe's record-breaking three homers which chiefly accounted for the downfall of the National League in the fourth game and put the Yankees back on even terms.

Ruth's bat has sounded the universal note and fans fought their way into the park with conflicting emotions—a desire on the one hand to see the Cards win and take the series lead; on the other a hope that the Yank star would "sock" a few more out of the park.

Ruth came out on the park with his teammates in a confident mood. "We've started to hit now and nothing can stop us," they agreed.

There was no less confidence among the Yankees because the game was slated to witness a repetition of the first-game pitching duel between Herb Pennock and Willie Sherdel, a contest which the Yankee southpaw won, after allowing the Cardinals only three safe blows.

Ruth was in high spirits. He admitted he might "knock a few more if they'll toss 'em within reach." Cardinal strategists, on the other hand, were exhorting their pitchers to keep the ball as far away from Ruth's bat as possible.

Cardinal confidence, somewhat shaken yesterday by the unexpected outburst on the part of the New Yorkers, was restored today as Hornsby pulled his range together.

Huggins a Bit Dubious. Even Miller Huggins, the Yankee pilot, was ready to admit the uncertainties of a series bringing together two such well-matched clubs.

"You can't tell what we'll do," said Hug. "One day we're up and at 'em with the boys knocking the ball lopsided. The next we can't hit a lick. I'm hoping for the best, but I can't make any predictions."

Hundreds of women were in the bleachers, varying in age from flappers, craving excitement, to severe looking women, old enough to be grandmothers and obviously dyed-in-the-wool fans. The bleacher men pelted the flappers with balls of paper when they walked by.

But the older women were not displeased. They were wearing their dresses and the character of their jewelry denoting an ability to buy seats at any price. One opened her bag and disclosed a rain check indicating she sat in a box yesterday. The bleacher crowd was a cosmopolitan gathering, but there was no jarring note in their camaraderie. Their common thought was "Win, you Cardinals."

Fans who had been to yesterday's game pointed out to newcomers the exact spots cleared by Ruth's first two homers, while an awe-stricken group clustered about a dent in a center-field bleacher seat left by the impact of the Babe's third circuit clout.

President Brendon of the Cardinals continues to express regret that the park's capacity could not accommodate all who wanted to see the games. Some fans swallowed their disappointment and went to the nearest radio.

Others used their ingenuity and saw the game. They came to the Cardinal management, gave proof that they were habitual fans and were given employment as ushers. One usher went to the park each morning with his Lincoln car and chauffeur! During the games he wore a red cap. He served on the Hornsby welcoming committee, but the Cardinal management refused to give him a name.

The chief usher in the pressbox was a Washington avenue silk merchant, Edward A. Meyers. Wages meant nothing—only the chance to be on the inside.

Doubtful Hurt, Out of Game. Doubtful, who collided with Hafey in center field yesterday, was found today to have injured his right arm and was out of play. His arm and shoulder were stiff. Holm took his place in center field and in the lead-off position of the Cardinals' batting order. The pitchers were Sherdel and Pennock.

Ruth Grounds to Hornsby. Ruth got a great ovation when he came to the plate for his time at bat. Sherdel pitched to him and caused him to ground to

World Series Sidelights

There is a window on Grand boulevard today with no glass in it. It is shattered and on the shutter is the sign: "This window broken by Babe Ruth."

It is in the Wells Motor Co., 3008 Grand boulevard, about the middle of the block between Sullivan avenue and Dodder street. Ruth's second home run hit the window on the first bounce. The ball landed east of the center line of the street. The window was 6 by 5 feet and only a sliver of glass remained. The ball, however, did not enter the automobile show room but fell back on the sidewalk and kept rolling. A boy snatched it up before it stopped and he himself did not stop. He legged it down Grand with employees of the motor company chasing him to recover the prize. The youngster was too fast.

Later he appeared at the Yankee clubhouse, together with the possessors of the two other balls that Ruth had soaked for homers on his record-breaking afternoon. The Babe autographed all three, marking them "No. 1, No. 2 and No. 3."

The ball that Ruth hit over the right field pavilion for his first home run was caught by Henry Bascom, 2609 St. Vincent avenue, waiting in Grand boulevard for that purpose.

The window which Ruth smashed has been broken on four other occasions by home runs, but this was the Babe's first offense. The window is insured and each time it is broken the insurance company collects from the ball club.

AFTER the game each day Rogers Hornsby, manager of the Cardinals, and his wife can be found in the quiet of their home at 5308A Maple avenue. The quiet is interrupted frequently by telephone calls of congratulations. Mr. and Mrs. Hornsby consider it their duty to answer each call.

Mrs. Hornsby, who never misses a game at Sportsman's Park, explains the plays to her mother, Mrs. Theresa Pennington, while Hornsby, back in civilian clothes, romps with his little son, Billy, or the police dog or both. It is a happy family, yet a sad one, for as soon as the world series is over Hornsby will go to Texas for his mother's funeral. It was her dying request that he continue playing.

Mrs. Hornsby voices appreciation of the great reception given the Cardinals by St. Louis fans and of the many gifts, including a Lincoln sedan and a police dog, to her husband. She has been presented with a diamond ring and mink coat by Hornsby.

Add to the list of gifts showered upon the Cardinals by their admirers: Fans of Montgomery County, Ill., are collecting a fund for Jim Bottomley, a native of Kokomo, Ill.

The Lions Club called off its regular meeting today to see the Cards tame the Yankees or vice versa, as the case may be.

President Sam Brendon and First Baseman Bottomley of the Cardinals talked to fans via radio.

Advertisements. The other day I heard of a woman who uses a flashlight when she bakes a cake. Instead of reaching into the hot oven and pulling the cake out to look at it, she just flashes the light into the oven without disturbing the cake!

Many a cake has been spoiled by moving it around. To say nothing of burned fingers. The flashlight idea struck me as being pretty good, so I am passing it along.

While I was about it, I would get the finest flashlight possible—a genuine Eveready!

SERIES CONTENDERS SEND AUTOGRAPHED BALLS TO SICK BOY

Eleven-Year-Old New Jersey Lad Promised to Live Till They Arrived.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—Eleven-year-old Johnny Sylvester of Essex Falls, N. J., has lived in hope of seeing the world series games in New York, but two weeks ago he became seriously ill and at length doctors told the parents the boy could not live 30 minutes more. Then to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Sylvester, sitting at his bedside for what they believed to be the last time, Johnny disclosed his most cherished ambition—to have a baseball autographed by some of the Yankee and Cardinal players.

"You wait," promised the father. "I'll get that ball for you."

Johnny agreed to wait. Sylvester is a vice president of the National City Co. and his friends include men who can easily get autographed baseballs. To these men telegrams were sent, explaining the situation. Yesterday two baseballs came by air mail from St. Louis, one from the Cardinals bearing the signatures of most of the players, the other from the Yankees with the signature of most of the Yankee players, including Babe Ruth. Johnny himself cut the string to the package. He sighed and dropped off to sleep, a baseball in each hand.

The doctors say Johnny will recover.

BRITONS SEEKING STRIKE CURB. Move Made to Prevent Repetition of Recent General Walkout.

By the Associated Press. SCARBOROUGH, England, Oct. 7.—The Conservative party conference here today unanimously adopted a resolution urging a change in the trade union law to make the calling of a strike illegal without a secret ballot of the members of the union affected.

The law also would be amended to provide protection of trade union members from intimidation or victimization because of their political beliefs. Adoption of the resolution is a result of pressure from party members for some legal means of preventing such "lightning" labor movements as the recent general strike, in which the men were called out by their leaders without a strike poll first being taken.

station KMOX last night Brendon said he was sorry the St. Louis park could not hold every one, but conceded baseball by radio was next to a seat in the stands. Bottomley thanked the supporters of the Cardinals, and predicted victory for the team in the series.

HITS PUT YANKEES BACK AT EVEN MONEY

Odds of $4 to $5 and Your Pick Are Offered in St. Louis.

Because they came out of a batting slump yesterday and defeated the Cardinals, the Yankees again are even money favorites in the world series. Prior to 1-1-2 favorites.

Betting in St. Louis on the game and on the series was $5, take your pick. In other words a fan put up $5 against $4 of betting commissioner, representing whether the fan was betting on the Cardinals or Yankees in the series. The betting commissioner, however, is the only sure winner, for he manages to equalize his bets and his commission on each is $1.

Because the public generally favored Pennock would pitch for the Yankees yesterday, the betting was lighter than on the previous day, when about $274,000 was wagered, mostly on the Cardinals who won. About $150,000 was here yesterday and the odds switched to the Yankees, and more than $30,000 being placed on the Cardinals, according to Thomas J. Kearney, leading St. Louis betting commissioner. Kearney said betting favored the Yanks today because Pennock was to pitch and he expected not more than $100,000 would be wagered locally.

In New York there was considerable betting on today's game, the fans figured it would be another pitching duel between Pennock and Sherdel. Jack W. Brown, New York commission, reported betting was $9 to $10, your pick. However, the Yankees were slight favorites, 11 to 10.

Water Receding Because of Breaks in Dikes—Illinois River Reached 26 Feet 8 Inches.
BOATS TRANSPORT FOOD INTO CITY
Convey Supplies Across 2 Miles of Water—Broken Main Cuts Off Part of Gas Service.

BEARDSTOWN, Ill., Oct. 7.—The flood which has cut off the railroad service at Beardstown, Ill., has receded to 26 feet 8 inches. The Illinois River, which has been rising since Saturday, is expected to fall Saturday. The flood stage here is 30 feet.

The official forecast predicts no change of consequence from Louisiana to the mouth of the Missouri, and a slow rise below the mouth until Saturday.

The Illinois River has also begun to fall at the headwaters, but is rising gradually from Peru southward, except where levees have broken. The stage today was 23.5 feet at Peru, and is expected to rise to 18.3 feet at Henry and 24.3 feet at Peoria Friday.

Fair weather within the last few days in the Mississippi Valley checked the rising streams, and cause for alarm has been dispelled by a forecast of continued fair weather.

At no time did the rising Mississippi seriously damage property, and only slight damage was suffered by inundation in the lowlands below St. Louis.

OLD FRENCH CHATEAU SOLD AND WILL BE BROUGHT TO U. S.
Copyright, 1926, by the Press and Publishing Co. (New York World and Post-Dispatch).

PARIS, Oct. 7.—Stone by stone the Chateau de Courcelles, between Le Mans and La Flèche, is about to be taken up and shipped to the United States and rebuilt near New York, with all its historic chapel and painted pendings. An American millionaire, whose name has not been disclosed, conceived the idea after he purchased the chateau for a few thousand dollars.

The chateau is in ruins and a fortune would have been needed to make it habitable. Two fortunes were spent in its construction between the year 1640 and the end of the seventeenth century. Francois Mansard, a famous architect, built it and the first owner was Louis de Champlain who ruined himself trying to complete the chateau.

The chapel has figured in many novels. The new owner intends to rebuild the chapel without any modifications.

Arrested for Narcotic Sale.
Mike Tabacci, 22 years old, 3617 Garfield avenue, was arrested last night by Chief Federal Narcotic Agent Thompson after he had sold an ounce of morphine to a woman informer for $65. The money, in marked bills, was found in his possession after the arrest.

Woman at Railroad Office.
Blevins and Daly told Keyes' detectives that a woman entered the railroad telegraph office June 16 and sent a message to Douglas, Ariz., stating the automobile she was traveling in had broken down and that she would take a train. When shown photographs of the evangelist, they identified her as the woman. The District Attorney also said the handwriting on the telegram corresponded to that of Mrs. McPherson.

The District Attorney said Blevins' testimony would be particularly valuable to the case, as it supported previous testimony that Mrs. McPherson rode to a point near Douglas in an automobile, leaving the motor car, to appear in Douglas, June 23, with the story of having escaped from her abductors.

When Mrs. McPherson heard yesterday that the District Attorney needed more money to continue the inquiry, she offered to pay the expenses of the Arizona witnesses.

MISSOURI BANKS' CONDITION SHOWS SOME IMPROVEMENT
Gains Indicated Over Last Call Despite Falling Off of Resources and Deposits.

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 7.—The condition of the state banks and trust companies in Missouri has shown some improvement since last April despite a falling off of $4,679,653 in total resources and a decrease of $6,388,961 in deposits. State Finance Commissioner Cantley said today in making public a consolidated report of the statements of 1360 banks and trust companies, after the bank call of Aug. 25.

Resources of the 1360 banks and trust companies totaled $964,787,601, a decrease of $4,679,653 from the total at the previous call, April 20.

Deposits totaled $776,297,063 Aug. 25, a decrease of $6,388,961 from April 20.

Loans and discounts totaled $540,964,794, a decrease of $7,757,586. This reduction is due in part to removal from the abstract of the loans of banks which have failed recently, and partly to liquidation of loans by the banks. Cantley said.

"The loan report shows some improvement," Cantley said, "and the report as a whole shows conditions are much better than they were a year ago. There is less inflation and the banks as a whole are on a better basis."

16 KILLED BY AUTOS EACH DAY ON AVERAGE THUS FAR IN 1926
By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—Deaths from automobile accidents in 78 of the principal cities of the United States totaled 4162 during the first 26 weeks of 1926. This is an average, the Commerce Department reported today, of more than 16 deaths a day, and is equivalent to an annual death rate of 18.9 for every 100,000 persons.

There was a considerable variation from month to month in the number of fatalities. Starting with 421, in the January period, the total fell off to a minimum of 347 in March, increased to 549 for the four weeks ending June 19, was lower for the next two periods, and increased to a maximum of 650 in the month ending Sept. 12.

Of the 33 largest cities, Kansas City had the lowest mortality rate per 100,000 population, with only one fatality for the 36 weeks for a death rate of 1.2, while Indianapolis had the highest, 59 fatalities, for a death rate of 23.3. Some of the fatalities occurred outside the cities' corporate limits.

WAY FOUND IN INDIA TO MAKE WHITE PAPER FROM BAMBOO
Discoverers Believe District Soon Will Be Able to Supply Large Part of World.

BOBANY, Oct. 7.—Forest research experts in India have discovered how to use bamboo as pulpwood in the manufacture of white paper. The process, it is announced, has been perfected after 15 years' experimenting.

The authorities say that by the new process India soon will be able to supply the paper demands of a large part of the world. The bamboo, looked upon for centuries as a nuisance, now seems destined to assume a prominent place among the national resources of the British Empire. Plans for the erection of pulp mills and paper factories are being fostered by several provincial governments in India.

Lewis Alexander Victim of Melee Provoked by Use of Slapstick by Revelers.

The first fatality resulting from the slapstick activities which marked the parade of the Vellied Prophet Tuesday night was the death last night of Lewis Alexander, a Negro, of 2305 St. Charles street, who was stabbed in the abdomen in the course of a melee on Washington avenue west of Twentieth street.

Alexander was not involved in the fight, which was provoked by application of a slapstick, but was passing by watching the parade, when his assailant, probably mistaking him for someone else, stabbed him and fled. He died in a night at city hospital No. 2.

Endeavoring to trace the Cadillac, detectives arrested an Italian merchant who owns such a car and whose brother is considered a gunman. ARMOUR CO. MOVES TO HALT GRAIN ACT VIOLATION HEARING Validity of Section of Law Attacked and Denial of Constitutional Rights Alleged.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—The Armour Grain Co. today asked the District of Columbia Supreme Court to prevent the hearing ordered for Oct. 11 at Chicago on complaint that the company had been guilty of violating the grain futures trading act.

The complaint was "issued by Secretary Jardine, and alleged that screenings had been mixed with rye by the company, which had caused to be reported as part of the regular elevator stock in Chicago a quantity of rye graded as deliverable on futures contract which, in effect, was not of such a grade. The company was ordered to show cause why contract markets should not refuse it trading privileges.

The suit of the company asks for an injunction against the commission created by the grain futures act, which includes Secretary Jardine, the Board of Trade of Chicago, and Fred Lees, named by Jardine as referee in the case. Validity of the section of the law under which it was summoned to appear is attacked by the company, which asserted it was being denied its constitutional rights.

The complaint was made by Secretary Jardine, who was not at the hearing and passed on a complaint made by him. It was also argued that no trial by jury was granted, and that the company would be required to disclose business secrets.

ADULTS THEFT OF AUTOMOBILE
Illinois Arrested Here When He Tried to Sell Car.

Richard Tankersky, 24 years old, of Mound City, Ill., was turned over to the police yesterday afternoon by Paul Latsch, 3712 Garfield avenue, after Tankersky had attempted to sell him an automobile which he admitted was stolen. Latsch said that Tankersky accepted him in front of the Seventh District Police Station, at Grand boulevard and Magnolia street, offering to sell the car for $100. He became suspicious of the low price and Tankersky readily admitted that it was stolen.

He told police that he had stolen it at 3 o'clock yesterday morning at Harrisburg, Ill. License plates on the automobile were issued to Harry H. Wood of Karnak, Ill.

WOMEN STRUGGLE IN CROWD AT COURT
Fight for Places When Hearing Is Reopened—New Evidence Found by District Attorney.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 7.—A. B. Murchison, from the border country of Arizona, came under the grilling fire of W. G. Albert, chief of defense counsel, when the preliminary hearing of Mrs. Almee Semple McPherson, charged with criminal conspiracy, was resumed in Municipal Court here today.

He then said he traced the evangelist's footsteps in the desert sands of Sonora on the day she disappeared and was certain, from Mrs. McPherson's own story, that she had at no time been more than five miles below the border.

Mrs. McPherson has declared under oath and from her pulpit that she walked 15 or 20 miles over the desert from the shack where she was imprisoned to Agua Prieta, Sonora, just opposite Douglas.

Women Fight to Enter Court.
Long before today's session began scores of persons, mostly women, fought to gain entrance to the courtroom of Judge Samuel R. Blake.

Pictures of the "garita" near which two witnesses have testified they found footprints tallying the slippers worn by the evangelist, were identified by Murchison. This guardhouse, three and a half miles from Agua Prieta, is the farthest point the State has sought to show, that Mrs. McPherson was out in the desert.

District Attorney Keyes today indicated a desire to recount efforts of Fred Harrison, a deep-sea diver, to recover the evangelist's body from Santa Monica Bay.

She was thought to have been when she disappeared May 15, Harrison died of pneumonia after several days of diving and the story of his search will be told by Robert D. Hunt, a fellow diver.

Hired by Evangelist's Mother.
Hunt is expected to testify he was engaged by Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, the evangelist's mother, to aid Harrison in the search for Mrs. McPherson's body, and that he was instructed to continue diving after he had told his employer there was no body in the surf.

Keyes yesterday announced discovery of new evidence, to prove his charge the evangelist was not kidnapped, in the statement of two witnesses from Gila Bend, Ariz., who declare the evangelist passed through there in an automobile about the time she says she was held for ransom. The statements were obtained from F. Blevins, telegraph operator, and Frank Daly, freight agent for the Southern Pacific Railroad at Gila Bend.

Woman at Railroad Office.
Blevins and Daly told Keyes' detectives that a woman entered the railroad telegraph office June 16 and sent a message to Douglas, Ariz., stating the automobile she was traveling in had broken down and that she would take a train. When shown photographs of the evangelist, they identified her as the woman. The District Attorney also said the handwriting on the telegram corresponded to that of Mrs. McPherson.

Arizona Police Officer Who Testified About Footprints in Desert Recalled to Stand.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 7.—A. B. Murchison, from the border country of Arizona, came under the grilling fire of W. G. Albert, chief of defense counsel, when the preliminary hearing of Mrs. Almee Semple McPherson, charged with criminal conspiracy, was resumed in Municipal Court here today.

He then said he traced the evangelist's footsteps in the desert sands of Sonora on the day she disappeared and was certain, from Mrs. McPherson's own story, that she had at no time been more than five miles below the border.

Mrs. McPherson has declared under oath and from her pulpit that she walked 15 or 20 miles over the desert from the shack where she was imprisoned to Agua Prieta, Sonora, just opposite Douglas.

Women Fight to Enter Court.
Long before today's session began scores of persons, mostly women, fought to gain entrance to the courtroom of Judge Samuel R. Blake.

Pictures of the "garita" near which two witnesses have testified they found footprints tallying the slippers worn by the evangelist, were identified by Murchison. This guardhouse, three and a half miles from Agua Prieta, is the farthest point the State has sought to show, that Mrs. McPherson was out in the desert.

Joe Ryan, investigator, has testified that he found the imprint of automobile tire near this spot, with footprints nearby.

District Attorney Keyes today indicated a desire to recount efforts of Fred Harrison, a deep-sea diver, to recover the evangelist's body from Santa Monica Bay.

She was thought to have been when she disappeared May 15, Harrison died of pneumonia after several days of diving and the story of his search will be told by Robert D. Hunt, a fellow diver.

Hired by Evangelist's Mother.
Hunt is expected to testify he was engaged by Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, the evangelist's mother, to aid Harrison in the search for Mrs. McPherson's body, and that he was instructed to continue diving after he had told his employer there was no body in the surf.

Keyes yesterday announced discovery of new evidence, to prove his charge the evangelist was not kidnapped, in the statement of two witnesses from Gila Bend, Ariz., who declare the evangelist passed through there in an automobile about the time she says she was held for ransom. The statements were obtained from F. Blevins, telegraph operator, and Frank Daly, freight agent for the Southern Pacific Railroad at Gila Bend.

Woman at Railroad Office.
Blevins and Daly told Keyes' detectives that a woman entered the railroad telegraph office June 16 and sent a message to Douglas, Ariz., stating the automobile she was traveling in had broken down and that she would take a train. When shown photographs of the evangelist, they identified her as the woman. The District Attorney also said the handwriting on the telegram corresponded to that of Mrs. McPherson.

The District Attorney said Blevins' testimony would be particularly valuable to the case, as it supported previous testimony that Mrs. McPherson rode to a point near Douglas in an automobile, leaving the motor car, to appear in Douglas, June 23, with the story of having escaped from her abductors.

When Mrs. McPherson heard yesterday that the District Attorney needed more money to continue the inquiry, she offered to pay the expenses of the Arizona witnesses.

BUD STILLMAN TO WED SERVANT OF MOTHER'S Family Approves His Choice of Grande Anse, Que., "Bush Girl."

By Leased Wire from the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—James (Bud) Stillman, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Stillman, announces his engagement to Miss Lena Wilson, an 18-year-old daughter of the Canadian woods, who is expected shortly to make her first visit to New York, where she and young Stillman are to be married in the spring.

Miss Wilson has none of the background of social position and affluence which would ordinarily go with a marriage to an heir to the Stillman millions. She is the daughter of a Scotch immigrant who settled in Grande Anse, Quebec. It was in his mother's camp at Grande Anse that Bud Stillman met the girl eight years ago, when she was employed as a servant about the Stillman house. Mrs. Stillman was quoted in dispatches from Grande Anse as saying that her "bush girl" possesses virtues of character rarer than are to be found among wealthy persons. Mrs. Stillman is ardently championing her son's choice and herself picked out the engagement ring on a trip to New York.

Stillman senior at Princeton.

Stillman, a senior at Princeton, smilingly confirmed the news of the betrothal. He is tanned by a summer at Grande Anse, the town which figured so prominently in the divorce action begun by his father, only to end in a reconciliation less than a year ago.

"Lena and I plan to be married in the spring, as soon after my graduation as possible," he said. "Yes, Lena worked in my mother's house. I'm expecting mother and Lena down in a few weeks, before the middle of November, at any rate."

She Went to Grammar School.
Stillman said his fiancée was educated in Canadian grammar schools and in the seven years he had known her they had "lots of fun hiking and swimming." Bud is an excellent swimmer. He has two rescues from drowning to his credit.

Bud Stillman is a brother of the former Anne Stillman, now Mrs. Henry P. Davidson, wife of the son of the late Henry P. Davidson, a partner in the firm of J. F. Morgan & Co. Stillman's brothers are Alexander and Guy. Mrs. Davidson approves the match.

MISS MARTHA LOVE IS CROWNED QUEEN BY VEILED PROPHET

Brilliant Assembly at Ball at Coliseum Which Concluded Mysterious Mon-arch's Reign.

SILVER AND LAVENDER
USED IN DECORATIONS

Throne in Center of Arena Cuts Off View but Brings Royal March Close to Spectators.

The Veiled Prophet, wise wizard as well as mystic monarch, exorcised his subjects at the Coliseum last night of the baseball-madness that possesses them by day.

There, where pennants were so common that every trumpeter had one, the Prophet's slender scepter usurped the potency of the heavy bat. The diamond ballet, aggliter with jewels, charmed away thoughts of the greensward diamond, waiting for the morrow's throne. And the question was not,
"What's the score?" but "Who's the Queen?"

In answer to that question, the herald twice announced to the more than 6,000 persons present—although all heard his resonant broadcasting tones the first time:

"His Mysterious Majesty, the Veiled Prophet, in his great wisdom, has selected the fairest maid of his beloved city of St. Louis to reign as Queen of his Court of Love and Beauty until his coming again. He commands his loyal subjects to do homage to his Queen, Miss Martha Love."

Court in Center of Arena.

The Court to which the Prophet, about to end his forty-seventh visit, introduced the dark-haired young social favorite as his new Queen, was truly one of magnificence. Hues of silver and lavender, pervading the whole interior, did not lead up, as in past years, to a throne space at one end of the hall, but converged upon the center of the arena, where four tall pillars inclosed the Court.

These silver-based pillars, their outlines and capitals borrowed from the piazzetta of St. Mark's in Venice, were so fine that one could almost forgive the visual obstruction which they created. The inclosed central court greeted an effect not unlike that of the Spanish and Mexican cathedrals, in which the high altar occupies the central space.
Such an arrangement gives grandeur, but it also breaks the continuity of the view. Fortunately, the Prophet's court, unlike a cathedral, is built anew every year, and it is not likely that this year's experiment will be repeated in quite the same fashion.

Since all could not see at once, the promenades which make up a large part of the ball's ceremonial were taken around the arena. This gave a certain compensation, for the Queen and her maids came nearer to the balcony guests than they would come in the former route up a central aisle.

Many Could Not See Ballet.
The ballet, however, was hidden from a large part of the balcony, but was seen by most of those looking from the higher angle of gallery seats.

The lighting system began to set the overhead silver squares to shimmering soon after the balcony and gallery had been filled at 8 o'clock. At either end of the arena were tall clusters of silver rays, which were not, however, to be lighted to their fullest until the Queen's appearance.

As the orchestra, in a depressed space at the west of the central court, began its program, the members of the Prophet's committee, ribbed like diplomats, gathered near the southwest entrance. Their errand was to lead in the former queens, and the ladies of honor and maids of honor of the present occasion.

The silver of the decorations was reflected in the hair of some of the matrons, as well as of the escorting committeemen. Ballgoers of former years recognized and applauded the former queens as they moved about the elliptical path between the court and the arena boxes, used this year for the first time. The young maids of honor, in their brighter gowns, came last, each with an escort.

Thereafter, the place of ceremonial entrance was the north door, where trumpeters in the costume of heralds waited. The first welcoming blast was for the Prophet's Krewes, the comic strip folk who had ridden on floats in the parade of the night before.
Each of these was on the arm of a committee member, or had a committee member on his arm, for informality entered more into this march than into any other feature of the evening.

Parade of the Comedians.
Even for those who had seen the parade, there were some unfamiliar figures, minor characters in the daily and weekly comedies, who required the identifying titles which they were not displaying. The chief characters were readily recognized, and hailed by name at various points of the promenade.
With the lavender-draped seating space of the court filled, it was time for someone to take the throne, and the still reigning Queen, Miss Maud Miller Street, was applauded as she was escorted to the highest seat.

The ballet, done by Mile. Centella and ensemble, was in the style of costume and posture made familiar by stage revues and dance spectacles. Gold, emerald and even pearl, were included among the precious stones of under-earth, which joined in forming a setting for the emergence of Diamond, and her love episode with a mortal.
The scene ended in a flame-developed descent to the lower depths, lights and draperies furnishing the illusion of fire-waves.
"Stars and Stripes Forever," blared the orchestra, and the Veiled Prophet's Guard, black-bearded and carrying rather ordinary swords instead of the promised Cossack sabers, appeared ahead of their master.

Prophet Wears Glasses.

The Prophet's veil is fairly baffling to the curious, but sharp-eyed children, seeing the parade the night before, had exclaimed, "He wears glasses!" Scrutiny last night showed that much, and no more.
The usual Oriental train followed him—high priests, almoner, herald, jewel-bearer. The title of the almoner in one who distributes gifts for another, and this one, some surmised, might have world series tickets in his chest of largess, particularly as Branch Rickey was one of the red-ribboned committeemen who had been seen near him. But the hope was illusory.

A pretty page in white, who had been last in the Prophet's train, began to move between his throne and the herald's seat, after the Prophet had greeted the reigning Queen. Each of the messages was repeated twice by the herald, with uplifted hand, facing first east, then west.

The first was a command to Miss Dorothy Maxwell, who appeared as one of the special maids of honor.
Her bouquet of 49 roses, one for each year since the Prophet's first visit in 1878, was of a color corresponding to the dark red of her train. Miss Anne Kennard Wallace, next of the special maids to be summoned, carried a yellow bouquet and a train of green. Similar variations were repeated by the other special maids, Misses Elizabeth Scudder and Margaret Rumsey. The maids entered in the inverse order of their rank, Miss Rumsey being designated officially as first special maid.

In their entrance, the special maids alternated between the two sides of the arena, two turning to the left and two to the right to begin the circuit.

Crowning the Queen.
As the herald proclaimed the name of Miss Martha Love as the chosen Queen, the silver rays at either end of the arena received their full burst of illumination.
Miss Love, in ermine-trimmed white and with three tiny pages, and bearing a rich cluster of rare orchids, received the fullest tribute of admiration, the entire gathering rising as J.
Herndon Smith conducted her to the throne. The coronation ceremony for which the new Queen knelt before the throne, was observed for many by the great peacock fans of attendants, and the forms of the surrounding Krewes.

The Meyerbeer "Coronation March," royally befitting this occasion, was the accompaniment.
All the bouquets were from Shaw's Garden.

Dancing After the Ceremony.
The remaining ceremonial was anticlimax. "Dancing" was the last word in the program, and many, as in past year, departed early to do their dancing in hotel ballrooms.
The royal court tarried a little while, the former Queens receiving formal attention from the Prophet and his Queen, and the maids of honor making obeisance. The motley-clad Krewes danced with the maids before the beginning of general dancing, shortly after 11 o'clock.

For the first time in recent memory, tuxedos and black ties were worn by some of the guests admitted to the main floor and balcony.
These were mostly young men, who find a "tux" sufficient for their other social needs, and do not see why they should buy a swallowtail coat for one night in the year.

The principal escorts of the evening, besides the Queen's escort, were Sterling E. Edmunds with Miss Rumsey, Claude Kennerly with Miss Scudder, Harold Kauffman with Miss Wallace, Thomas W.
White with Miss Maxwell, and Harrison Hoblitzelle with Miss Street.

RUSH FOR CUT-RATE TICKETS SENDS THE PRICES UP AGAIN

Seats Sold at Gate as High as $20;
Scalpers' Quote $15

The market for world series tickets was reported bullish this morning and scalpers were recovering from their panic of Tuesday when, left with tickets on hand at game time, they sold $6.50 grandstand seats for as low as $2.50 at the park gates and general admission $3.50 tickets for as low as $1.
Publicity given this weakening on the scalpers' part made early sales yesterday extremely difficult.
Prospective purchasers, reading of the come-down at the gates, held off and rushed to Sportsman's Park a short while before game time to snap up tickets at cost or below. Alas, so many did this that the scalpers were confronted by a large and eager crowd. Prices skyrocketed immediately and some tickets sold for $20 each.

Last-minute sales yesterday proving so encouraging, downtown ticket brokers this morning set their prices at $15 up for single reserved seats. Many were sold for $15, $17.50 and $20. Sales were moving briskly up to 10 a. m. From that time on there was a lessening of interest and prices dropped somewhat. But all the scalpers along Seventh, Sixth streets and Broadway reported that they would be able to dispose of their stock at handsome profits. One scalper estimated that $10 would be the lowest price a ticket would sell for today.

THE debut of some 45 or 50 maidens singled out by the Velled Prophet as his entries in the race for favor in the social season about to open, is also the occasion seized upon by modistes and fashion creators for the presentation of the new season's modes.

They have taken the most of the opportunity and last night at the ballroom outdid themselves in the variety and scope of their offerings.

However ancient and doddering grows the Prophet himself, the whims of the women, who recurrently come to his court, are ever new and in the latest style—after all, the parade of fashion remains the most general, if not the primary, purpose for which the scene is set.

Accepting as the most authoritative and authentic patterns of the mode, the gowns of the newly crowned Queen, her four special maids and her abdicating predecessor, should be described first.

Queen Martha's Gown.
As she made her triumphant progress round the arena Miss Martha's gown, though much obscured by the long and broad court train of ermine-bordered white velvet, and the huge bouquet of rare orchids, was seen to be of white silk cut on simple, short flaring lines, sparkling all over with rhinestones and mirror-glass spangles. Upon her dark parted coiffure she wore a diadem of brilliantia presented to be discarded for the Prophet's coronet.

Only an advance view in the dressing room enables a description of the gowns of the special maids so submerged were they when they made their formal appearance by accessories provided by the designers of the spectacle. These Italian Renaissance fire screens, chair backs or whatever they were attached to their backs, may have had some royal significance or been intended to provide a becoming background, but they succeeded most of the time in hiding the pretty heads, and two gowns, one of crimson or emerald green velvet and one of gold lace, depending from these remarkable appendages, together with enormous bouquets with broad streamers, all but concealed the pretty gowns beneath.

Costumes of Maids.
Upon closer inspection, the gown of Miss Margaret Rumsey, first maid of honor, was found to be of white chiffon over silver tulle heavily beaded with seed pearls and iridescent sequins. It was cut with a deep V-neck, back and front, the bodice slightly flared and knee-length skirt flaring by means of godets.

That of Miss Elizabeth Scudder, second maid, was of white panne velvet, made with long-waisted, well-fitting bodice, full gathered skirt, short in front and ankle length at sides and back, cut in deep scallops showing a silver lining. The skirt was elaborately embroidered in brilliantia, pearls and silver, and there were traceries of the same jewels upon the bodice.

Miss Anne Wallace's gown was a model of white satin and chiffon, embroidered in rhinestones and drop pearls and that of Miss Dorothy Maxwell a bouffant one of heavy silver lace bespangled and lined with rhinestones.

Miss Maud Streett, retiring maid, looking very much as if she had enjoyed her reign, was radiant in a gown of metal cloth leading from delicate peach to deep apricot. It was cut on scant closely draped lines and was short except for a double train depending from jeweled cabochons at the low waistline in the back.

Usually one or more distinct styles emerge at the V. P. ball to indicate conclusively the trend of fashion's thought, but last night the fashion's trend seemed to be in every direction.

Never have I noted so many contradictory and conflicting modes. Lines are so varied that there is no excuse for any woman of whatever figure, age or type not choosing a becoming costume.

There were straight and short and flaring and bouffant ones. There were very short skirts and there were long ones; full gathered skirts of style which reached the ankles at sides and back though they might rise quite high at the waist. And there were some gowns built upon long clinging lines.

There were the closely cropped cuttares to which we have become accustomed but there were a surprising number with ends tucked at the back indicating that the young, particularly the younger ones, were letting their hair grow.

It was an odd inconsistency that

RADIO FANS JUBILANT TILL YANKS GET GOING

Cardinals' Slipping Soon Reflected in Dwindling of Crowds Downtown.

More than 300 fans "watched" the Yankees' triumph from roof-top bleachers miles away from Sportsman's Park. It was at the Boatmen's Bank Building, where tenants and employees had seats at least as comfortable as those at the ball park, with "pop" ready at their elbows, while they listened to Graham McNamee's report by radio over K S D.

Enthusiasm ran high among the radio rooters in the early part of the game. Babe Ruth's first two homers didn't bother them a bit, and neither did the 3 to 1 score in the middle of the fourth inning. Tuesday's victory had made them confident. When the three runs came through in the last part of the fourth, paper snow began swirling down over radio bleachers at Seventh and St. Charles streets, on a dozen street corners, the tumult coming in over the loud speakers was drowned in a jubilant shout, and a few hats were tossed.

Many more had gathered than for Tuesday's report by K S D. There probably were 3000 or more on downtown streets. More than 1000 gathered at Eighth and Olive, with some hundreds more around on the Locust street side of the Federal Building. But, as the Yankees walked away with the game, Cardinal fans walked away from the bitter tale. The crowd at the Federal Building, for example, dwindled by one-third when the Yankees led, 3 to 4.

One establishment, which, by megaphone, relayed the radio report of Tuesday's game to a few, yesterday had procured a loud speaker which drew about 200. Another had given the megaphone to a "wise cracker" with a "line" almost as "thick" as McNamee's. A third, with his megaphone in the hands of an ardent and popular Cardinal fan, had drawn the crowd from a competing megaphone across the street.

CULTURE AN ARISTOCRATIC HERITAGE, RABBI ASSERTS
Three-fourths of College Students Ought to Be Sent to Work, Garry August Says.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 7.—
"Modern colleges with their narrow emphasis on standardization destroy the very purpose of a liberal education," said Rabbi Garry August of Gary, Ind., in an address here last night of "Education of the New Age" before the convention of the Missouri Parent Teachers' Association.

"Culture, despite all attempts of demagogues, and some educators still is an aristocratic heritage," he said. "Three-fourths of the students ought to be sent to work instead of being permitted to clutter up college halls."
He declared the chief aim in educating the child should be creation of a tolerant, broadminded attitude, and the next aim should be achievement of a reverent attitude toward the arts and sciences. "The pulpit, with a few honorable exceptions, is still intent on wrecking whatever reverence for truth the educators of past years have been enabled to graft on the soul of the present generation," he asserted.

PROPHET'S BALL
FASHION DISPLAY DELIGHTS THE EYE

While most of the matrons wore the short skirt, the longer ones of the quaint period gowns were affected by the debutantes.

There were long and short and "normal" waisted gowns, tight-fitting and bloused bodices and still some straight-line, beltless models. The robes de style, or period gowns, usually had the tight waisted bodices.

There was a great deal of velvet of the new chiffon-backed weave, some broad velvet, some metal brocades and shot lames, some tulle and some chiffon gowns.

Sparkling Ornaments Popular.
No material predominated to any appreciable extent unless it was the rhinestones, beads and sequins which sparkled upon almost every gown. Several debutantes wore frocks cut upon simple English lines but built entirely of silver or gold sequins, and there were a number of net gowns embroidered all over with beaded patterns. There were lots of gold and silver laces of filmy or heavy texture, used to make an entire frock or in combination with satin and velvet.

There were many hair ornaments, tiaras, wreaths, combs of brilliant, but just as many coifures beautifully waved and left without further embellishment. In these days, when so much is done by the makers of costume jewelry to simulate the real thing, poor indeed is the woman who cannot be lavishly bedizened with jewels. Last night there were besides the plaques, baroquets, necklaces, earrings of precious stones, many remarkable examples of the jeweler's art done in semiprecious stones and metals.

Slippers were usually of gold or silver lacquered leather or brocade unless worn with black gowns when they were of black satin with rhinestone-studded heels. Stockings in any case were of the sheer-est chiffon and palest tones of flesh, gold and silver and atmospheric shades.

WILLIAMS' DEATH ACCIDENT

Coroner's Jury Suggests Life-Saving Hoists for Police.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 7.—A coroner's jury has returned a verdict of accidental death in the drowning of Col. Alexander S. Williams, Marine Corps, who plunged into the bay in his closed automobile last week.

The jury found that had the police department been equipped with proper hoisting apparatus, Williams' car could have been speedily raised to the surface and his life possibly saved.

ADVERTISMENTSKINNY MEN THIS BEATS RECORD

He Gained 28 Pounds in 8 Weeks—Good, Solid, Healthy Flesh, Too

In every town in America you can see skinny, scrawny men and women with deep hollows in cheeks, neck and chest who are more to be pitied than blamed.

Doctors, Chemists, Scientists all agree that Cod Liver Oil is full of flesh building, health promoting, strength increasing vitamins. They also agree and that it is about the most evil smelling and nasty tasting, nauseating stuff that human beings come in contact with—upsets most stomachs.

But now all that is changed—Cod Liver Oil comes in tablet form, sugar coated and as easy to take as candy.

Wolf-Wilson Drug Stores and druggists everywhere sell McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets with the distinct understanding that if any thin, lean, underweight man or woman takes them for 30 days and does not gain at least 5 pounds the purchase price will be returned.

Just try them for 30 days, all you folks who need 5 or 10 pounds of good, solid flesh. They have rounded out the scrawny places in thousands of people—they will help you.

Stanley E. Howe, Atlantic City, N. J. writes that he gained 28 pounds in 8 weeks and further writes, "I sleep, rest and eat and nothing bothers my nerves. I feel like a real man—thanks to McCoy's."

One woman, exceedingly thin, gained 10 pounds in 22 days, and don't forget that, being full of vitalizing vitamins, they do help feeble old folks who need a real tonic, and for thin, puny, undeveloped children—they quickly bring health, strength and increased weight. 60 tablets for 60 cents. Inset on McCoy's—the original and genuine.

RULES NEW YORK RESIDENCE HOTELS ARE 'TENEMENTS'

City Commissioner Holds That Under Law Apartments Cannot Operate "Serving Pantries."

ROOMS FOR FOOD HAVE NO WINDOWS

Thereby, He Rules, They Violate Law Regulating Kitchens—Will File Vacating Order.

By Leased Wire from the N. Y. Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—The domestic arrangements of 15,000 of New York's wealthiest families are jeopardized by a ruling of Walter C. Martin, Tenement House Commissioner, that apartment hotels of the new type—where each suite has a serving pantry—are illegal.

More than 150 sumptuous apartment hotels built during the last two years, including the Park Lane and Arthur Brisbane's 42 story Ritz tower, are affected by this ruling.

An order to vacate one apartment hotel will be issued within a few days, Commissioner Martin said last night in order to test the ruling in the courts. Meanwhile the Bureau of Buildings has threatened to withhold certificates of occupancy, thereby preventing renters if in apartment hotels now being completed from taking possession of their quarters.

With $500,000,000 worth of property at stake, apartment hotel owners have organized an Apartment Hotel Owners' Association to grapple with the situation.

No Interference With Cooking.

The apartment hotels constructed to meet the building requirements for hotels come within the limits of the tenement house law, under Commissioner Martin's ruling whenever their individual service pantries are used for cooking. Although leases for apartments in these buildings prohibit cooking, all facilities for cooking, except a stove, are provided. According to the commissioner, renting agents make it plain that there will be no interference with cooking.

Theoretically the service pantry is merely a place from which food sent from the hotel kitchens may be served. In order that food may be kept warm, plugs are provided—to which electric stoves may be attached.

The typical serving pantry is a small inner room having shelves, a refrigerator, a sink, an electric plug and a vent for odors from the food.

Managers of apartment hotels and Commissioner Martin agree that persons who can pay from $1000 a year up for each room like to have breakfast and sometimes others meals cooked in their apartments.

Kitchens Must Have Windows.

According to the tenement house law, every kitchen must have a window opening either to the outside or a lawful court. Nearly all the service pantries in the apartment hotels are without windows.

If, as Commissioner Martin has ruled, apartment hotels are tenements, they violate the law in many respects. A hotel may occupy 90 per cent of the parcel of land on which it stands, a tenement only 70 per cent unless it is on a corner. Every apartment in a tenement must have two exits and, in addition, two separate routes for escape in case of fire. In a tenement every bathroom must have a window.

Because of these and other provisions, tenement houses cost about 50 per cent more to construct than apartment hotels of the same grade.

If Commissioner Martin is sustained in the courts, the easiest escape for the apartment hotels is to remove facilities for cooking from their service pantries. One of the important builders in this field, however, yesterday expressed fear that this would impair the attractiveness of this type of apartment.

Dr. Irving Fisher, Yale Economist Says Bondholders Lose.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 7.—The dollar today is worth only 68 pre-war cents, Dr. Irving Fisher, of the Economics Department of Yale University, said in an address before the convention of the American Groceries Specialty Manufacturers yesterday.

"People who do not really want to be humbugged must not accept the dollar at its face value," he said. "They must translate it into purchasing power before they can properly compare figures. Our unstable dollar has picked the pockets of the stockholder. When prices are rising the stockholder wins from the bondholder. And when prices are falling the bondholder wins from the stockholder. The bondholder's 'steady income' is a delusion and a snare, so long as we do not stabilize our dollar."

CITY FIREMAN ARRESTED IN SALOON ROW RELEASED

Proprietor Says Incident Was Result of Misunderstanding With His Bartender.
Charles McCabe and William Hies, city firemen, arrested Sunday night, following a report to police of an incident in the saloon of James Egan, 3114 Geraldine avenue, in which the saloon cash register had been taken into the street and broken, have been released by police and discharged on their bonds in the Court of Criminal Correction, an prosecution in the case having been withdrawn. Egan, who was not in the saloon at the time of the incident, told police the whole affair was a misunderstanding between the firemen and his bartender. The firemen, he said, had visited the saloon seeking him to get some information about some world series tickets, when a general fight started. The firemen denied having touched the register.

MAGILL SAYS DRY LEAGUE PROPOSED DEAL WITH HIM

Declares He Was Offered Support for Senate in 1928 if He Would Support Smith.

ASSAILS SMITH AND BRENNAN

Declares Both Are "Tarred With Same Stick" in Accepting Funds From Utility Heads.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Oct. 7.—Hugh S. Magill, independent candidate for United States Senator in a written statement last night said he was approached last Saturday by George B. Safford, superintendent of the Illinois Anti-Saloon League, with a request that he withdraw his candidacy in favor of Frank L. Smith, Republican nominee.

Magill said he refused, declaring that "public honesty" was the real issue in this campaign, and was informed by Safford that he was "too idealistic" and that the question was one of "practical politics." Magill said that Safford told him that he might have the support of the Anti-Saloon League as a candidate for Senator in 1928 if Smith were elected and later unseated by the Senate and if Magill would agree to withdraw now.

Assails Smith and Brennan.
In an earlier statement, Magill said that Smith and George E. Brennan had been "tarred by the same stick" and made charges of political corruption against both his Republican and Democratic opponents, the Anti-Saloon League and Gov. Len Small. The statement said:

"What is the spectacle which the eyes of the nation behold when they look upon Illinois today? They see a Governor at the head of the State administration who, while State Treasurer, appropriated to his own use more than $1,000,000 of State funds, and more than five years later has not rendered an accounting."

Magill then took up the findings of the Senate campaign fund investigating committee and charged that Smith had violated the laws of the State when he accepted campaign contributions from public utility heads while he was chairman of the Illinois Commerce Commission. He said that Smith should have been deposed from office and prosecuted for violating the law.

"Shocking Spectacle."
"The people of the nation," he said, "now behold the shocking spectacle of the leaders of the Anti-Saloon League appealing to church people to stultify their consciences, to disregard all sense of public decency and honesty, and vote for Mr. Smith, even though he is supported by a wet machine in Chicago and by Gov. Small."
"The people of Illinois cannot remedy this shameful condition by voting for the Democratic candidate, Mr. Brennan. He, too, accepted campaign contributions from the public utilities of the State, and is tarred with the same stick as Mr. Smith. He asks election on a platform of the nullification of the Constitution by repealing the laws providing for its enforcement."

KRESGE DIVORCE TRIAL SOON

Wife Has Until Oct. 15 to Answer Husband's Petition.

By the Associated Press.
DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 7.—Indications that Doris Mercer Kresge may not contest the divorce suit brought against her by S. S. Kresge, five and ten-cent store magnate, is disclosed in an announcement by Kresge's attorney here.

Mrs. Kresge must file an appearance in court here before Oct. 15 or the decree will be granted without contest under Michigan law. Paul W. Voorhees, Kresge's attorney, declared. The statutes require an appearance be entered within 30 days. Kresge's suit was filed July 15. Voorhees said Mrs. Kresge, whose home is in New York, has not engaged local counsel, so far as he knows. Kresge's bill of complaint is locked in the vault of the County Clerk's office here and the charges have not been made public.

APPENDIX SHOWN IN COURT

Alleged Illinois Mail Robber's Trial Put Off.

By the Associated Press.
SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Oct. 7.—The appendix of Joseph Melling of Springfield, displayed in Federal court yesterday in a glass jar, corroborated the defendant's claim that he would be unable to go on trial at this time on a charge of participation in the Chicago and Alton mail hold-up here April 1, 1923.

When counsel for Melling asserted that he would be unable to appear as a result of a major operation, Judge Louis Fitz Henry ordered an investigation. The appendix, removed Tuesday at a local hospital, was accordingly produced in court and his case was promptly continued as to Melling.

14 year old girl does family wash

"I got clothes whiter than ever did — with much less trouble."

WHEN my mother was sick, I had to do all the housework. I use Rinso so that I wouldn't worry about the wash.

She said, "Just soak all the clothes in Rinso suds and you won't have a hard rubbing to do."

So on Monday I did just as she told me, and the clothes came out beautifully.

Mother said they were whiter and cleaner than she ever got them with her hours of rubbing! Even badly soiled spots got snowy white after a try between my fingers. I had no more work at all.

Even in the hard water here, Rinso is all mother now needs on washing her clothes, chips or water soiled — just Rinso. Her hands are never now. And she says clothes last longer, too, for there's no scrubbing against the board. Ask your grocer today for Rinso.

The granulated soap that makes clothes whiter — no scrubbing.

She Could Not Have Done With Pile

By the Associated Press.
DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 7.—Indications that Doris Mercer Kresge may not contest the divorce suit brought against her by S. S. Kresge, five and ten-cent store magnate, is disclosed in an announcement by Kresge's attorney here.

Mrs. Kresge must file an appearance in court here before Oct. 15 or the decree will be granted without contest under Michigan law. Paul W. Voorhees, Kresge's attorney, declared. The statutes require an appearance be entered within 30 days. Kresge's suit was filed July 15. Voorhees said Mrs. Kresge, whose home is in New York, has not engaged local counsel, so far as he knows. Kresge's bill of complaint is locked in the vault of the County Clerk's office here and the charges have not been made public.

When counsel for Melling asserted that he would be unable to appear as a result of a major operation, Judge Louis Fitz Henry ordered an investigation. The appendix, removed Tuesday at a local hospital, was accordingly produced in court and his case was promptly continued as to Melling.

BAN DECLARED IN PITTSBURG ON ALL SUNDAY SPORTS

Director of Public Safety Announces He Will Enforce Blue Laws of 1794, Long Ignored.

TO CLOSE GOLF LINKS AND TENNIS COURTS

Order Forbids Sunday Sale of Tobacco and Candy—Decision Follows Protest Against Football.

By the Associated Press.
PITTSBURG, Pa., Oct. 7.—Pittsburg today faced the prospect of a sportless Sunday with a ban on Sunday sales of tobacco and confections a strong probability.

Invoking the "blue laws" of 1794, ignored for more than a century by police officials, James M.
Clark, Director of Public Safety, yesterday prohibited the playing of any Sunday sports, including football, baseball, golf, tennis and quits, and then declared he would enforce every phase of the "blue laws" which ban all Sunday activity but that "necessary for life."

Talk of applying for an injunction to prevent carrying out of the director's order was heard in football circles, but nothing definite along that line yet has been done.
Doubt whether such an injunction could be obtained was expressed by Samuel H. Gardner, District Attorney of Allegheny County.

Golf and Tennis Under Ban.

Under the director's order, all Pittsburg golf courses and tennis courts, whether on public or private property, will be closed on Sunday unless legal efforts forestall Clark's move.

If Clark goes ahead with his plans to enforce literally all phases of the "blue laws," all stores in the city will have to close with the exception of drug stores which, however, will be allowed to sell only medicinal supplies.

Some doubt was expressed whether he had the authority to issue such a drastic order.

The campaign against Sunday sports began a week ago when a minister protested the playing of football near his church on Sunday.
Director Clark ordered that game and all others stopped and two Police Lieutenants have been suspended for failure to enforce his order.

Questioned concerning the ban, Clark said that if it "proved obnoxious to the people it is their privilege to go to the Legislature and get the measure repealed," adding, however, that all such attempts in the past had failed.

Thinks Order Won't Last.

W. C. Fowles, president of the United States Golf Association, said he didn't think the order would "last very long."

"Sunday is the only time the working man has to play a game," he declared.

Although he was not consulted before the director's order was issued, Mayor Charles H. Kline, a Sunday golfer, said he would obey it the same as any other citizen.

Director Clark's order found little favor with District Attorney Gardner. He said that unless he received some specific complaint he would take no action to stop Sunday football in Allegheny County, of which Pittsburg is a part.

So far no such complaint has been made, the District Attorney said, and he added that even though a protest should be made against Sunday football he would take no action against golf or tennis on that day in the county. Golf and tennis, District Attorney Gardner said, "are both quiet games and never bring about complaints from the neighbors."

Blue Laws Invoked to Stop Golf and Baseball Sales on Sunday.

By the Associated Press.
DOVER, N. H., Oct. 7.—Blue laws which last Sunday were invoked to prevent a baseball game, now threaten other sports and trades. A petition bearing 700 names asks the state Attorney-General, Jeremy Waldron, to stop everything from golf to gasoline sales on Sundays. The Rev. Lester Holmes, pastor of the Baptist Church, moved to end Sunday baseball by petitioning Gov. Winant.

PASTOR HELPS BLIND SINGER

$3000 to Develop Man's Voice.

By the Associated Press.
MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Oct. 7.

Joseph M. Kimball, who less than three years ago was a blind street singer, will go to New York next Sunday to complete the training of his voice. He owes his chance to the Rev. H. L. Maunder, ered possibilities in his voice.

Assisted by his congregation, the Rev. Mr. Maunder financed Kimball's preliminary training, and now has raised $3000 needed to permit
Kimball to study for 10 months.

SAW BROWNS IN '88 FROM CLUBHOUSE ROOF

E. M. Rowe Recalls Days When People Didn't Believe Curve Ball Possible.

Included in the group of out-of-town fans who have been forced to pay scalpers' prices for world series seats is Edgar M. Rowe, an automobile dealer of Little Rock, Ark., who, as a youth of 18 years, sat on the clubhouse roof in the old Browns' Park and watched Chris von der Ahe's champions win their fourth pennant in '88.

Rowe, then living in Charleston, Mo., came to St. Louis then with five friends to see the pennant-winning Browns in action. After paying for general admission tickets the Charleston group found that the only available seats were on the roof of the clubhouse in right field, and it was from this point of vantage that they watched Charles Comiskey, now owner of the Chicago White Sox, "Tip" O'Neil, Dave Fouts, Bill Gleason and other old-time baseball stars in action. It was hot on the clubhouse roof and Rowe laughingly tells how he and his friends lowered a rope to vendors of real beer and hoisted up refreshments.

Baseball and baseball crowds have changed since that day. "The game has progressed wonderfully," Rowe told a Post-Dispatch reporter. "I remember when baseball fans argued that it was impossible for pitchers to throw a curve ball. They said it couldn't be done. And the fans, while probably not more enthusiastic than now, went in for 'blood.' I recall amateur games in Charleston where the spectators went armed and visiting players carried blackjacks and brass knuckles in their pockets for protection. When a visiting team won a ball game it was usually chased out of town, and woe to the umpire who made a mistake."

Rowe is one of the legion of fans who requested reservations for the series and received "regrets." He is at Hotel Statler with a group of Cardinal supporters from Arkansas, including Governor-elect Martineau.

NEGRO ENTERS PARIS SCHOOL

Lenis Blanche, 50, First of His Race to Be Admitted.

By the Associated Press.
PARIS, Oct. 7.—A Negro pupil has just been admitted to the Higher Normal School for the first time in its long history. He is Lenis Blanche, a native of the Island of Guadeloupe. He is 50 years old. Blanche admitted to the Journal that in his younger days he was inclined to play truant from school until his father, who was a public school teacher, fired his pride by telling him it was his duty on behalf of other Negroes, less gifted by nature or fortune, to demonstrate the intellectual equality of races. He says he never let up in his work until he won the right to sit in the lecture rooms, through which have passed most of the greatest minds of France during the last century.

BELGIUM EXPECTS AMERICAN AID IN STABILIZING FRANC

By the Associated Press.
BRUSSELS, Oct. 7.—The Belgian Government, under the dictatorial powers recently conferred upon it by Parliament, is expected to announce shortly a plan for the stabilization of the Belgian franc.

WOMAN ATTORNEY SUES

ESTATE FOR $1500 IN FEES

Says Advice to New Thought League Associate Manager Saved Money and Litigation.

Suit for $1500 attorney's fees was filed yesterday by Mrs. Bertha Jay Bremer, attorney, against the estate of Miss Paulina Kuntze, 509 North Newstead avenue, associate manager of the St. Louis New Thought League, who died March 8.

During the year before Miss Kuntze's death, Mrs. Bremer alleges, she advised her concerning German bonds, United Railways reorganization, an unauthorized entry of the Kuntze apartment by a janitor, a "serious squabble" with a neighbor who threatened suit, and finally in the writing of her will. Her services, the attorney contends, saved Miss Kuntze several thousand dollars and much litigation.

Miss Kuntze's will left her property to Miss Harriet C. Hulick, an intimate friend, as executrix. Apparently, she intended to leave the property to Miss Hulick to dispose of according to privately expressed wishes, but the terms were vague and it is expected a suit will be filed to interpret it.

MUSSOLINI'S ORGAN FAVORS CONCORDAT WITH VATICAN

Says Question of Temporal Power of Pontiff Cannot Be Reopened, but Agreement Is Possible.

ROME, Oct. 7.—That a concordat should be concluded between Italy and the Vatican is the substance of an apparently inspired article published by Popolo D'Italia, organ of Premier Mussolini.

The newspaper says Italy has closed the cycle of her national wars, has completed her task of unification, and is preparing for the second period of her power. "The loss of the Vatican's temporal power in 1870 cannot again be discussed, at any rate it is irreparable," the paper adds. Daily necessities have produced a modus vivendi between the church and state which is tolerable to both.

The Italian Fascists realize the duty of respecting their church, and are proud that Rome will not be replaced as the seat of the Pontiff, the paper says. For these reasons, with good will on both sides, it is possible to reach a concordat giving tranquility to Italian Catholics.

CHICAGO ELEVATED RAILROAD WINS PUBLIC RELATIONS PRIZE

Galveston-Houston Electric Gets Trophy for Maintaining Fastest Regular Schedule.

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 7.—The Chicago Rapid Transit Co., the elevated railroads of Chicago, was awarded a silver cup at the closing session of the convention of the American Electric Railway Association on being adjudged the electric railway of the country which during the last year has made the greatest progress in the advancement of its public relations.

The committee of judges, composed of men outside the industry awarded second prize to the Pittsburgh Railways Co. and third place to the Pennsylvania-Ohio Electric Co.

Competing in a field of 23 interurban railroads, the Galveston-Houston Electric Railway, Galveston, Tex., was awarded the annual speed cup prize, offered to the company maintaining the fastest regular schedule between terminals. The Galveston-Houston company makes a run of 50 miles in one hour and 15 minutes, including six stops, or an average speed of 49.3 miles per hour.

BILLY SUNDAY SUCCESSFULLY GROWS FIGS IN OREGON SOIL

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
LONGVIEW, Wash.—The Rev. William A. Sunday, renowned evangelist, has succeeded admirably in growing figs on his Hood River, Ore., ranch, he related here last Sunday when he held two services.

"For years I have read and preached about the fig and fig trees from Holy Writ, and five years ago I planted imported trees of this fruit down there in Hood River soil. This fall there is a good crop of white figs.

"My apples, pears, and other crops surpass any previous year. One tenth of the income from the Oregon ranch goes into the Lord's treasury and the time is increasing year by year."

$10,000 Bond in Fatal Auto Case.
Judge George Crow of the St. Clair County Circuit Court yesterday admitted John J. Selbel was arrested following the death of Catherine Shay, 4 years old, of East St. Louis. He was driving his automobile across the sidewalk to turn into the driveway at his home on South Twenty-ninth street, East St. Louis, when the car struck the child.

BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 7.—William Niemoth, Chicago gangster and beer runner, has been identified by three persons from a photograph as one of the four men who robbed payroll messengers of the Henry Sonneborn Co. last Friday of $46,678. FIRST ILLINOIS RIVER BOAT FROM ST. LOUIS WAS TOWED Pulled by Five Frontiersmen Hitched to Rope 300 Feet Long, Diary Reveals.

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Oct. 6.—The first river boat which ever carried merchandise up the Illinois River from St. Louis was towed in 1821 by five frontiersmen hitched to a rope 300 feet long, the personal diary of Maj. Elijah Iles, Springfield's first storekeeper, relates.

"The provisions which I needed for my new store," Maj. Iles wrote, "were bought in St. Louis at an auction. I chartered a boat and crew and started the laborious trip up the Illinois, five of the men trudging along the banks pulling on the tow line, one man as steersman, and myself, the supercargo."

"The first place we came to after leaving the river at St. Louis was a ferryman's house, now the thriving little village of Alton. The only other town on the river was the Indian trading house, where the city of Peoria now stands. The boatmen left me at a Mr. Beard's cabin, later called Beardstown, unloaded the provisions and started back for St. Louis."

"There I sat, on a barrel of whisky, with a complete stock of provisions in a veritable wilderness. Finally I decided to walk to Springfield, about 45 miles, but met two teamsters who agreed to transport the goods. They were a month doing the work."

"For two years I ran the store without competition. The trade, evenly divided between Indians and white men, covered a territory of more than 80 miles around Springfield."

LEAGUE OF NATIONS LABOR AGENCY IN WASHINGTON

Recognized and Is Tax Free. Although America Is Not Officially Represented at Geneva.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—An official agency of the League of Nations, the International Labor Office with headquarters at Geneva, is operating almost at the front door of the State Department.

Although the United States stays outside the League, recognition has been given to the Washington branch of the International Labor Office, which is exempt from taxation and which is permitted to import duty free, books and documents from the Geneva headquarters.

The office has been operating here quietly for some time and only recently came to public notice with the issuing of a series of public statements dealing with its activities and with the world-wide work of the Geneva office. Lefur Magnusson, a former official of the American Labor department is director of the Washington branch, the prime purpose of which is to interpret the industrial and labor situation in the United States for the central office.

"The Washington branch collects Federal and state government publications in the field of labor and industry and sees to it that they are regularly dispatched to Geneva," said Magnusson.

FULTON, Mo., Oct. 7.—Mermin Crawford, 26 years old, a young farmer residing one mile southwest of McCredie and a former member of the Westminster College football team, was shot and killed
Tuesday night by Elmer Shryock, 34, at the latter's farm home, four miles east of Stephens.Crawford was near a window at the Shryock home when he was discovered with a flashlight. Shryock, before the coroner's jury today testified that Crawford advanced toward him after he had gone out of his home in his night clothes to investigate the barking of his dog. Shryock said he called to Crawford, but in the darkness could not identify him although he knew him well.Did Not Answer Query.
Shryock asserted that Crawford did not answer him but kept advancing and Shryock shot him with a shotgun that he had taken from the dining room as he left the house.Crawford lived about 30 minutes after being wounded but made no coherent statement. Shryock declared that he believed him to be an intruder and that he was in danger when Crawford advanced toward him. He said he never had any trouble with Crawford.
After hearing him the coroner's jury at the inquest returned a verdict exonerating Shryock.Both Men Well Known.
Crawford had spent the evening with Miss Emma Adcock, formerly connected with First National Bank of this city, and was on his way home when the shooting occurred. His automobile was found mired in a road a short distance from the Shryock home. Crawford was the son of R. G. Crawford, prominent in the Republican political circles of Callaway County, and at present a member of the Republican Central Committee.
He was well known in social and business circles of Fulton because of his former connection with the Blue Jay football team and his frequent visits here since that time.Shryock is married and has a wife and four children. He is a member of a family that has been prominent in Callaway County a long time, a number of the Shryocks being mule feeders.
Floyd Crawford, a brother of young Crawford, also was a former star of the Westminster College football team and was killed in France during the World War. Crawford is survived by his father and a sister, Mrs. John Henderson.$250,000 PRE-WAR LIQUOR

CHICAGO, Oct. 7.—While Chi-

$250,000 worth of fine pre-war liquors seized three years ago from Alderman William J. Mulcahy, prohibition officials explained the reason for the destruction.The liquors originally were the property of Grooms & Ulrich, vendors to the Gold Coast trade. With the coming of prohibition, Alderman Mulcahy and others acquired the stock in the Grooms & Ulrich corporation and attempted to withdraw the balance of the liquor which they believed legally belonged to them. The liquor was seized.A trial on a charge of conspiracy followed and on Jan. 6, this year, the destruction of the liquor was ordered by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson, on the ground that it had been illegally placed in circulation. Sixteen stays of ex-to allow Attorney J. Hamilton Lewis to file an appeal from the order, but the defendants decided

WOMAN OFFERS TO BET MILLS THAT GOV. SMITH BEATS HIM

Hotel Guest Unaware of Whom She Is Talking to Till His Wife Speaks.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEWBURGH, N. Y., Oct. 7.—While guests in a hotel lobby here were discussing politics last night, Mrs. Alice T. Murphy of Newburgh remarked, "I don't think Ogden L. Mills has an earthly chance against Al Smith for Governor."

A stranger who had joined the group did not agree. "I wouldn't be too sure," he said.

"I'm sure enough to bet Smith will win," retorted Mrs. Murphy. Mrs. Murphy was leaving the group when a woman remarked to her, "You shouldn't have said that to my husband."

"Who are you?" asked Mrs. Murphy.

"I am Mrs. Mills," was the answer.

BUSINESS MEN MAKE LEADERSHIP IN MERGER FIGHT

Directors of Chamber of Commerce Vote to Support Campaign With All Resources.

REPLY TO ESSEN MOVE

Meeting at Clayton Bars Re- porters and Enlists Aid of County Employes for Opposition.

Leadership of the cam- paign of the city-county plan, which is to be voted on the people Oct. 26, was de- veloped today by the directors of the Chamber of Commerce.

Leadership has been lacking heretofore, although a number of individuals have been supporting the plan, and some individuals have been working for it. The city-county plan serves as the re- sult of the merger of the city and county.

At a meeting in Clayton last night, the directors of the plan met to seek the defeat of the city-county plan.

The resources of organization of the Chamber of Commerce will be devoted to the campaign of the city-county plan, which is to be voted on the people Oct. 26, was de- veloped today by the directors of the Chamber of Commerce.

PRUSSIA OFFERS $3,600,000 IS CASH TO HOHNZOLLERN

Miners' Conference Rejects Gov- ernment's Promise of Aid in Obtaining Agreement.

BERLIN, Oct. 7.—The Prussian Government has formulated a new offer for a compromise settlement with the Hohenzollerns which is much more favorable to the State than the previous proposed compromise, rejected by the Diet.

Prussia now offers to pay the Diet-Kaiser's family $3,600,000 in cash in compensation for seizure of its estates. Instead of $7,500,000, as hitherto.

The ex-Kaiser also is allotted 167,000 acres of his former estates, lands and forests, including the Castle of Oels. This is more than was previously agreed upon, but in return he gives up various castles, parks and buildings in Berlin and vicinity. In addition, the so-called "Reich" Hohenzollern line will be given 40,000 acres, and the Karl Line 46,657 acres.

Among the estates which the Hohenzollerns are asked to give up are Bellevue castle and park, valued at $5,000,000; Babelsberg castle and park, $4,000,000, and real estate in Berlin and Potsdam estimated at $1,500,000.

The compromise agreement has been signed by both the Prussian cabinet and the legal representa- tives of the Hohenzollerns. The agreement will be presented for ratification to the Prussian council of state and then to the Diet.

Party caucuses indicate that the Democrats, Centerists and People's party will support the measure actively; that the German National- ists and Socialists will not op- pose it, the Nationalists likely vot- ing acceptance, and the Socialists possibly abstaining from voting.

DEVISE MECHANICAL PERFECT TO DIAGNOSE TUBERCULOSIS

Scientist and Musician Chart Vibra- tions of Lungs at Various Stages.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—How science and art have co-operated in devising a new method to aid physicians in diagnosing tubercu- losis in its early stages was de- scribed before the National Tubercu- losis Association yesterday by Prof. Frederick von Mueller of the University of Munich, one of the world's most renowned physicians.

His method, through which the various sounds in the chest may be charted for interpretation with greater accuracy than heretofore has been made possible by calling in to aid, Adolf Busch, celebrated German violinist, fixed the bass note, which characterizes the healthy lung. This was found to average 108 vibrations a second.

The vibrations of other notes, ordi- narily heard by physicians through stethoscopes and evaluated to the best of their abil- ity, also were fixed. Mechanical means were devised to record them, eliminating the human equation which entered into the old meth- od, and with this much accom- plished the formulation of graphic diagrams, like those employed in the study of temperature varia- tions, became a simple achieve- ment.

Dr. Henry Sewall of Denver, Colo., has been elected president of the association for the next year and President Coolidge headed a list of honorary vice presidents an- nounced by the board of directors.

BYRD'S NORTH POLE PLANE LEAVES ON TOUR OF NATION

Trip From Washington to All Parts of Country Planned to Stimu- late Commercial Aviation.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—The air- plane in which Commander Rich- ard E. Byrd flew to the North Pole left here today on a flight which will take it to all parts of the coun- try on a tour in the interest of commercial aviation.

Expenses of the expedition will be defrayed by the Daniel Guggen- heim fund, which is acting in co- operation with the Department of Commerce. In preparation for the start today, the plane was brought here yesterday from Miller Field, near St. Louis, is among the cities to be visited.

Commander Byrd was in charge as the craft hopped off. He will relinquish command in New York City, the first stop, to Floyd Ben- nett, who accompanied him on his polar dash.

"One of the objects of our flight to the North Pole was to show our confidence in aviation—to demon- strate what it can do," Commander Byrd said. "And it was a sporting proposition to us rather than a business one," he added. "There- fore I decided to donate our polar plane temporarily to the cause of aviation rather than commercialize our effort, our success. We have for this reason loaned the Joseph- ine Ford to the Guggenheim Avia- tion Fund and the Commerce De- partment with the sincere hope that the proposed flight will further the progress of aviation in this country."

Assistant Secretary MacCracken of the Commerce Department also hopped off for the first leg of the journey.

ADVERSE REPORT BY CHURCH BOARD ON QUEBEC PLAN

Methodist Survey Says Can- adian System of Govern- ment Sale of Liquor Has Increased Vice.

MORE DRINKING AMONG WOMEN

Newspapers and Clergy Quoted to Prove That Dry Law Substitute Has Failed to Cure Evils.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—The system of Government control of liquor in Canada is a failure, the Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals of the Methodist Episcopal Church declares today in a long statement reviewing conditions in the Dominion since the end of prohibition in Quebec and other provinces.

The board explained that its con- clusions were based upon a person- al survey by Ernest A. Grant, its assistant research secretary, and upon Government documents, newspaper articles and other ma- terial. It added that "only facts and figures of undoubted authen- ticity are used."

Summary of Survey.

Summarizing the conclusions re- sulting from the survey, the board says: "Government control in Canada has meant:

"An increased consumption of li- quor."

"Greatly increased use of alco- holic liquors by young people and women."

"A swollen liquor bill."

"A great economic loss, which has halted prosperity and acted as a burden upon the general popu- lation."

"Increased vice and crime, im- posing upon the Government's ex- penses that have burdened the taxpayers."

"A corruption hitherto unknown in Canada."

"An illicit trade as great as that under any prohibition law."

"Evils of Illicit Traffic."

"The system of government con- trol in Canada is a failure," the statement continues. "Under it all the evils of the illicit traffic in the United States are present, plus the evils of Government-protected traf- fic as vicious in principle and prac- tice as was the saloon system in the United States."

The survey of the Methodist board was undertaken because of the proposals in this country for the substitution for Federal prohibi- tion of the so-called Quebec sys- tem of Government sale and regu- lation.

FRANCO-GERMAN ACCORD BACKED BY CATHOLIC CHURCH

Aim Is to Pave Way for An- nexation of Austria to Germany, Giving Catho- lics a Majority.

FORMER PRINCES FAVOR SCHEME

French Clericals Said to Have Been Won Over but Italian Opposition May Block Plan.

By ARNO DOSCH-PIETROT.

A staff correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World. (Copyright, 1926, by the Press and Publi- cation Co., New York World.)

PARIS, Oct. 7.—A special diplo- matic representative of the French Government is going to Berlin to ask Foreign Minister Stresemann to attempt to avoid making speeches that cool the ardor of Franco-Ger- man rapprochement.

Incidentally, he will suggest to Stresemann that it would be well not to attempt to make it ap- pear as if Poincare and Briand were not agreed on this question, as the French Foreign Office is in- sistent on carrying through rap- prochement, even though the whole Government is not as enthusiastic as Briand.

The message is expected to get a good reception in Wilhelmstrasse, particularly because of the two great forces that have taken a stand for rapprochement—international finance and the Catholic Church.

Finance has been represented in the arrangement largely through the Mendelssohn Bank, which is interested in mobilizing Dawes plan bonds on German railroads. They are supported in their efforts by the ironmasters of both France and Germany.

Greater than these, however, is the Catholic Church. It wants to get control of Germany politically. The Prussians with 40,000,000 Protestants, are dominating Ger- many, although the Rhineland and South Germany are Catholic. To throw the balance the other way German Catholics want to annex Austria, adding 8,000,000 more Catholics to the German vote and overshadowing Protestant influ- ence. But they cannot annex Aus- tria unless France withdraws its objections.

To overcome French opposition there was a meeting in Strasbourg of leading German and French Catholics last summer, ostensibly to talk over the question of rap- prochement, but at the meeting the Austrian question arose and the German and Austrian Catholics argued with the French that, as good Catholics, they should permit Germany to annex Austria, giving the Vatican power to direct Ger- many into peaceful ways and as- suring security to France.

This argument, which was ad- vanced by German and Austrian lay Catholics, including former Princes and Industrialists, is supposed to have made a deep impression on the French, who were represented by industrialists and important Generalists who are strongly Catholic.

The majority of French military leaders are Catholic and clerical in internal politics.

It is reported that the French clericals have been won over to the idea and are raising no further ob- jections to Austria being annexed by Germany, but while this is re- garded as practically impossible of accomplishment, as Italy has taken a stand against annexation and France could not withdraw her ob- jections without angering Italy.

This accounts for the fact that Mussolini is supposed to have con- veyed to Briand through Austro- Chamberlain after the Leghorn meeting, the desire to know where France would stand on the Aus- trian question.

It would seem that the Vatican could hardly fulfill its ambitions of getting control of Germany with the aid of the Austrian Catholics, but the activity of the church, working parallel with the bankers and industrialists, is expected to prove strong enough to carry through rapprochement in spite of the cooler atmosphere which sec- ond thoughts have brought to both countries.

Korea Bars Rouble Exchange.

TOKIO, Oct. 7.—The Bank of Korea has announced suspension of rouble exchange by the dis- tricts centering around Vladivostok, because of the continued downward tendency. All Russian business, which Japan does with Vladivostok, is done through the Bank of Korea. It is stated that no further roubles will be accepted until Moscow authorities stabilize the Far Eastern exchange, which has a different value than in Mos- cow.

CAMPAIGN BEGUN TO LINE UP WETS FOR WILLIAMS

Republican Organization Here Finds First Job in Undoing Work of Four Years Ago.

TASK LIKELY TO PROVE DIFFICULT

Men Who Advised Votes for Reed on Liquor In- fluence Same Element.

By CURTIS A. BETTS.

The Republican organization in St. Louis, which began to function at the present State campaign only a few days ago, has found its first job, that of attempting to undo its work of four years ago when it supported Senator Reed, a Demo- crat, for United States Senator in preference to R. R. Brewster, the Republican nominee.

In that campaign the present city Republican chairman, Oliver T. Remmers, working with the Koeln-Peetzel organization in support of Reed, secured out 200,000 let- ters to St. Louis Republicans in- structing them to vote for Reed. The letters were not signed by Remmers nor others in the Koeln or- ganization, but bore signatures of Republican business men.

The reason given for the advice was that Reed was "wet," and that Brewster had not taken a definite stand on prohibition. Somewhat as a result of that appeal the usual big Republican majority in St. Louis was changed to a majority of more than 40,000 for Reed.

Difficulties of Republicans.

For some reason, so far unex- plained, the Republican organiza- tion was not interested in the can- didacy of Harry E. Hawes, Demo- crat, for the Senate this year, as it was in Reed's candidacy in 1922, although Hawes has declared for modification of the Volstead act, which is much farther than Reed had gone prior to his 1922 cam- paign, and although Senator Wil- liams, who is a Republican, is a "wet" in the eyes of the Demo- crats.

So the entire Republican orga- nization has lined up for Williams, and is attempting to influence for him this year the voters they turned against the Republican nominee four years ago.

According to reports, they have encountered difficulty in finding that among the rank and file of Re- publicans there is a support of Hawes on the ground that he is committed to an advocacy of amendment of the Volstead act to increase the legal alcoholic content of beverages within the limits set by the Constitution, and because Williams has taken no position ei- ther for or against amendment.

Close Race Indicated.

It generally has been the opinion of political observers that the sen- atorial election will be settled in St. Louis; that Hawes will carry the Constitution, and because that Williams' hope for success lies in holding reasonably close to the usual Republican majority. If Hawes should be able to cut the Williams majority to something like 20,000, many politicians believe it would be a mighty close election.

Undoubtedly the city Republican organization, dominated by former Mayor Kiel, Collector Koeln and Edward W. Foristel, would feel much safer if they could induce Williams to be as "wet" as Hawes, but so far that has failed of accom- plishment. The Senator has a big "dry" country Republican vote to consider.

He fared very well stating "on the fence" on the prohibition issue in the primary, and so far there are no indications that he intends climbing off in the general election campaign. Whenever pressed for his position, the Senator has insist- ed that prohibition was not a po- litical question and has refused to answer.

First G. O. P. Move Here.

In their first direct move to undo their work of 1922 and to hold "wet" Republicans in St. Louis for Williams, the organization yester- day came out with a statement, sponsored by Remmers, charging that Senator Reed and Hawes, "wets," and Charles M. Hay, "dry" leader, had entered into a definite agreement that Hawes would sup- port Reed for the presidential nomination and Hay for the Demo- cratic nomination for United States Senator in 1928, that Reed would support Hawes this year and Hay in 1928, and that Hay would sup- port Reed for the presidency and Hawes for the senatorship this year.

Remmers did not pretend to have personal knowledge of the purported agreement. In fact, he said his information came from a "prominent Democrat," whom he did not name. When asked whether he would name his informant, he replied that "obviously I can't do that."

QUEEN MARIE'S IDEAS WORRY PARIS MODISTES

Won't Wear Short Skirts and Shows Originality in Choos- ing Gowns for U. S. Trip.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Oct. 7.—Queen Marie of Rumania has bobbed hair, but she will not wear short skirts. Also she is sticking to her custom of showing originality in choosing her costumes for her journey to the United States.

The Queen has been adamant to the entreaties of the high priests of fashion that she accept without alteration their modes, and they are fearful lest the great publicity given her views "as to dress may have an effect on their styles for the season and upset all their cal- culations."

Plans for Big Power Plant

Work on Reputed Largest Electric Station in World Still Must Be Done.

KIEV, Russia, Oct. 7.—The Ukrainian Government today ap- proved the plans of Hugh Cooper, American engineer, for the con- struction of a $50,000,000 electric plant on the Dnieper River. When completed, it is said, the plant will be the largest electric power sta- tion in the world, exceeding the output from Niagara Falls by fully 200,000 horsepower. It will supply the whole Ukrainian region with current at a lower rate than pre- vails in any other country.

The Ukrainian Government to- day appropriated part of the funds for the initial stages of work, and appealed to the central Govern- ment in Moscow to supply the re- mainder. The entire enterprise must be formally approved by the Moscow Government before work can be started.

BRITISH ROYALTY RISES AT 7:30 A. M. EVEN ON VACATION

Breakfast Is Served at 8. With the Men Off Soon Afterward Shooting; Dinner at 7 P. M.

LONDON, Oct. 7.—Ceremony and rule are not entirely abolished by the royal family during their re- cuperating holiday.

Promptly at 7:30 a. m. guests are awakened by the skirl of pipes as the King's "pipe major" marches up and down the corridor playing "Cock of the North." There's no more sleep after this, and breakfast is taken at 8, so that the men can leave with the King for shooting.

Before they are well away from the castle, Queen Marie is busy looking over the domestic arrange- ments and indorsing the menus, after which she pays visits to per- sonal friends nearby.

A. F. OF L. HEAD TO MAKE BRIEF TALK IN CHURCH

Green Will Speak at Sun- day Meeting in Detroit, but Will Not Make Form- al Address.

UNION DELEGATES ASSAIL Y. M. C. A.

Apology Offered to Federa- tion by Church Council Secretary for Cancell- ation of Labor Speeches.

By JOHN L. LEARY JR.

A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 7.—When the convention of the American Federation of Labor adjourned last night the Rev. James Myers of New York, industrial secretary of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, was apologiz- ing for the action of the churches of Detroit in joining with the Y. M. C. A. in canceling invitations to labor men to speak next Sunday.

"The incident," said he, in ex- tending an invitation to President William Green to speak Sunday un- der the auspices of the Council, "is not representative of the Christian churches of America."

Through the courtesy of the Rev. Galus Glenn Atkins of the First Congregational Church, he said, he offered the use of that church for an address by Green. Green, a few hours later, declined the invitation.

Today the Rev. Mr. Myers invited Mr. Green to attend the mass meeting Sunday. Green agreed to speak informally in response to an introduction to the assembly. He will not, however, appear as a speaker scheduled to deliver a formal address.

Board of Commerce Denounced.

To permit Myers to address the Federation convention, Green quieted delegates seeking recog- nition, with the assurance that the discussion, opened by John P. Frey, editor of the Moulders Jour- nal, asking if it were true that the Y. M. C. A. had cancelled its invita- tion to speak, would be continued today.

Green assured Frey that such was the case, whereupon George L. Berry, international president of the Printing Pressmen's Union of North America, brought the con- vention to its feet with a denuncia- tion of the Detroit Board of Com- merce in refusing to challenge the loyalty of the 654,000 union men who served in the World War.

Following Berry, representatives of a dozen organizations excoriated the Y. M. C. A., the directors of the Board of Commerce, and the clergymen who had yielded to their demands, while delegates from the Mexican Federation of Labor, who had been told they must not dis- cuss the religious troubles of their country before the convention, looked on with mild amusement.

Cities Circular.

Frey began the discussion with reference to the fact that for many years the churches of the country had invited laboring men to ex- plain the labor movement from their pulpits. In Detroit, he said, the Board of Commerce began a campaign to browbeat the clergymen of the city into abandoning the practice.

In proof of this he quoted a cir- cular letter of Sept. 27 to all of the board's members, naming several men who would be on the list of speakers "who are admittedly at- tacking our Government," and concluding as follows:

"We ask you as the supporters of these churches to weigh the matter carefully and fairly and ad- vise your minister as to whether or not you wish to have your church deviate from the program for which it is maintained."

Proposed List of Speakers.

On the list were these names: George L. Berry, president Inter- national Pressmen's Union. Otto S. Beyer, mechanical engi- neer. John D. Beyer, director Workers' Education Bureau. Dr. Worth M. Tippy, New York. Albert F. Coyle, Locomotive En- gineers' Journal. Hugh Frayne, general organizer American Federation of Labor. Dr. James Myers, New York. John P. Frey, president Ohio Federation of Labor. The Rev. Arthur F. Holt, Chic- ago Theological Seminary. Gilbert E. Hyatt, Washington. Collins Lovely, president Boot and Shoe Workers' Union. Max Hayes, editor Cleveland Citizen. The Rev. John S. Lowe, Boston. The Rev. James M. Mullen, Phil- adelphia. Frank Morrison, secretary Amer- ican Federation of Labor. John P. Walker, president Illi- nois Federation of Labor.

BUSINESS HOUSES GIVE HORSE SHOW PRIZES

Donors Will Be Honored by Having Names Linked With Various Events.

A good variety of entries is expected by the St. Louis Horse Show association for its show at the Coliseum, Nov. 8 to 13.

An innovation for the St. Louis show will be the naming of prize events in honor of individuals or business houses which provide cash trophies. Among prizes announced so far are one named for a prominent lawyer, one for an agency for one of the more expensive automobiles, and one, in the pony class, for a widely advertised children's shoe.

Announcements concerning the show and the judging of entries will be linked with names of those providing the trophies, thus providing publicity as is done at various Eastern and Pacific Coast shows. The Committee on Prizes and Trophies suggests that funds donated by business houses for trophies are properly chargeable to advertising.

Prizes for Many Classes.

The full sum of the stake is not sought from trophy donors, since entry fees and certain funds of the show association will make up the balance, the committee announced.

A real, fine horse show is both a big civic and social accomplishment as well as a fine business proposition," said Edgar Genesack, chairman of the committee, "and it is made possible by the ownership and leadership of our principal citizens."

Chief classes and stakes in the show will be as follows: $1000 championship for roadsters, four horses from $15 to $60 for six horses, $2000 heavy harness stake, $1500 for three-gaited saddle horses, $1000 for four-gaited saddle horses, $1000 for five-gaited saddle horses, $1000 for permanent retention, $500 junior saddle stake, $1000 championship saddle stake, $1000 Shetland pony championship, $1000 harness pony stake, $1500 for hunters.

Endow Balcony Sold.

In addition, there will be a large group of miscellaneous prizes, ranging from $10 to $100 and 14 miscellaneous trophy cups, for which donors may subscribe $35 each.

The Associated Retailers have also over for cash the entire second balcony of the Coliseum for the same purpose, the committee announced, and will open this section to the public, to popularize the undertaking.

W. Rufus Jackson, 1508 Federal Commerce Building, is manager of the horse show association.

ST. LOUIS THEATRE OPENS

"Secret Sands" Produced in Non-commercial Enterprise.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—The Edith Theatre opened last night with "Secret Sands," a non-commercial enterprise of the dramatic club, which is now in its fourth year with a membership of more than 5000. The new house is on Forty-eighth street, near Eighth avenue, seats 300 persons and contains workshops and rehearsal rooms. It is planned to have the plays acted by professionals. A run of six weeks is assured for each production and plays that prove popular can be taken over by regular theatres.

St. Louis Theater Prices Cut.

Matinee seats at the St. Louis theatre hereafter will be sold at the same price as the general admission to the main floor, a reduction of 10 to 25 cents, depending upon the performance attended to the management announced to the press. Increased demand for lower accommodations occasioned the change, which will increase the number of seats available at main-floor prices by 400.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

ANOTHER former consort to that benign potentate, the Veiled Prophet, deserted the ranks of maidens today to become a member of the attractive group of young women known in St. Louis as the young marrieds, when Miss Marian Francis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Madison Francis, of 10 Lenox place, was married at noon to Dr. O. P. Joseph Falk. The ceremony took place at the New Cathedral, with Archbishop John J. Glennon officiating, and Monsignor Tannath reading the nuptial mass. The guests included hundreds of beautifully gowned women and their escorts, many of whom attended a garden party given after the ceremony by Mr. and Mrs. Francis at the St. Louis Country Club.

A large wedding party preceded the bride and her father to the altar. Her sister-in-law, Mrs. J. Lindsay Francis, was matron of honor, and Miss Lucille Falk, sister of the bridegroom; Miss Eleanor Knapp, Mrs. Geoffrey Kimball, Mrs. Edmund F. Gorman, Mrs. Alonzo Christy Church and Mrs. Harry Hall Knight, bridesmaids, were gowned in corn yellow chiffon over satin slips of the same shade. They were made with semi-fitted bodices, with yellow shoulder flowers centered in brown. Full circular skirts, longer at either side, were held at the lowered waistline with beaver brown moiré girdles caught into a bow in front. Picturesque hats of brown felt and tulle of the same shade completed their costumes, and they carried arm bouquets of chrysanthemums in the autumn shades.

Dr. Alphonse McMahon was best man, and the groomsmen and ushers were: Andrew Jackson Lindsay, Joseph Donohue of New York, J. Lindsay Francis, Morton J. Lucas, James M. Francis Jr., John D. Francis, Henry Farnsworth Bisbee, Harry Hall Knight and Edmund F. Gorman. Mary Lindsay Francis, special niece of the bride, as flower girl, scattered rose petals before her.

The bride wore shimmering white satin, with a drapery of rose point lace. Her train was of tulle, with a rare rose-point lace shawl applied to the lower half. The entire train was edged with rose point lace and outlined in orange blossoms fashioned into a cluster at the end. Her tulle veil, arranged into a wreath of orange blossoms, swept to the end of her train and in cloudy folds to the floor in front. She carried gardenias and lilies of the valley.

The Country Club party, an innovation in post-wedding entertaining, was a colorful affair. The clubhouse was adorned with dozens of pink roses, and the blossoms combined with baby's breath, adorned the bridal table, for 35 guests, laid in one of the dining rooms. On the terrace, where the Dr. and Mrs. Falk and their attendants received their guests, hundreds of balloons gave color. White tables and garden chairs, sheltered by colored umbrellas, were grouped about for the comfort of the guests, and a string orchestra played during the afternoon.

The bride, as is known, is of an old St. Louis family, her ancestors being among the early settlers. She is a member of the Junior League, the St. Louis Junior League, and is a graduate of Miss Wright's School in Bryn Mawr.

Dr. Falk is the son of Dr. John C. Falk, identified for many years with medical education in St. Louis. Dr. John C. Falk is a former faculty member of the Medical Department of Washington University and occupied the chair of therapeutics. He also was president of the St. Louis College of Pharmacy.

His son is a graduate of the St. Louis University School of Medicine. He is now a member of the faculty there, in the department of Internal Medicine. He is an associate physician at St. John's Hospital and a visiting physician at the Missouri Pacific Hospital.

After a wedding trip, the destination of which has not been announced, Dr. and Mrs. Falk will make their home in the St. Regis apartments.

The St. Louis Country Club was the center of the brilliant parties which followed the Veiled Prophet ball last night, for there Miss Martha Love, newly crowned Queen of Love and Beauty, held court for a second time, graciously presiding at the dinner in her honor. Her guests were her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward K. Love, as chaperones, and Mr. and Mrs. Frederick H. Sample, Mr. and Mrs. J. Clark Street, parents of the retiring Queen; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brookings Wallace, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis M. Rumsey Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Edmunds, Mr. Love's sister, Mrs. George Garrison Wade of Cleveland, O.; Mrs. Harold Maxwell and Mr. Charles Scudder and a coterie of young friends of Her Majesty, including her four special maids, Miss Margaret Rumsey, Miss Elizabeth Scudder, Miss Anne Kenard Wallace and Miss Dorothy Maxwell; Miss Maud Miller Street, Miss Eugene Edmunds, and Messrs. Rolla W. Street, Warren Chandler, William Fordyce Jr., Whitelaw Terry, Wade T. Childers, Eugene P. Hawkins, Elsworth F. Smith II, William Brown Goltra, Fred Gardner, John B. Kennard Jr., Benoit Tompkins, Lindell Gordon Jr., Robert Smith, James M. Francis Jr., Erwin Niedringhaus, Charles Parsons Pettus Jr. and Sproule Love.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Sullivan of the Berry road have as their guests for a few days Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Malloy, Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Walter and Winston Smith of Tulsa, Ok., and Miss Mildred Todd of Arkansas. The visitors attended the Veiled Prophet ball last night and were guests at a supper party later, and have attended the world series baseball games.

Miss Clarissa Dyer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Chouteau Dyer of Lenox place, will make her bow to society at a reception to be given by her mother Wednesday afternoon, Nov. 24, at their home. The guests will call between 4 and 6 o'clock.

Miss Charlotte Vanderlip of New York will arrive a few days prior to that date to be Miss Dyer's guest, and will receive with her.

A group of young women, including Miss Josephine Brinkworth, niece of Miss Adelaide Grone of 3742 West Pine boulevard; Miss Betty and Miss Flavia von Brecht of Forest Ridge; Miss Adelaide Grone, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Grone of 6621 Waterman avenue, and Miss Alice Pusz, chaperoned by Mrs. Bessie E. Hart of Louisville, Ky., returned a few days ago from Europe, where they have been all summer.

Miss Brinkworth, a graduate of the Sacred Heart convent, will make her debut informally this season.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Knapp of 116 North Newstead avenue, and their two sons will return the latter part of the week from Chicago, where they are guests at the Drake Hotel.

The engagement of Miss Katherine Cartall, daughter of Mrs. W. J. Cartall, daughter of Mrs. W. J. Cartall, of 4107 Cleveland avenue, and Fred William Hunnicke, of 2632 Victor street, was announced at a bridge luncheon given Saturday at the Forest Park Hotel by Mrs. H. C. Fischer, sister of the prospective bride. The guests were the close friends of Miss Cartall. No date for the wedding has been set.

Mrs. George T. Moore, of 2361 Tower Grove avenue, and her daughter, Miss Harriet Moore, have returned from Indianapolis, Ind., where they went to attend the marriage of Mrs. Moore's nephew, Miss Moore will depart this month for New York, where she will make her home at the Studio Club for the winter.

Col. and Mrs. Albert T. Perkins, of 6365 Ellenwood avenue, and their daughter, Miss Katherine Perkins, have returned from New York. Following a summer in Europe, Mrs. Perkins and Miss Perkins were met in Montreal by Col. Perkins. They accompanied him on a trip East.

Mrs. Ingram P. Boyd of 6465 Ellenwood avenue departed Friday for Wallingford, Conn., to place her young son, Trustin Boyd, in the Choate School.

The engagement of Miss Vera Stanwood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. Stanwood of Chicago, formerly of St. Louis, to Everett E. Diez, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin F. Diez, of 3627 Humphrey avenue, has been announced. The date for the wedding has not been set.

Miss Udolph Phillips, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Phillips, of 4614 Lindell boulevard, will return home this week from visits in New York, Detroit, Philadelphia and Chicago.

RARE BIG GAME BAGGED BY RALPH PULTZER

New York Editor Reaches Paris After Three Months' Hunt in East Africa.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

Copyright, 1926, by the Press and Pulitzer Publishing Co., (New York World and Post-Dispatch.)

PARIS, Oct. 7.—Ralph Pulitzer, editor of the New York World, arrived in Paris yesterday after spending three months hunting in East Africa. He brought 15 varieties of big game specimens, besides an exceptionally fine lion's head and a collection of African antelopes and gazelles.

He was fortunate in bagging a great kudu, one of the larger types of antelopes which is rare even in the wildest parts of Africa.

Specimens of Gazelles.

The principal animals bagged were a rhinoceros, a water buffalo, a buffalo and an eland. Other animals in the bag were three types of antelopes, the impalla, wildebeeste and kongoni. Several fine specimens of great and Thompson gazelles also were included. A warthog and bat-eared fox also were shot.

Pulitzer, accompanied by Paul Dougherty, the painter, went to Northern Tanganyika, originally for a hunt in the highlands. When Dougherty decided to return to Paris, Pulitzer took an 800-mile motor trip from the region lying between Nairobi and Abyssinia down the interior of East Africa to the Rhodesian border.

The object of the motor trip was to shoot elephants, but an unexpected change occurred when an opportunity to shoot great kudus presented itself. Several herds of elephants were encountered, but no elephants with tusks of sufficient length to justify shooting were in the herds.

Underwent Great Hardships.

The party during their hunt for the great kudu underwent great hardships. Hunting for this creature required constant watchfulness as the hunting party stalked through scrub brush for hours under the rays of a blazing sun. At any moment a flashing glimpse of a kudu might be seen as it broke cover.

The motor trip through the jungle was in a Ford automobile and a light motor truck carrying eight natives. The expedition also obtained motion picture records of animals in their native state and photographs of lions and elephants at 20 yards.

Pulitzer will sail for New York Oct. 13 on the Olympic.

JUSTICE HOLMES OVERRULED

Wife Tells Portrait Painter, "Pay No Attention to Him."

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—Associate Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes of the Supreme Court is sitting for a portrait. During the summer at Beverly Farms, Mass., the artist was busy with him. Mrs. Holmes stood by.

Impatient with the frequent calls of the painter, Justice Holmes wanted to know, "How long will this continue? I have something else to do."

Pay no attention to him," interrupted Mrs. Holmes. "Go right ahead and take as long as you like. If he were not here with you he would be over there in the corner reading naughty French novels."

Justice Holmes was 55 years old last March.

One of the first questions one shopper asks another:

"What kind of place have they?"

These modern floors lend a touch of pattern and color, and a smartness that distinctly draws trade

WOMEN like to spend their money where surroundings reflect a note of dash and smartness.

When they set out to shop, they gladly go a few blocks farther on to a store where the attention some merchant has given to decoration seems to say, "Better value here."

The merchandise may be no better or prices no lower, but his furnishings speak of taste.

The magazine and movie have shown women what a store can look like. The motor-car will take them to the stores that do look that way.

How do your floors show up?

These modern floors of Armstrong's Linoleum have been designed for the man whose business is to sell and serve the public. What do national organizations say about them?

"Brings window-shoppers inside." Wilson Brothers, Chicago manufactures of men's haberdashery, use a marble tile pattern floor of Armstrong's Linoleum in their model store display, "Concentration Avenue," as this famous exhibit is known, shows retailers profitable ways of tempting window-shoppers.

"Should be good for 50 years." Studebaker Corporation of America have selected pattern floor of Armstrong's Linoleum for the show rooms of their Eastern Division. These fine floors, cemented in place over felt, not only lie smooth and tight, but need no refinishing.

"On my sales floor, but not on the pay-roll." Thom McAn chooses floors of Armstrong's Linoleum for over two hundred of his trim shoe-shops.

Their color, their pattern, gives a modern snap and go to the appearance of each store of his huge chain.

For business, hotel, theatre, public institutions, Armstrong's designers have created floors that satisfy the public's eye for beauty and their preference for floors that are comfortable to stand and shop on.

Waxed and polished, these floors need only a nightly brushing to keep them fresh and clean.

Good furniture, department, and linoleum contract stores are displaying these floors now. A telephone call will bring samples and estimates for your establishment.

PLAYERS OF WINNING TEAM IN WORLD SERIES TO GET $6,254 EACH

NINE RECORDS SET AND FOUR TIED IN GAME

Babe Ruth With His Homers and Runs Scored Outstanding Figure—Cardinal Outfielders in Spotlight.

By Herman Wecke.

Nine new world series records were established and no fewer than four were equalled in the hectic game, which went in the books as the fourth game of the 1926 world series. Of course, in the record-making, Babe Ruth, with his three homers, his four runs, his total bases and other deeds were in the limelight.

When Ruth hit those three homers, it was the first time in his major league career that he was able to turn the trick. Previously he had twice made three in one day, but they came in double-headers. The three four baggers raised his total for American League and world series competition to 363. Of this number, seven have been in world series, which is a new record for batters to shoot at.

Southworth Near Record.

Until he flitted to Combs in the ninth, Billy Southworth was ahead of the best previous batting record in world series. Gowdy, with six hits in 11 times at bat in 1914, holds the mark. Southworth now has eight hits in 15 attempts, a .533 mark, to .545 for the standard. But he still has a chance to beat Gowdy's mark.

Mike Donlin, who held the previous record for runs scored, saw Ruth break his record, while Jack Fournier, one of the players to hit three homers in a game, was present to see the Bambino turn the trick.

Following are the records established, tied and other notable happenings in the fourth game:

Three homers by Babe Ruth, world series record. Ruth was nineteenth player to accomplish feat in championship game, dating from 1876. George Kelly performed trick twice.

Four runs scored in world series game by Ruth. Mike Donlin, 2, held old record.

Ruth, 12 total bases in game, new record.

Ruth, 9 extra bases on hits, new record.

Figuring two bases on balls, Ruth really had 14 bases to his credit in five trips to the plate.

Seven homers in world series by Ruth, new record. Ruth's homers came as follows: In 1911, 3 in 1923 and 3 yesterday. Old record of six held by Gowdy, who made three in 1924 and three in 1925.

Three homers by Ruth tied world series record.

Five assists for outfielders—Douthitt, 2, for Southworth and 1 for Ruth, established new record.

28 total bases for Yankees set new record, breaking previous figure of 27, made by Giants, Oct. 7, 1921.

23 hits for two clubs tied record made in 1921 by Giants and Yankees.

10 bases on balls in game, tied record of Donohoe and Mullin of Detroit made in 1909.

Five bases on balls in inning new record.

Four bases on balls by Reinhardt in inning new record.

Two assists for each Douthitt and Southworth tied world series record for outfielders.

Others to perform feat were Hooper, Strunk, Leibold, Sam Rice and Meusel.

Herman Bell's balk was second in world series, other being made by O'Brien of Red Sox against Giants in 1912.

Billy Southworth with batting average of .533 is 12 points behind world series record of .545 set by Gowdy in 1914.

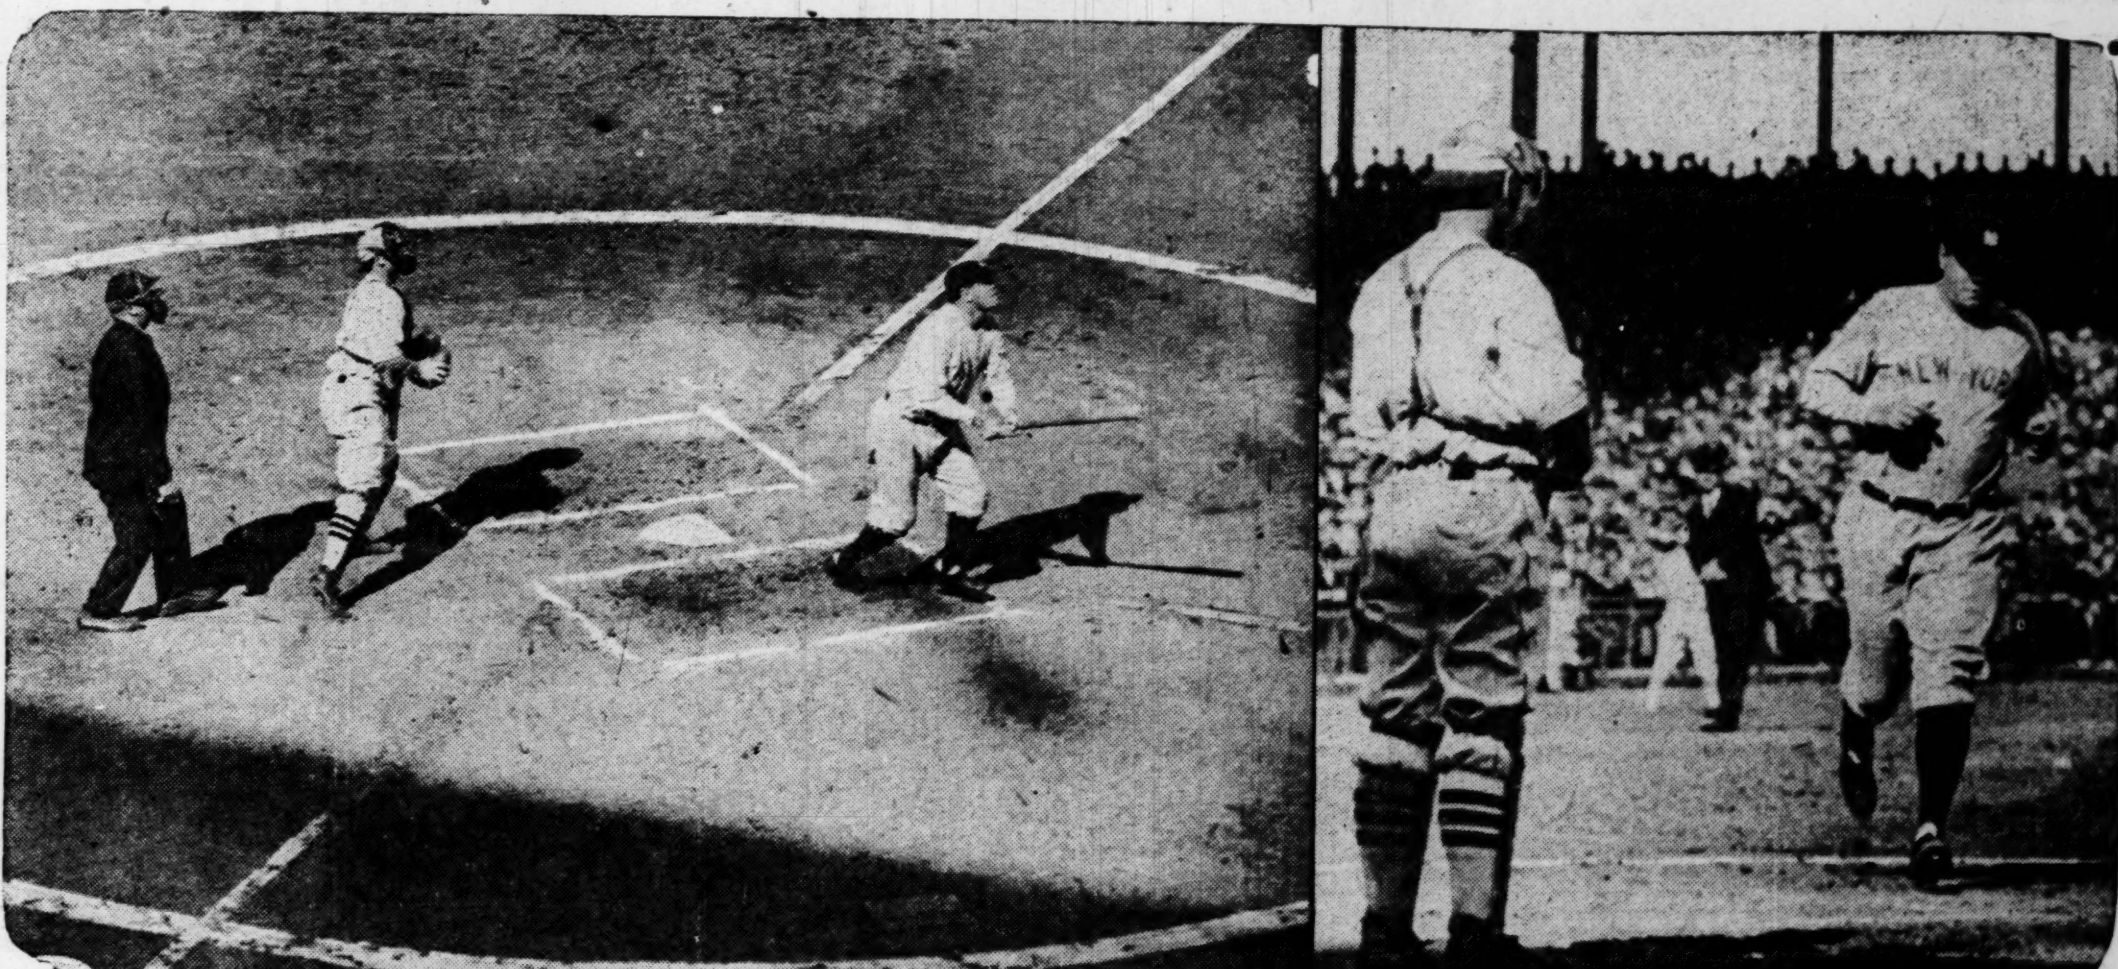

Ruth's four runs batted in is new behind world series record made by Elmer Smith of Cleveland in 1920.

Ruth's three homers in game was first time he accomplished feat during his major league career.

Criqui Loses Decision.

By the Associated Press. BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 7.—Eugene Criqui, former world's heavyweight champion, made his debut in South America last night when he was outfitted in a 12-round bout by Carlos Uchegaga of Chile. Criqui was floored for the second time of three in the ninth round.

RUTH PROUD OF HOMERS, PRAISES HITTING OF MATES

Sluggers Says Team Has Hit a Batting Stride That Would Beat Any Pitcher in Any League.

By Babe Ruth

As Told to a Representative of the Post-Dispatch.

At last we've come out of our hitting slump.

And now we'll win the world series. That's as sure as fate. The handwriting is on the wall.

I'm not taking anything away from the Cardinals. They have a great ball club, a fighting ball club. But I don't believe there's a club in the country can beat us when we're pounding the ball.

The cause that looked hopeless 24 hours ago looks entirely different now. From here on out the burden of the job rests on the Cardinals. We've come from behind, we've shown our teeth, we've taught them to respect our hitting ability. Now it's up to them.

There's little to be said about the fourth game of the series. It was simply a matter of base hits. Some people may contend that the St. Louis pitching was bad. I don't think so. I believe that the Yankees would have whipped any pitcher in either league. They just pounded the ball out of the lot.

Proud of Home Runs.

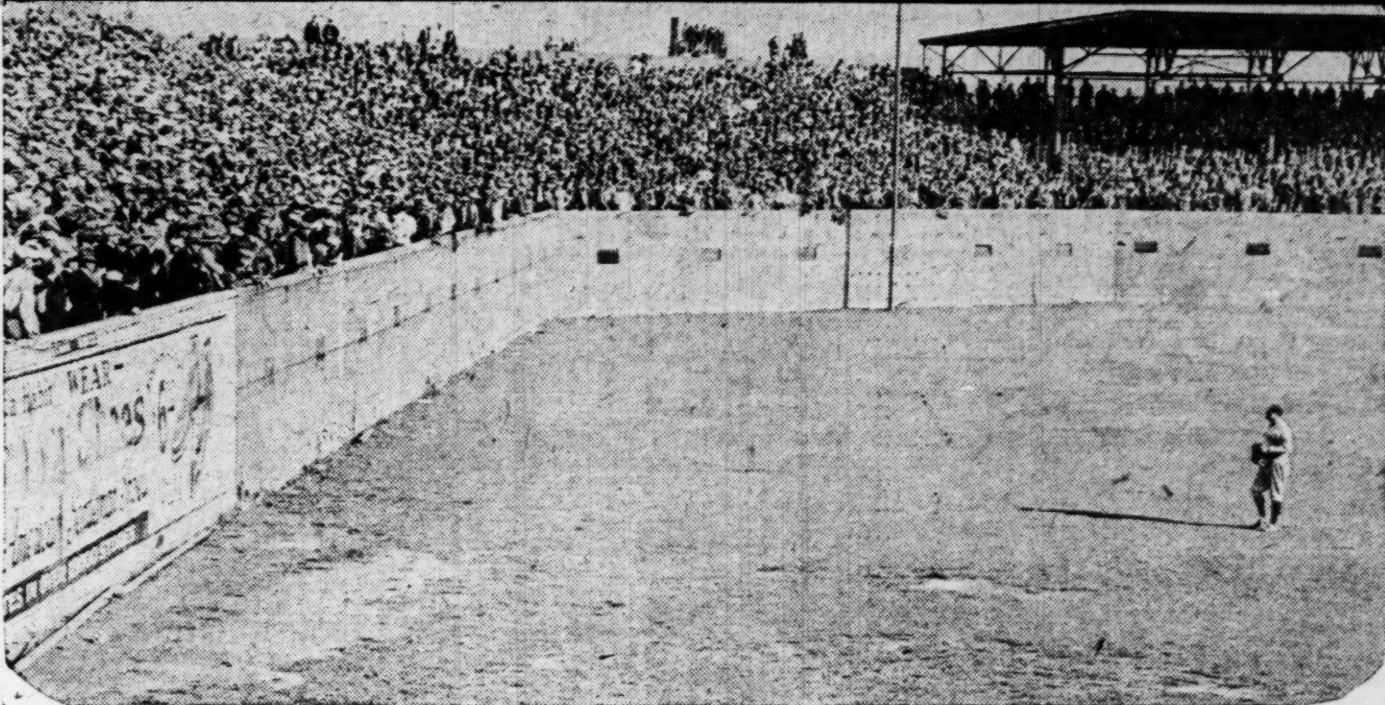

My part in the game was perhaps a little more sensational than some of the other's. Getting three home runs is always a feather in a chap's cap. And I'm proud and pleased that I was able to do it. But at the same time, I'm remembering that while the balls I hit may have traveled a bit further than some of the others, it was real hitting by all the boys that really brought the victory.

Gehrig and Combs hit. Lazzeri hit. Meusel hit. Hank Severide who hadn't got a safe one during the previous three games, came through with three blows. And as a result we just swept the Cards off their feet.

You may have noticed that the Yankees showed some real baseball on the base paths. We ran everything out. We took chances. And that's the spirit that wins ball games.

Pennock Ready for Work.

Now we've got all the best of it. One more game here and we go back home to play on our own lot. Pennock, who pitched so nobly in the first game, has plenty of rest and is ready to come back. So is Shocker—and I figure Urb is a sure clinch to beat the Cardinals when we open in New York again. As a matter of fact he pitched a corking game against Alex in his other start. The breaks were against him, just as they

Ruth receiving the applause of the Bleacher fans, after his home-run feat in the sixth inning.

1926 SERIES TO ENTER 'MILLION DOLLAR' CLASS

WITH the defeat of the Cardinals by the Yanks yesterday it became certain that the 1926 world series would enter the coveted "million dollar" circle as to gate receipts.

It is now assured that at least six games will be played. Basing the receipts of the next two games on those that have gone before, in the current struggle, the estimated total gate figures to be $1,097,000.

If this is realized it will not break the 1925 record of $1,182,854.

It is not possible for the attendance record of 301,430 made in 1923 to fall unless more than six games are played. In that case both attendance and receipts marks would suffer.

We're against all of us in those two games we lost. But they don't go that way always. Things always even up in the long run, and I figure Shocker is due to win.

I imagine Hornsby will pitch Sherdel and Alexander against us in the next two games. Both of them are great pitchers. They have proved it all season long and in the series as well. But I'm not boasting when I say, here and now, that the Yankees today don't fear a single pitcher in the world. We've started to hit. The old batting punch has come back.

One other thing. I want here and now to say that I think Miller Huggins has handled his pitchers 100 per cent perfectly. In this series. Some of the experts thought he should have pitched Pennock in the fourth game. Instead he came through with Hoyt.

And now we've got our two aces ready to shoot back at the Cardinals in the remaining games.

Huggins hasn't overlooked a bet. He has used his own judgment, and has proved it's value. The pitching balance that a few days ago seemed all in the Cardinals' favor now rests with the Yankees. We're out to win. I think we will do it.

Pitching Wrong for Ruth Cost Game, Hornsby Says

Cardinal Manager Points Out Babe Didn't Hit Sherdel, Alexander and Haines in Earlier Games.

By Rogers Hornsby

As Told to a Representative of the Post-Dispatch.

There's only one thing to be said about the game yesterday, and that is that you can't expect to win a game that is as badly pitched as this one was. Our pitchers could not do what they wanted to do. Not once was Ruth pitched to properly and that's the story of the game. It goes to show how pitching can completely dominate the situation.

We said before this series started, tomorrow, I guess he'll face Pennock again.

Ruth was not the only man to whom our pitchers pitched badly. In fact, the game was poorly pitched from start to finish and because of that we did not deserve to win.

Praises Team's Steadiness.

The one pleasing feature was the fact that all the bad pitching and all the bad breaks did not cause the Cards to crack. They kept on battling and proved their gameness.

That accident in the fourth inning might have been a serious one. Hafey and Douthitt, young men in the game, wanted to make the catch so badly that they did not consider the fact that there was danger of a collision. They crashed into each other so solidly that the wind was knocked out of both men and neither could even crawl to the ball. But they recovered and insisted on staying in the game and Douthitt made a great throw to the plate a few minutes later to prove that his arm was not injured.

Bob O'Farrell made two great plays at the plate to retire runners. He is a great catcher and we think he is the best in the business.

Therewas also played his usual brilliant game. He is standing out as one of the stars of this series and he has been holding up his end of the hitting better than some of the sluggers.

RUTH M. CHENAULT WINS $10,000 MAYDAY STAKE

By the Associated Press. LEXINGTON, Ky., Oct. 7.—Ruth M. Chenault, the season's leading 2-year-old trotter, kept her stride clean for the year, ending her season by winning the $10,000 Mayday Stake in straight heats. This was her tenth straight victory and brought her earnings to $25,000 in round figures. She was bred and is owned by C. B. Shaffer of Lexington and Chicago.

A bad spill occurred in the second heat of the Ashland Stake, in which Sayde Worthy, driven by Cox, fell near the quarter, and Poppy, driven by Ben White, went over them. Both drivers were taken to a hospital.

Capt. Huertus won the Lafayette Stake from the favorite, Phil O'Neal, after four hard heats. With the unfinished Kentucky, Marvin Childs accounted for two races. Lucille June not having much difficulty to win the Indiana for 2-year-old pacers.

MILLER FIGHT, SANGOR'S BEST EFFORT TO DATE

Special to the Post-Dispatch. MILWAUKEE, Oct. 7.—Joey Sangor, Milwaukee featherweight, looked more like a real contender against Ray Miller at the Milwaukee Auditorium recently than at any time during his career.

Sangor gave away several pounds in weight and put up a rattling good battle for 10 rounds, having a slight edge at the finish, although a draw would have done neither one any harm.

Miller, who has been touted as the next featherweight king, did not appear at his best, probably because Sangor beat him to the punch and took the play away from him.

Red Chapman of Boston is booked on by Eastern critics as the most logical man for the title, which was vacated by Kid Kaplan, and Benny Bass of Philadelphia is a close second. Sangor should find a place among the contenders.

BLACK MARIA EASILY WINS JAMAICA FEATURE

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—Black Maria, flashing her speediest pace, had little trouble in winning the $3000 October Handicap for 3-year-olds and up, feature at Jamaica yesterday.

The clever W. R. Coe mare, racing to the front at the start, finished the mile and a sixteenth two lengths ahead of Sanford, with plenty of speed in reserve. Pompey, coupled with the winner in the betting as a 7 to 19 favorite, was four lengths back in third. The time was 1:45.2-5.

A muder track was just to the liking of Blondin in the $2000 Copley Handicap feature of a mile and sixteenth at Laurel Park. The big H. P. Whitney horse pulled away from Son of John in the stretch to win by two lengths. Son Ami, the third starter, was last. The time was 1:51.1-5.

LOSERS' END OF MONEY TO BE $4168

Champions to Receive Largest Amount Ever Paid Out; Ruth Busy Autographing Balls After Record-Breaking Performance.

Players' earnings in the world series have shown a steady increase since the early games of the classic in 1903. Although the losers' share on four occasions has dropped below $1000, and even went to $439 in 1906, the winners' share has never fallen below $1000. The present series will establish a record for both winners and losers, with each member of the winning team receiving $6254 and the losers $4168. Last year's figures were $5,322 and $2,734.

There were no moans and groans seeping under the door of the Yankees' dressing room after yesterday's victory. Instead, there was much hilarity and back-slapping.

Miller Huggins, the Yankees' leader, broke down and confessed that he made a perfectly sensible prediction to the effect that when the Yankees started hitting, things would be different. Furthermore, he feels the lacing the Cardinals assimilated has broken their spirit and that the Yanks will breeze into the championship. The edge, he believes, now belongs to the Yanks.

Ruth whistled a snatch from "By-By Blackbird" while climbing into his street clothes. The other players soon joined in the whistling. The Bambino was as happy as a boy. He was proud of his performance of smacking out three home runs, a feat never before equalled in a world series.

The Babe was so busy autographing the three balls he hit for homers and other balls shoved at him that he was unable to get any farther in dressing than pulling on his underwear. Ruth wrote his signature on the three balls, labelling them number 1, number 2, and number 3 in the order in which they were hit.

In the Cardinal dressing room it was like a morgue. The players dressed in silence. Rogers Hornsby, the Cardinal pilot, was off in a corner by himself. Bill Killefer, his right hand man, dressed quickly and hurried out.

Hornsby had no excuse to offer except to say that it was a badly pitched ball game.

ST. LOUIS PITCHERS NEAR RECORD FOR WILDNESS, FIGURES SHOW

Cardinal Mound Men Walk 10 Yanks, Miss The Plate 60 Times

Total of 102 Wide Pitches Are Thrown by the Hurlers of Both Clubs—Reinhart Has Stormiest Time and Two-Thirds of His Efforts Miss Plate.

By Herman Wecke.

That the fourth game of the world series was the wildest pitched affair of the 1926 battle for baseball supremacy is indicated by the figures. The "dope" shows that the Cardinal pitchers were forced to throw 135 times during the nine innings, while Walter Hoyt, who gained the victory, pitched 138 times to retire the Cardinals.

The wildness of the flingers used by Manager Hornsby is outstanding. In the nine frames, there were a total of 60 Cardinal pitches that went wide of the plate. The Cardinal hurlers walked 10 men. Hoyt was better in this respect, as but 42 of his pitches missed the rubber. However, both of these are new records.

There were a total of 102 wide pitches in the fourth contest, while in winning the opener at New York, Pennock was forced to hurl a total of only 101 pitches to subdue the St. Louisians by a 2 to 1 score. Unless there is another wild slugging affair as the one which 28,825 customers saw when the Yankees evened the series, the figures of 273 pitches in nine rounds is likely to stand as the record for the 1926 series.

Keen Had Best Control. But one of the five twirlers used by Rogers Hornsby showed anything that even approached control. That man was Victor Klem, who worked the ninth round. He was forced to chuck but eight times. Five of his efforts were strikes and three were wide of the plate.

Arthur Reinhart had the stormiest session of any of the hill men, who went into action. The left hander was in the game only a brief period. He did not retire a single batter, but in four runs against him. In that brief period, however, he pitched 24 times and lost two-thirds of his efforts went wide of the plate. Which proves beyond doubt that the Cardinal hill men were

Rhym in four innings threw 39 strikes and 23 balls; Herman Bell in his two innings tossed 23 strikes and 18 of his efforts were wide. The figures on Bill Hallahan in two rounds were 24 strikes and 21 balls. Which proves beyond doubt that the Cardinal hill men were

Forward Pass Strategy Requires Skillful Acting To Fool Foe, Says Warner

Stanford Coach Discusses Types of Aerial Attacks Which Look So Simple but Take Clever Deceit Work to Make Play Successful.

By Glenn Warner.

Coach of Stanford University.

THE forward pass has become such a deadly weapon in the hands of teams which have mastered its possibilities, and the strategy necessary to make the play effective is so little understood by the spectators, that a discussion of the elements of successful forward passing should be of interest, not especially to coaches and players, most of whom are familiar with its intricacies, but to the general public who watch the games.

Very often a forward pass is made and caught successfully for a long gain by a player who was in the open and with no defensive player near him to interfere with the reception of the ball and the general run of spectators wonder why, since ground was gained so easily in this way, the pass is not used often. They do not know that to get the receiver of the pass in the open and with no defense near him to prevent his catching it required the headiest kind of strategy on the part of every man on the team and that the success of the play depended not only upon the good work of passer and receiver, but upon deception and successful decoying of the defensive players away from the actual receiver.

Good Acting Essential. In other words, to make such a pass successful the defense must be made to believe that the pass is going to be made to another man in a different part of the field and to successfully do that requires good acting on the part of several men because the defensive players are not supposed to be easily deceived and decoyed out of position. This deception is worked in many ways. On some passes the play starts out like a regular end-man run or off-tackle play, with the ball carrier keeping close to his interference and with the ball under his arm and running rather close to the line of scrimmage.

The defense comes up to stop the run and then the passer suddenly changes his pace, runs back so as to be over five yards back of the scrimmage line and quickly passes the ball to a player who probably has run from the opposite end and behind the defensive line over in front of the passer but down in the defensive team's territory behind the defensive backs who have come up to meet the play which they figured was a run instead of a pass. On such a pass as a rule only one man goes down the field because the rest are needed to form interference and make the play look like a run and also because if several men started at once down the field it would be noticed by the defense, who would at once realize that a pass was going to be made. This form of pass is also made by starting a back with the ball as if for a run and then, when the defensive backs have been drawn up, the ball being passed to a man who is running further back and who quickly passes it down the field. This form of pass is very deceptive and the defensive backs must be very alert to determine whether the play is to be a pass or a run because if it is a run these men must advance quickly to help stop it, whereas, if it is a pass, some one must stay back and be ready to knock it down or intercept it.

Decoy Sent Out. Another favorite form of pass is made by sending decoys or possible receivers to different parts or zones of the defensive territory with the idea of attracting attention and getting certain of the defensive backs to cover them and running in such a way as to decoy these defensive men away from a certain spot to which a receiver runs after first delaying so that the defense little suspects he is going after a pass. The defensive backs who are possible receivers who, on the start of the play, break across the line of scrimmage and fan out in different directions, but they are inclined to overlook a possible receiver who stays in his position possibly momentarily blocking his opponent. He can then often break out into a position from which the defensive backs have been decoyed away and receive a pass unnoticed until too late.

Such passes are the ones which look so easy and simple but they take great acting and headwork not only on the part of the receiver but on the part of the possible receivers who do the decoying.

Lazzeri Scoring in the Fourth Inning on Dugan's Double

The double which scored Lazzeri was the drive that caused the collision in the outfield which resulted in Douthit and Hafey being knocked down.

Benny Friedman Got Strength By Working in Gym

Michigan Football Leader Started as Emulator of Sandow After Reading Ads.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. ANN ARBOR.—Benny Friedman, All-American leader of the Michigan football team, entered athletics as an emulator of Sandow and the bulbous persons whose advertisements appear in the physical culture magazines.

Benny wanted to be a strong man. In a Cleveland grade school he practiced lifting a 49-pound weight. The janitor, a powerful Irishman, could lift the weight easily, and by watching him Benny found that the whole thing was a trick of the wrists. At that time Friedman had no interest in football. He wanted to become a Samson and he worked with dumbbells and weights exclusively. By the time he entered the gridiron sport he had so developed his fingers and wrists that he could snap off 35-yard passes with the same quick overhead gesture that a catcher uses in pegging to second.

coying and also on the part of the passer who, to make the play successful must look at and feint to pass to some other man than the actual receiver who must be at a certain spot so that the passer can quickly pass to that spot without having to look for him.

Fremmen to Cover. Another favorite pass is called an optional pass. Such a pass is usually played from punt formation, or at least a formation where the passer is well back so that he has time to pick out the best man to throw to. There being five possible receivers, these men, on the snap of the ball, deploy into different parts of the field in such a way that the four defensive men whose duty it is to cover them have difficulty in covering them all. As a general rule, one of these will be unguarded and the passer must look them over and spot the uncovered man before those defensive players whose duty it is to hurry him, can get to him and prevent his throwing the ball. To do this the passer often backs farther back and to the side and thus delays his pass until he can spot an uncovered man. It takes an exceptional passer to execute such a pass successfully. He must be quick to spot the right man; he must be a swift and accurate passer, because the man to whom he passes is not likely to remain uncovered but a second or so, and he must be cool-headed and able to side-step and avoid the players who are rushing him.

These are not all the kinds of passes employed by good passing teams, but they are those of the sort most commonly made use of, and from this brief discussion it should be apparent that the passing game requires a great amount of practice and good theatricals to be successful.

Bambino Demonstrates by Hitting Three Home Runs in Game That He Is Man to Be Feared at All Times—Expects Pennock to Pitch Fifth Game.

By Grover Cleveland Alexander.

They just outdid us, yesterday. That was all there was to it. We made enough safeties ourselves, proving that we were hitting; but they made better use of theirs than we did of ours. The Yankees won the fourth game of the series, 10 to 5, and we are back where we started—all even, each team having won two games.

And because of that, we cannot win the series in St. Louis. We will have to go to New York to finish it. But we are still confident of gaining a victory. We're even with them right now and we have just as much pitching strength for the remaining games as the Yankees.

But to get back to yesterday's game. It was a hitting battle all the way. Everyone went up there to take a foehold. There were 28 hits in the game, 14 for each side. That's a total of 28. And in the first three there were but 28. That shows that but 10 fewer safeties were made in the fourth contest of the series than in the first three.

This proves beyond any doubt that it was a free-hitting battle.

Cards Fielding Stands Up.

But while all the hitting was going on and our pitching was below the par of the first three games our fielding held up. There was one unfortunate play, that coming in the fourth, when Hafey and Douthit collided going after a fly. That gave the Yanks a run, but as matters turned out it did no great damage. Hafey was knocked out in the collision but he was able to remain in the game after a short rest and in the same frame he started a rally which put us ahead, but which we were unable to retain.

Babe Ruth did some great hitting yesterday. He showed that he is a real slugger, a man to be feared at any time he comes to the plate. He made three home runs and each succeeding one was longer than the preceding one.

One of them was on the right field pavilion, just fair by a few feet. There was no doubt about the other two. One went over the pavilion in right-center and the other went directly into the centerfield bleachers, just a few feet to the

Heavy Hitting Series Likely From Now on, Asserts Giants' Pilot

Perfect Work of O'Farrell and Bell's Great Stop in Eighth Inning Win Praise; Hornsby Feels Handicap of Young Pitchers.

By John J. McGraw. (Manager New York Giants.)

By making a lucky pick, naming Walter Hoyt to pitch the fourth game, Miller Huggins has evened up the count and once more it looks like a dead heat. The Cardinals have a slight advantage in being able to come back with Bill Sherdel and Alexander in the next two games, while the Yanks must win with Pennock.

Huggins took a long chance in putting back Pennock another day, as to give the amount of rest he needs. He will go in fresh in the home run total. But certainly showed in this, the fourth game, that he can crack and crack them for long distances at last have begun to haunt the ball.

Hoyt pitched what could be called a fair game. It was not a brilliant one by any means. He was steady in tight moments and was also lucky in several of the breaks. The luck, however, usually breaks about even. The accident in which Hafey and Douthett gave the Yanks a run, and the breaks helped them. At the time the Yanks tossed away a run by getting caught in coming out long hits.

Experience helped Hoyt. Experience helped Hoyt a lot. He hit harder than any other New York pitcher, but he managed to hold on to his lead. He was in having the whole club hitting behind him. In an earlier article I made the observation that the Yanks would just about as Ruth hit. Once starts they always go right with Ruth's hitting yesterday was the most remarkable thing I ever have seen in the way of successful long hits and the kind of pitching he had to hit. In my years of baseball I have never known of a pitcher being hit into the center of the bleachers at Sportsman's field. In fact, no one would believe that ever could be done. The first ball pitched to Ruth by Bell in the first inning was a fast ball. So what are the chances to do? As they used to say, "Anson, maybe his weakness is on balls. That is the only way he stopped him yesterday."

Billiken Frosh to Play Barracks Team Tomorrow

Salts Away a Few New Plays for Use Against Drury.

The St. Louis U. freshman team believed to be the best in the state, will get its baptism of fire tomorrow afternoon at St. Louis U. field, Grand and Laclede, when the Jefferson Barracks team will meet them.

Game time is 1:30 p.m. Several of the leading high school players of the district in 1925 were in the freshman team. These are Litzsch, Welch, High and County League seniors last year, who is declared to be the classic fullback who ever turned out. He will start at quarterback tomorrow.

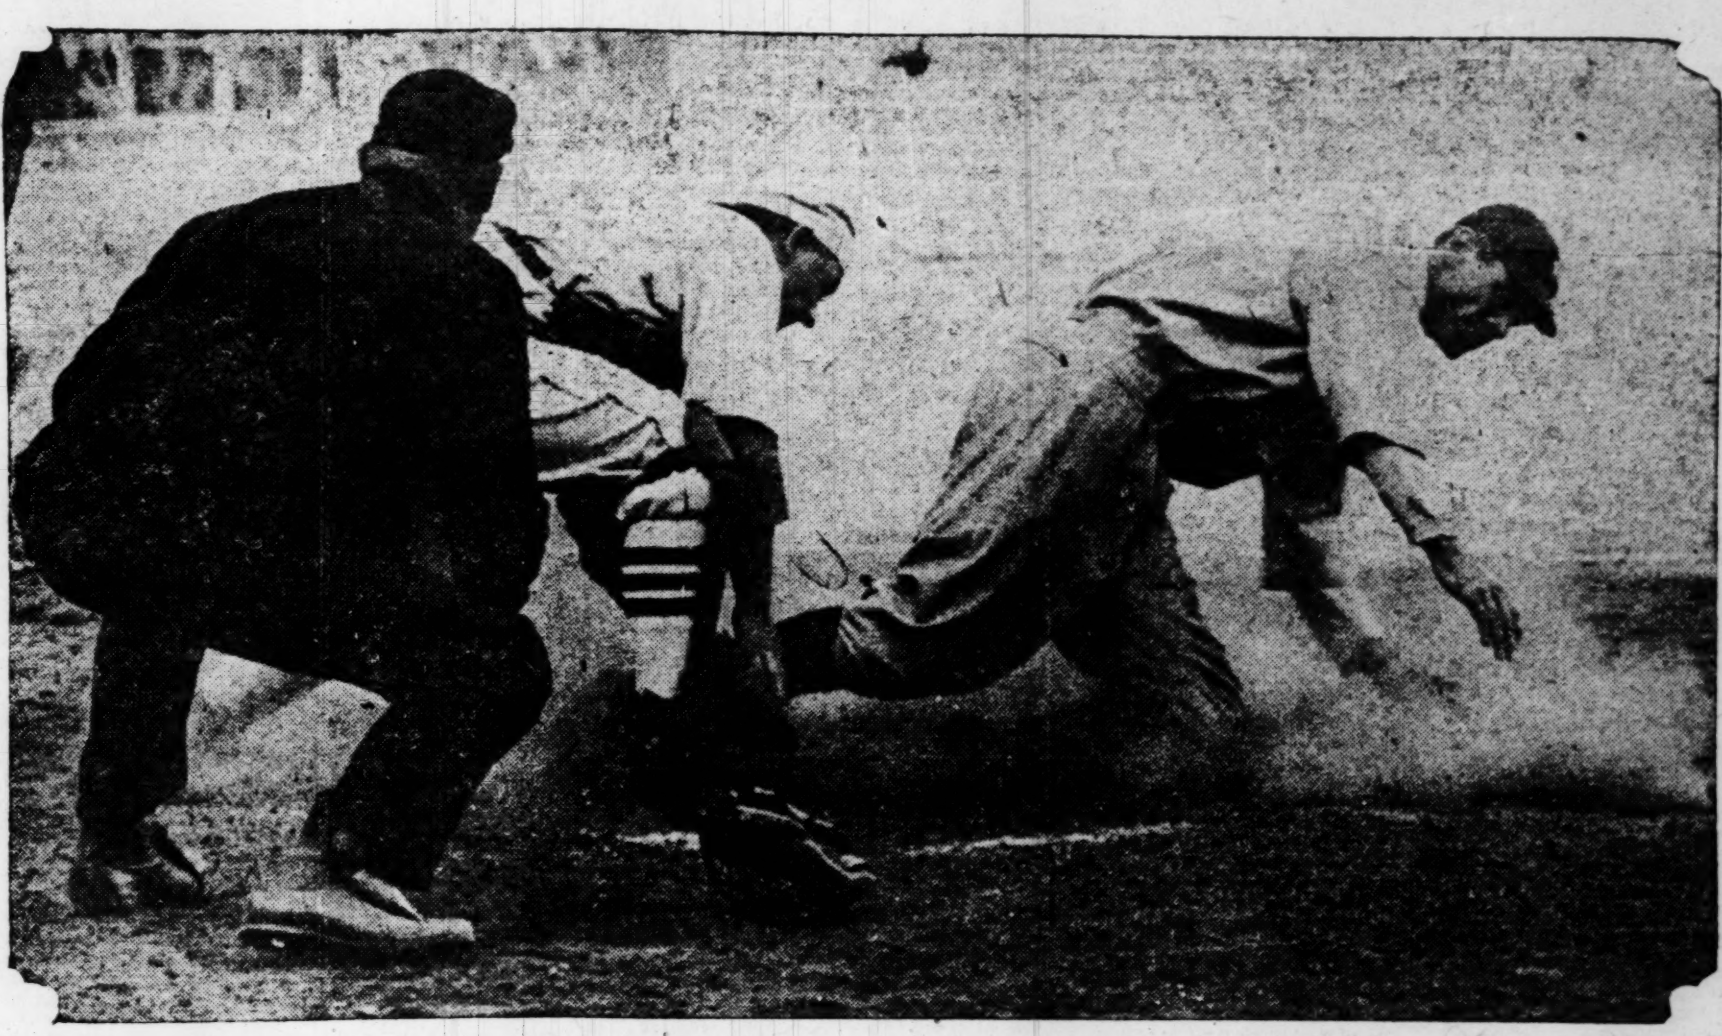

"Red" Richardson, Soldan High School, is expected to play. He also is in the backfield, together with "Red" Campbell, formerly the flashiest back in the preparatory League and former high school player. Parilla, McCann, Cornell, Forester and others are other promising candidates for the backfield.

Among the end candidates are Douber, Drury and Lamb. Schwartz and Brown, and Pinley, guards. Either Brown or Davidson will center the half. Altogether it is a nice assortment of blooming talent and it looks like Billiken chances a whole lot better this season.

The one coach of the Billikens' preparatory staff has been assigned to the frosh, all five of them. Assistant Coach Stivers Regret will be on the bench with the freshmen tomorrow.

The varsity is preparing for the College of Springfield, Mo., which will be here Saturday. Scrimmage has been a number of times, but they have salted a few more plays and will be ready to grind them out against Marshall's Ribbon Looks Best But Wellmay May Cause a Lot of Trouble.

Edwardsville night will be celebrated at the Madison Kennel Club tonight. Members of the 89th Division, holding a reunion here and champion Edwardsville baseball team will be guests of the management. The Edwardsville cup race, to be decided over the Futurity distance, will feature the card. The trophy will be presented to the owner of the winning greyhound by officials of the city.

A field of fleet racers will go to the post in the feature event and a close finish is expected. Marshall's Ribbon, Wellmay and Pride of Kerry all won their last races in good time and of the three there seems to be little to choose. But if Marshall's Ribbon is able to get the break at the first turn and put his nose in front of the others will have a difficult time in catching him.

TRYING TO PRY WORLD COURT DOOR OPEN FOR U. S.

Senator Swanson Back From Geneva Seeks Some Way to Get America to Join.

COOLIDGE WAITS ON THE ELECTION

He Will Not, However, Withdraw Application for Admission—Agitation in Europe.

By DAVID LAWRENCE,
A Special Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—Some interesting changes are going on among the foreign offices of the world with respect to the American reservations to the World Court protocol.

Senator Swanson (Dem.) of Virginia, who has been at Geneva and is now here in frequent consultation with Secretary Kellogg, has been hopeful that some formula could be worked out permitting American adherence to the court.

The latest suggestion is that all the Powers accept the fifth reservation without comment, then should a specific case arise which makes it difficult for the court to function because of supposed American obstruction, meet the situation by a concerted movement to change the statutes of the court.

Largely a Supposititious Case. In other words, most of the opposition to the fifth reservation at Geneva was based on a hypothetical case which may never occur. It was presumed that the American veto power would be exercised in a broad sense wherever American interests were involved even remotely.

No such contingency is expected by American officials. European governments, for instance, may have overlooked the fact that the interpretation of a treaty or international agreement is vested in the executive branch of the Government, which, through the Department of State, conducts diplomatic relations. The question whether a specific controversy did or did not involve American interests would be decided by the State Department, which it is pointed out, would never veto an advisory opinion in an emergency that might otherwise lead to war.

The good faith of the American Government to use its veto power wisely and in a manner that could not provoke serious objection is counted on here to offset most of the arguments against the acceptance of the fifth reservation.

Waiting for the Election. President Coolidge has let it be known significantly that no matter what the powers say about the fifth reservation he will not withdraw the application for American admission. In other words at the next meeting of the Geneva assembly the matter will still be on the program ready for action by individual members of the League. Also there is ample opportunity for exchange of views by diplomatic notes between now and the next meeting of the League.

For purely political reasons not much will be said or done between now and Nov. 2. The administration is not borrowing trouble on the World Court issue.

There is harmony in the Republican ranks and the President is for the moment concerned that his party shall retain control of both houses. After the election the problem may come up for discussion, but with a minimum of comment from the Washington end of the tangle.

Arguments Used in Europe. European Governments are being told by friends of the court that a simple formula for acceptance now is the only practical way to keep American interest in the cooperative peace movement as symbolized by the League of Nations and that the latter cause will receive a setback unless Europe comes to the rescue of the pro-League and pro-court elements in America.

The argument is advanced that in due time even the Senate may see the wisdom of demanding special privilege in the World Court and that a resolution which places America on a basis of equality except on questions pertaining to the Monroe Doctrine, which the United States reserved for itself the right to interpret, may be the ultimate solution. But the matter is largely in the hands of those foreign Governments that have not yet drafted their final answers to the American reservations.

Garments Put Into Wrong Auto. H. H. French, of Raintree, Ill., is looking for the owner of an automobile of the same make as his, which was parked next to his yesterday afternoon in front of the R. and B. Manufacturing Co. at 1126 Washington avenue. French bought eight children's coats and five women's dresses valued at $135 there yesterday and requested the shipping clerk to place them in his automobile. The clerk inadvertently put them in the wrong car. The mistake was not noticed until the owner of the car had driven away.

MOTIVES OF SOCIETY CHANGING, JUDGE SAYS

Americans Never Will Go Back to Old Order, Wisconsin Jurist Declares.

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—Lessening of the struggle for existence in modern civilization has brought about "frivolity and a lessening of the sense of responsibility for the general welfare," Justice Marvin B. Rosenberry, of the Wisconsin Supreme Court, said here at the opening meeting of the Wisconsin Conference of Social Workers.

There has been a change in the motivation of society within recent years, he said. "I cannot help but feel," Justice Rosenberry declared, "that in this great period of transition which has brought to the people of this country immeasurable benefits, we are in the way of losing sight of some of the great fundamental values which cannot be sacrificed without permanent and irreparable loss. I ascribe this danger to a shift in the motivation of society. Human hopes and desires cluster around certain fundamental things: first, self-preservation, which is said to be the first law of nature and the satisfaction of which has led to the material advance made by this or any other people; second, the establishment of a home, the begetting and rearing of children, their education and establishment in life and all that appertains to it; third, the hope of immortality.

While cynics may sneer and snicker, it nevertheless remains true that the desire of man to live and conduct himself so that he may enjoy a happy life hereafter has been one of the great motivating factors in the life of our race; and fourth, the desire of every normal man to have the satisfaction which comes from a full and complete exercise of his natural capacities in the accomplishment of some desirable end.

No Return to Old Order. "Under the old order the struggle for a barely decent subsistence was so intense and so absorbing that it furnished the dominant motive of society. Our habits, traditions and laws were fashioned and our society so motivated.

"One might pursue the subject into any number of fields and an examination would disclose that in the main the things that dominated the social order 100 years ago or even 50 years ago and in the main motivated it, have undergone a definite and radical change. We can never hope to go back to the old order.

"Many a flapper, who is out to have a good time as she calls it, and who regards moral principles as old-fashioned and outworn, will, when she is charged with the responsibilities of motherhood have such a vivid realization of the penalties exacted by nature and society for the breach of moral and even social conventions that they will be re-established in her mind and family upon a fresh basis. She will find that the fire is hot and that it still burns and the very vividness of her experience will cause it to be transmitted to those about her. If this is true and as a mass we are re-establishing these principles, we will shortly find that those conventions which are valid and real will be restored to their former vigor and those that are not worth while and are invalid will be destroyed.

Will Revert to Religion. "I may diverge enough to say that personally I feel that reformation could best be found in religious teaching and practice, but even religion seems to be with a

U. S. OBJECTS TO POLISH VIEW AS TO EUROPEAN DISARMAMENT

Warsaw Delegates Say Regional Accords Won't Work Unless America Joins in Them.

GENEVA, Oct. 7.—The outstanding development of the disarmament parleys yesterday was the objection of the United States to the Polish proposal that no regional disarmament agreement is possible for continental Europe unless the United States and Great Britain are party to it.

The Permanent Technical Commission on Disarmament of the League of Nations decided that chemical and dye works could be quickly adapted to manufacture of poison gas. The commission adopted imprisonment for any civilians or military persons who give instructions in the use of poison gas, and favored clauses in the disarmament treaty authorizing the Council of the League to appoint commissions to investigate charges against states violating disarmament obligations.

WHIM SAVES ROYALTY FROM INJURY IN EXPLOSION

Boiler on Launch Bursts Just After Rumanian King and Party Had Left Boat.

BUCHAREST, Oct. 7.—A sudden whim of King Ferdinand yesterday saved a boatload of royalty from serious injury. With former King George of Greece, Prince Christopher of Greece and several of his nephews and a Hohenzollern Princess, King Ferdinand was motor boating at Braila, on the Danube. The King's suite followed in another craft.

King Ferdinand suddenly decided that he and his party should be transferred to the boat occupied by his entourage. Hardly had the change been made when the boiler on the royal launch exploded, injuring several persons and forcing the others to jump into the water. The King's party hurried to the rescue.

Educator in China Resigns. Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and the Chicago Daily News, Copyright 1926.

PEKIN, Oct. 7.—Owing to the Government's inability to provide funds the heads of Pekin's nine Government universities have tendered their resignations. They informed the Ministry of Education that it is impossible to open the schools for the fall term unless back salaries and debts are paid and more adequate financing is guaranteed. The action affects 10,000 students and 900 faculty members and the Government-supported lower schools are expected to follow the leadership of the higher institutions. Many instructors' salaries are more than a year in arrears. Lights and water already have been cut off in several schools owing to non-payment of bills.

large element out of fashion and therefore out of mind. As every individual in some great crisis of his life turns back upon the fundamental things and seeks the help of an unseen power, so in some great crisis the race will again fix its eye upon the cross at Calvary and upon the life and teachings of the Master of Men.

"We are charged with a great responsibility. Science and invention have placed within our hands tremendous possibilities, but these cannot be attained by disregarding the fundamental values of life, and to reformat society so that it will seek permanent and indestructible values rather than ephemeral and evanescent substitutes is a great problem. The solution of this problem lies with every one of us. The resultant of the motives of individuals becomes the motive of society.

HOARDED GRAIN BARS IMPORTS TO RUSSIA

Peasants Upset Soviet Program to Maintain an Even Trade Balance.

MOSCOW, Oct. 7.—With the semi-annual meeting for the soviet central executive committee set for a month hence, rural sections are facing the same problem of practical merchandising which has existed ever since new theories of political economy were applied.

A trip of 11,000 miles by train, boat, cart and afoot which the correspondent has just completed across Siberia, discloses this situation.

This vast Asiatic domain of Russia is primarily a land of agriculture. Industries other than mining, timbering, trapping and tanning are almost negligible. Thus Siberia presents conditions entirely different from those of western Russia, which, largely controlled by urban industrial centers, has had another prosperous year.

Land holdings of the Siberian peasant are larger than those of the Russian peasant. Many families hold several hundred acres, while private business outnumbers both co-operative and Government stores and markets in every city and village visited.

Better Crop This Year. With few exceptions all Siberia, especially the chief grain producing areas, Ekimolensky Steppes, Blisk Basin and Amur Valley, had better crops than last year. Consequently the Government again faces the situation of making the surplus of agricultural products available for export correspond with the size of the peasants' harvest.

On the Government's ability to purchase these crops depends the nation's economic status in the fiscal year starting this month. Russia, despite the new regime's strenuous efforts to increase industry until it supplies domestic demands, remains fundamentally an agricultural country.

In order to transfer this grain to the hands of the Government export monopoly, Government distributors are now facing the task of supplying thousands of village stores with prime necessities—textiles, tools, sugar, manufactured goods of various sorts. The depots of the largest co-operatives are well stocked with farming machinery with hundreds of pieces of apparatus standing in open yards.

Many of the smaller retail stores outside the cities, or those privately owned, are almost empty. In some stores visited, the entire stock consisted of vodka, a few packages of soap and matches and synthetic tobacco.

Sales Needed to Provide Funds. While the sale of moving machines, meaning a considerable investment, makes a creditable showing, in view of the peasants' standards of economy, sales of other articles also are needed in order to provide funds to move the crops.

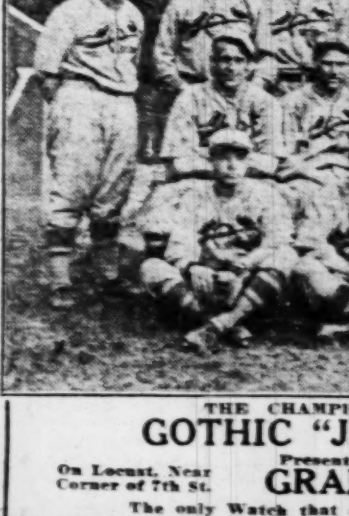

Unless the peasants can exchange rubles for necessary articles they are reluctant to sell any considerable proportion of their crops. In order to offset this 1,000,000 silver rubles were minted in England in 1924 and put into circulation, the authorities hoping it would prove a happy medium between gold and paper currencies, both of which were unsatisfactory. The peasant buries his gold—and will not accept paper.

So far the release of silver coins of larger denominations, as well as the partially successful efforts to increase stocks of merchandise in village stores, is the most important change in the situation as compared with last year.

The peasants, unable to purchase what they want customarily store their grain in village communal granaries. A goodly portion of last year's crop followed this route, forcing a drastic curtailment last April of Moscow's entire import program and also bringing a 17 per cent rise in livestock prices.

Retail men considerably reduced purchases of raw cotton in America, most of the textile mills closing several weeks in the summer. Consequently the domestic output of textiles, which was unable to meet the demand last year, is not at its maximum capacity this year. The entire country feels the effects of this, since total imports depend chiefly upon the quantity of grain exported.

EXPEDITES WORK ON LOUTRE CREEK FILL

State Engineer Hopes to Complete Project Safeguarding Highway by Winter.

NEW FLORENCE, Mo., Oct. 7.—The waters of Loutre Creek of the Mineola bottoms will inundate the old road in the bottom or stop traffic on Highway No. 40 this winter or next spring if Marcus Sagel, project engineer for the Missouri Highway Commission, has his way. Sagel says he plans to push all unfinished work before winter sets in and hopes to have it completed before the freezes stop the concrete workers.

If Sagel succeeds in doing so the troubles of tourists between St. Louis and Kansas City should be at an end. The improvements he is planning include the paving of the fill through the Mineola bottoms and a stretch of road east of Loutre Creek over the eastern Mineola Hills, a distance of about two miles. It also includes the paving of some unfinished highway between New Florence and High Hill. This stretch was originally 1.9 miles long, but the Pope Construction Co. succeeded in paving all but 4000 feet of it before the recent rains fell.

No concrete work has been done in Montgomery County for the last 10 days or two weeks because of the rains.

Need Sunny Weather. "If we can get four or five days of sunny weather, the roads will dry up sufficiently for us to level them and put them in shape for the concrete mixers to pour on the hard surface," declared Sagel. "Our first task, of course, is to finish the 4000 feet on the contract at High Hill," continued Sagel. "It has been necessary to direct traffic over a temporary road built by the side of this highway, which the contractor graveled for most of the way and for the remainder of the distance built a plank road. During the severest part of the rainy weather this proved to be a hard section to traverse, but the contractor and the Highway Department did everything humanly possible to see that traffic was maintained because of the treacherous condition of the roads. Buses and heavy trucks were detoured three miles, by the way of the northern route. A tractor was procured which helped these vehicles through when they got into trouble."

To Prevent Overflows. Sagel added that he and a representative of the Haller Construction Co. of Booneville, which has the subcontract under the Pope Construction Co. of Jefferson City, are building the fill through the Mineola bottoms over which the new highway is to run, have inspected the fill this week and that he believes work can be started at once in repairing the damage that was done to it by the flood and erasing the heavy runs that were worn into the road when tourists were towed over it by mule power and tractors.

The damage is not at all heavy," continued Sagel. "The section that was undermined can easily be refilled and then we will riprap the places to make it strong to prevent further overflows. We propose to begin on the work of concreting the fill just as soon as we finish the High Hill job, which should be within the next few weeks. When this fill is completed there will be no further danger of traffic on account of high water."

The fill is about a half mile long. It has three bridges that will take care of overflows of the Loutre and will carry the water away from the bottoms.

When the fill is completed, Sagel will order the laying of concrete on the east side of the Mineola Hills toward the new bridge over the Loutre at that point. The four overflows of this stream within a period of 30 days has led to the determination of the Highway Department to complete a job that was delayed last fall because of inclement weather.

JURY IN MANSLAUGHTER TRIAL OF PETER GOUNIS DISAGREES

A jury trying Peter Gounis, former Meramec Highlands resort owner, characterized by a grand jury as "one of the most notorious law violators in St. Louis County," in Circuit Judge Wurdeman's court at Clayton yesterday, failed to agree as to his guilt in the killing of Arthur Tepe by Gounis' automobile on Manchester road east of Denny road June 30, 1925.

Tepe's widow, Mrs. Irene Tepe of 1905A Ferry street, testified that her husband had stopped his car part way off the road to fix a tire and that there was plenty of room for Gounis to pass without hitting him. Another witness corroborated her testimony. It is understood that the jury was eight to four for conviction. Gounis will be tried again on the same charge, fourth degree manslaughter, Nov. 12.

FILM SHOWS PASSAIC STRIKE

Seven-Reel Production to Be Presented in Labor Centers. Special to the Post-Dispatch. PASSAIC, N. J.—The announcement of the availability of the motion picture of the Passaic strike for showing in labor centers has been hailed with enthusiasm by labor organizations and sympathizers, and from all parts of the country have come requests for dates. Several cities already have been given dates and the work of routing is proceeding rapidly to meet the demands for the picture. The picture is entitled "The Passaic Textile Strike," and is in seven reels. The first part consists of a prologue acted by the strikers themselves, graphically depicting the home life and struggle of a typical mill family. The lessons of the Passaic strike are made clear in the picture.

Here's proof that Mapacuba is a better cigar!

THIS TOBACCO

THIS TOBACCO

THIS TOBACCO
IS OVER-RIPE

WHEN we say proof, we mean just that—clear, definite, specific proof. You'll understand exactly what we mean the minute you study this picture of the tobacco plant.

You can see from this that there's only one kind of tobacco that means perfect smoking—those finely ripened, perfectly matured leaves from the middle of the plant. And they are the only leaves we use in Mapacuba!

This cigar can't have a bitter, raspy taste because we don't use the kind of tobacco which gives that taste! It can't be flat and tasteless because we don't use that kind of tobacco either.

Light up a Mapacuba today and see if it doesn't put a lot more joy in smoking. The ripe tobacco in it does make a difference in taste—in flavor—in everything that goes to make a fine cigar.

MUTINIES REPORTED
IN ITALIAN MILITIA

This Is Said to Be Real Reason
Mussolini Has Taken Command.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

Copyright, 1926, by the Press and Publisher Publishing Co., (New York World and Post-Dispatch)

CHIASSO, Switzerland, Oct. 7.—
The decision of Mussolini to take over command of the Fascist militia is officially explained by the alleged ill-health of Gen. Gonzaga, who has just retired from that position.

Actually the reason is far more important than Gonzaga's health, says an informant.

Like the Fascist party, the Fascist militia also has been rent by discord and in various cities militia officers recently led mutinous factions in clashes with the regular police.

At Trieste, as a result of such a clash, two Fascists and one of the carabinieri were killed. Carabinieri stations were attacked in Trieste, Cappodistria and Ponte Chiasso. In the latter town on the Italian Swiss frontier, eight Italian customs house officers were clubbed because they had wounded the local Fascist secretary and other Fascists in a free fight.

Numbers of Fascists were rushed in motor cars to Ponte Chiasso to make reprisal. Eight of the customs officers already had been arrested but the Fascists attacked the prison, overpowered the carabinieri and clubbed the prisoners so severely that four died.

The latest episode of the Fascist interne war occurred in Rome when a branch headquarters of the Fascist party were seized by resident Fascists, and held several hours until finally driven away by a company of carabinieri.

The leader of the revolt, Calza
Bini, former secretary of the Rome Fascismo, and 30 of his followers were arrested, but Bini was released the next day.

Extremist Fascism is incensed against Mussolini because of his inability to protect it against Federation's systematic war. Apparently the Duce fears a blow because the extreme Fascists are against him. Hence his decision to take over the command of the militia.

Accident Verdict in Case OF BOY BURNED TO DEATH

Motion-Picture Film Tacked to Bed Believed Ignited by Electric Heater.

A piece of motion-picture film which was tacked beneath a bed and near an electric heater may have caused the fire which fatally burned William Segal, 16 years old, of 928 North Fourteenth street, early yesterday, his father, David, told a coroner's jury today. A verdict of accident was returned.

The family was awakened by young Segal's screams at 3 a. m., the father testified. They rushed to his room and found the boy in the center of flaming bed clothes.
The fire was put out, but before William had been burned so seriously that he died several hours later.

"A tack holding one end of the film probably came loose and it dropped down on the heater and caught fire," David Segal told the jury.

CANADIAN SHIPPER HELD FOR TRYING TO SINK U. S. BOATS

Captain of Schooner With Liquor Cargo Accused of Attempt to Ram Coast Guard Fleet.

By the Associated Press.
BRIDGEWATER, N. S., Oct. 7.
—Charged with attempting to send two units of the American dry fleet to the bottom about 75 miles off the American coast, Captain Norman Oxner of the schooner Gaspe Fisherman is held here in $3000 bail for trial.

Oxner's vessel is a 75-foot Nova Scotia windjammer, with a gasoline motor. The vessels he is charged with attacking are the armored patrol boats CG-147 and CG-211.

Witnesses said that when the United States destroyer M. G. Mc-Call, followed by the two patrol boats, was trailing the Canadian schooner, the schooner suddenly swerved and attempted four times to ram the patrol boats.

Oxner admitted he was carrying liquor, but that he never landed any of it on American territory.
He said he had no designs upon the patrol boats, but was merely trying to keep from fouling his log line.

Yes! Kellogg's has improved upon oatmeal!

MOST people thought it couldn't be done!
"You can't make a better hot cereal than oatmeal," they said.

But Kellogg has done it! You can prove it right now. Ask your grocer for Kellogg's New Oata. Boil it just three minutes in water.

Then enjoy that wonderful new flavor!
Notice how light and fluffy New Oata is. How different from soggy, gluey oatmeal.

And then remember this. New Oata is a blend of both oats and whole wheat, including the bran. It combines the nourishing elements of both. That's why it is so much more healthful.

Can you imagine any other hot cereal as good? Your grocer has Kellogg's New Oata.

Held Up and Robbed of $22.
William Newlin of 2405 North Sarah street and Edward Levy of 1927 North Sarah street were held up by a man with a revolver who stepped out of an automobile in which a second man was at the wheel, at Cote Brilliante avenue and Sarah street at 3:30 a. m. today. Newlin was robbed of $22. Nothing was taken from Levy. The automobile was found abandoned later by police at Newstead avenue and Page boulevard. It had been stolen from William Hyman of 1103 Louisville avenue earlier in the evening.

MINISTER DESCRIBES DEATH BED MARRIAGE

Testifies Late C. H. Wilson Was Normal When He Wedded Mrs. Martha Snyder.

Probate Judge Holtcamp yesterday took under advisement the action of relatives of the late Charles Henry Wilson, 70-year-old retired laundry owner, to prevent his wife, who married him on his deathbed, from sharing in his $75,000 estate.

The hearing, begun last spring, was delayed until the Rev. Russell B. Whiteside, pastor of the Euclid Avenue Baptist Church, who performed the marriage of Wilson and Mrs. Martha Snyder, a widow, on Oct. 2, 1925, could appear and testify. The Rev. Mr. Whiteside declared on the stand yesterday that Wilson was normal and understood what he was doing when married.

This controverted evidence previously adduced by the claimants, Wilson died Nov. 11 last, bequeathing the bulk of his estate to his bride, in a will made two days before their marriage. Two of his cousins, Mrs. Jessie Gibbons and Mrs. Nannie Husbands, filed a will contest in Circuit Court, and pending its adjudication brought the action in Probate Court in opposition to Mrs. Wilson's claim for allowance for support from her estate. They contended that she was not Wilson's legal wife because he was not of sound mind when married.

Tells of Wedding Ceremony. Questioned by Grover C. Shiley, attorney for Mrs. Wilson, the Rev. Mr. Whiteside told how a telephone message reached him at 6 p. m. asking him to perform the wedding ceremony at the home of Mrs. Snyder, 4625 Maryland avenue, where Wilson, a boarder, was ill in bed. Church services prevented his response until 10 p. m.

"When I arrived, the minister testified, Mr. Wilson's nurse if the ceremony would make him nervous. She answered that he was expecting me and that his condition was all right. I was then taken to his room and, after being introduced to him, remarked, 'I am late in arriving, just like you are late in life in marrying.' He smiled and said, 'Yes, I had the marriage license in my hand and explained the significance of marriage, stating it was an institution of God, to be entered into advisedly, as the vows are supposed to be binding until death. Mr. Wilson was raised up in bed. Mrs. Snyder was standing beside him, while I sat on the bed. I told the couple if they desired to be united in holy wedlock to join their hands. In doing this I noticed that Mr. Wilson used his left hand, his right, I was informed, being paralyzed."

The Rev. Whiteside then repeated to the court the marriage ceremony as he gave it and added that Wilson answered the usual questions in the affirmative with a nod of his head and an exclamation of either "yes" or "I do." He was not sure which expression was used, but he said either was legal.

No Evidence of Stupor. "He appeared to me to have a robust face for a man lying ill in bed and I didn't consider that I was officiating at the marriage of a dying man," the witness told the court. He also said there was no evidence of stupor on the part of the groom, who seemed to him to have the appearance of being mentally normal.

During cross-examination conducted by Attorney Spencer M. Thomas, the Rev. Mr. Whiteside denied he was acquainted with Mrs. Snyder or that she contributed to his church. He said he did not know her previous to her marriage to Wilson. Thomas claimed that on Dec. 17, last, the minister informed him and his former law partner, the late Dorsey A. Jamison, he knew the wife at Whiteside, Mo., his boyhood home.

If the will should be set aside, a previous will, in which the plaintiffs in the suit were left $50,000 each, would take effect. In that will Mrs. Wilson was left $13,000 and the remainder of the property was bequeathed to the Masonic Home and the "Shriners" Hospital. Mrs. Wilson's first husband, Louis Snyder, was electrocuted five years ago at the plant of the Wagner Electric Manufacturing Co., where he was employed.

INDIAN POW-WOW AT HASKELL TO DEDICATE NEW STADIUM Athletic Facilities Paid for by Money Subscribed by Tribesmen.
Special to the Post-Dispatch.
LAWRENCE, Kan.—The 200-acre tract of land occupied by Haskell Institute at Lawrence, the largest Indian school in the country, will be turned into a frontier jay scene late this month, when there will be held the largest Indian pow-wow since the United States established governmental control of Indians.

The occasion of the celebration will be the dedication of a new stadium and athletic field at the Indian institution. The stadium and field have been built and improved entirely from money subscribed by Indians.

Frank W. McDonald, athletic business manager at Haskell, has had full charge of the campaign for funds. The pow-wow will be a four-day affair, starting Oct. 27 and closing Oct. 30.

INDIANS GAVE NAME TO EVENING SHADE, ARK.
Evening Shade, Ark.—Let- ters meant for Evening Shade are addressed to Night Shade, Evening

Glade and what not, but eventually reach their intended destination here, for there is no similar name in the State postal directory.

The place took its odd name 108 years ago, when William Thompson, a captain in the War of 1812, founded it in 1818. He put up a grist mill and a saw mill where the town's roller mill now stands. The site was so cool and beautiful, shaded by giant trees, that Indians called it "Evening Shade," and settler and immigrant pushed on in their travels to camp at night beside the mill.

Capt. Thompson emigrated from his birthplace in Virginia. He floated down the Mississippi and came by water as far up as Batesville by way of the White and Black Rivers, then traveled overland.

The sawmill at Evening Shade was the only one in the entire northern part of the State, and served the countryside for 60 miles. It furnished lumber for the towns of Smithville and Old Jackson. It was through Thompson's personal influence that a postoffice was established here in James K. Polk's term, Thompson's mother being a cousin of the President.

U. S. BUREAU OF FISHERIES DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE

Economic Circular No. 48

Revised April, 1926

CANNED SALMON PINK AND CHUM

By HENRY O'MALLEY, Commissioner, U. S. Bureau of Fisheries.

In 1864 an enterprising resident of California established a salmon cannery on the banks of the Sacramento River for the purpose of utilizing the chinook salmon which swarmed in that stream. There were smaller runs of other species, but the chinook was so conspicuously the most abundant, the largest and the richest that it was used exclusively in the newly established industry.

This salmon has reddish flesh, and, when the growing demand for the product induced the extension of the industry, the growth was toward rivers and sections producing the same fish or other red-meated species, first to the Columbia River, then Puget Sound, and latest in Alaska. For a great many years the only salmon canned were the red-meated kinds, and the public has come so intimately to associate the color with the product that pink or pale-fleshed fish have been regarded with suspicion or suspicion. Even light-meated chinook, common in some localities, have not found a ready market. Color is a matter of appearance only, but prejudice and custom have caused the public to pass by the cheaper and equally wholesome pink and chum principally because they are not red when canned.

Economy of Using Pink and Chum Salmon.

Pinks and chums usually contain less fat but are equal to the redder varieties in protein-tissue-building material. They are low priced because of their abundance and the use of labor-saving machinery in handling and canning them. Their high protein content and lower cost render them more economical than most animal foods in common use. To buy the same quantity of proteins, disregarding the fat or oil, in various foods in common use would cost as follows:

	Cents
Canned salmon, pink or chum, per 1-lb. can...	15
Ham, 1 1/2 pounds, at 45 cents...	68
Chicken, average, 1 1/2 pounds, at 35 cents...	49
Lamb, leg, 1 1/2 pounds, at 37 cents...	48
Beef steak, 1 1/2 pounds, at 40 cents...	62
Eggs, strictly fresh, 1 dozen, at 48 cents...	48

The two kinds of canned salmon, pink and chum, contain more tissue-building material, weight for weight, than the other foods listed, but they have less fat. They are as digestible as the best of meats, there is no waste, and nothing has to be thrown away except the can.

They have another virtue. Fresh meats spoil quickly in the home; canned salmon will keep indefinitely if unopened. Moreover, it is ready for immediate use, or it may be cooked in a variety of ways if desired.

One pound of fresh salmon will furnish 35 per cent of the energy a man needs daily, 69 per cent of the protein, 10 per cent of the calcium, 57 per cent of the phosphorus, and 19 per cent of the iron. As the bones are softened in processing and rendered suitable for consumption, the minimum cost of the energy is as follows:

	Cents
One pound of fresh salmon...	15
One pound of beef...	40
One pound of chicken...	35
One pound of lamb...	37
One pound of pork...	30

RESOLUTION IN LEGISLATURE ASKS GOV. FERGUSON TO QUIT Measure Before Texas House Requests He Keep 'Agreement' Made With Moody.

By the Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Tex., Oct. 7.—A concurrent resolution seeking to place the Texas Legislature, meeting in special session, on record as requesting the immediate resignation of Gov. Ferguson, in keeping with his "agreement" with Attorney-General Dan Moody, Democratic gubernatorial candidate, was introduced in the House of Representatives yesterday.

The "agreement" referred to was made during the primary campaign when James A. Ferguson, husband and adviser of the Governor, challenged Moody to resign as Attorney-General if Mrs. Ferguson led him by a large number of votes in the first primary election, with the understanding that she would resign in case the Attorney-General received the largest number of ballots. Moody accepted the challenge.

SOVIET INDUSTRIES REACH 90 PCT. OF PRE-WAR LEVEL Country's General Production Rises Nearly 60 Per Cent in Year, Statistics Show.

By the Associated Press.

MOSCOW, Oct. 7.—Government statistics show that many of the Soviet's national industries have reached 90 per cent of their pre-war level, while several, notably oil, coal and agriculture, approximate the 1913 totals.

The country's general industrial production, which in 1920-21 was only 8 per cent of the pre-war standard, rose during the year closing Sept. 30 to nearly 70 per cent. Nearly $500,000,000 invested last year in state industries are said to have yielded the Government a net profit of $225,000,000. Wages increased by 18.6 per cent, which approximates the pre-war level.

Last year's production of textiles reached 85 per cent of the output during the Czarist regime, while iron and steel production was 70 per cent, tobacco 80 per cent and rubber 60 per cent of the old standard.

'ANTI-EVOLUTION SOCIETY' CARRIES FIGHT TO ALABAMA Proposes Introduction of Bills to Forbid Teaching of Doctrine in Schools.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MOBILE, Ala.—The teaching of evolution in the public schools is likely to occupy the Legislature which will meet next January. Bills to be presented then have been drawn up by a national anti-evolution organization which is having such bills introduced in all State Legislatures. It is the custom of legislators in Alabama to introduce bills "by request" so it will be simple to find some one to get them before the Assembly.

MORE BILLS TO BROWNING Schoolgirl Bride, Who Left Him, Still Buying Dresses.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—Edward W. Browning, 51 years old, wealthy real estate operator and promoter, is still receiving bills for clothes bought by his schoolgirl bride just before she left him. The latest bill is for $250, covering dresses which the 16-year-old wife bought and had charged to Browning. Last Saturday he had received bills for $600, representing neckties, wraps, silk stockings and other apparel purchased Friday by "Peaches."

Browning's secretary said that "Peaches" had returned, presumably from New Jersey, to the home of her mother in West 157th street, Manhattan.

ANIMAL EXHIBITS IN SUBWAY That's How American Induced London to Ride Underground.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 7.—Cages of wild animals had to be used to attract people into the London subway, Lord Ashfield told the American Electric Railway Association convention today in the course of a report on transportation conditions throughout the world.

Lord Ashfield, an American by birth and former manager of street car companies in Detroit and Newark, was induced to go to London. When he took charge in London he found people afraid to ride in the subway. He placed cages of wild animals in the subway, where they could be seen free of charge. Traffic at once grew amazingly.

LOWDEN CORRALING VOTES TO BEAT COOLIDGE, SAYS ASWELL

Louisiana Democrat Back From Europe Says President Will Try to Pacify Farmers.

WASHINGTON.—Representative Aswell (Dem.) of Louisiana has returned from an extensive trip to Europe, where he studied the operation of co-operative marketing. He has found the battle lines already distinctly discernable in the fight for the Republican presidential nomination in 1928, with the forces backing President Coolidge aligned against a powerful group headed by former Gov. Frank O. Lowden of Illinois.

Aswell said Lowden has corralled practically all of the advocates of the Haugen bill in his campaign to oust Mr. Coolidge from the White House, according to first-hand information reaching him from farm bureaus, and he predicted the Old Guard will have trouble in stemming the tide. That Mr. Coolidge will make strenuous efforts to "square" himself with the farmers at the coming session of Congress is the firm conviction of Mr. Aswell, "because he must realize that a powerful move is on within his own party to relieve him of his high office."

Although a Democrat of the most pronounced type, Aswell indicates that he sympathizes with Mr. Coolidge in his fight over farm relief legislation.

VON SEECKT PERMITTED PRINCE TO JOIN ARMY

Admits Responsibility — Germans Expect Hindenburg Will Accept Resignation.

By the Associated Press. BERLIN, Oct. 7.—What the Allied Military Control Commission long has sought vainly to accomplish, Major-General von Seeckt, himself, apparently has brought about by political indiscretion—namely his removal from the highest active military position in the German republic.

The General yesterday tendered his resignation as commander-in-chief of the Reichswehr and it is believed that President von Hindenburg will accept it.

Evidently without foreseeing the political possibilities that would be stirred up, von Seeckt permitted Prince Wilhelm, the eldest son of the former Crown Prince, to participate in recent maneuvers of the Reichswehr. The Prince served in the Potsdam regiment where many of his ancestors had received their military training.

Republicans Protest. The General failed to confer with the Minister of Defense Gessler in the matter and the latter, on learning of the participation of Prince Wilhelm in the maneuvers, thereupon declined to make any defense for the commander-in-chief of the Reichswehr.

No sooner had news of Prince Wilhelm's presence at war games in Muenstingen leaked out, however, than a strong protest arose in Republican circles which forcefully reminded the Government that the former Crown Prince's return to Germany was made possible only on condition that he keep out of politics.

Violation of Pledge. Permitting his son to "intrude" into the Republican army, it was felt, constituted a gross violation of this pledge.

The Ministry of Defense, under this public pressure, felt impelled to investigate how Prince Wilhelm's presence at Muenstingen was made possible. Thereupon Gen. von Seeckt personally reported that he knew and permitted the participation of the Prince.

MEASLES AND WHOOPING COUGH FATAL TO CHILDREN

They Supplant Diphtheria and Smallpox as "Deadly Diseases" in the United States.

HARRISBURG, Pa.—Diphtheria and smallpox no longer need be feared as the "deadly diseases" of the human race in the United States. Instead, measles and whooping cough, the two fatal enemies of childhood, must be guarded against last they take a more appalling toll year after year.

This was the warning issued by the Pennsylvania State Department of Health. A month by month study of fatality figures for the various diseases in the State formed the basis for the statement.

Since August, 1925, there has not been a smallpox death in Pennsylvania.

In pointing out the dangers of measles and whooping cough the Health Department has used the figures for last May in the State. During May the State was suffering one of the worst measles epidemics in its history. The disease killed three times as many children as diphtheria. For some mothers deliberately exposed their children to the disease in order that they might have it and get it over during childhood years, the Health Department pointed out. Whooping cough, generally considered a winter disease, killed twice as many children as diphtheria.

$100 WON ON YANKEES GIVEN TO DEACONESS HOSPITAL FUND

The Cardinals' victory over the Yankees on Tuesday added $100 to the fund being raised for the building of the new Deaconess Home and Hospital. Henry W. Kiel, general chairman of the campaign, reported today that he had received a $100 bill from a friend of the hospital who informed him that he had won it on the game. The donor asked that his name be withheld.

An anonymous donor gave the campaign committee a $25,000 piece of property, according to a report by the Rev. F. P. Jens, superintendent of the hospital. The gift was made through Dr. C. H. Shult of the hospital medical staff. The donor agreed to deed the property to the hospital, with the proviso that it will not become available until after his death.

Reports by the campaign workers at their meeting yesterday totaled $11,267.35 in additional subscriptions, bringing the grand total to $124,263.

A $1000 memorial gift was made by Mrs. M. Mangels in the names of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Mangels and Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Gellensbeck. Dr. W. T. Conklin contributed $1000, International Shoe Co. $3000, and Henry Leichter Undertaking Co. $500.

The Associated Retailers of St. Louis have endorsed the campaign. Drunken Driver Freed of Killing. By the Associated Press. MONTREAL, Oct. 7.—A bottle of colored wood alcohol, labeled "Good old rum," opened before the jury in the trial of a truck driver charged with the death of a boy, 12 years old, induced the jury, in less than five minutes, to free the prisoner from all criminal responsibility. The driver, who ran his truck into the sidewalk, testified that he was in a dazed condition after drinking from the bottle which was found in a house that was being torn down.

TEXAS WOMAN IS FISHER, FARMER AND PHYSICIAN

Also One of Only Two Women to Hold Skipper's License.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex.—"The woman with the iron nerve," is what they call Mrs. Helen M. Jalluka of Corpus Christi, erstwhile fisherwoman, farmer, ginnee, physician and just now skipper of her own boat. She is one of the two women in the United States who hold skipper's licenses and is probably the only woman who is master of a boat in Southern waters. Her pleasure craft, carrying excursion parties, cruises in Corpus Christi Bay, the Gulf of Mexico and anywhere the skipper's fancy or the fancy of her passengers dictates.

Her seamanship has shattered another superstition of sailors. Until a few years ago sailors on the windjammers considered it an ill omen to have a woman aboard, in fact, only recently a certain notable did not travel on a warship because he wished to take his wife and the traditions of the Navy were against the presence of a woman aboard a warship.

Doctors Praise Adlerika. Dr. H. L. Shoup, New York: "Adlerika, in addition to its intestinal cleansing, checks the growth of intestinal bacteria."

Dr. A. C. Carl: "I prescribe Adlerika with highly satisfactory results."

Dr. J. Weaver: "In my 50 years' practice I have found nothing to excel Adlerika."

Dr. E. Puckett: "After using Adlerika, I feel better than for 20 years. Awful impurities were eliminated from my system."

Dr. F. M. P. (name withheld by request): "I use Adlerika in all bowel cases. Some require only one dose."

No matter what you have tried for your stomach and bowels, Adlerika will surprise you. At leading druggists. In St. Louis at Wolff Wilson Drug Stores.

Are You Overdoing?

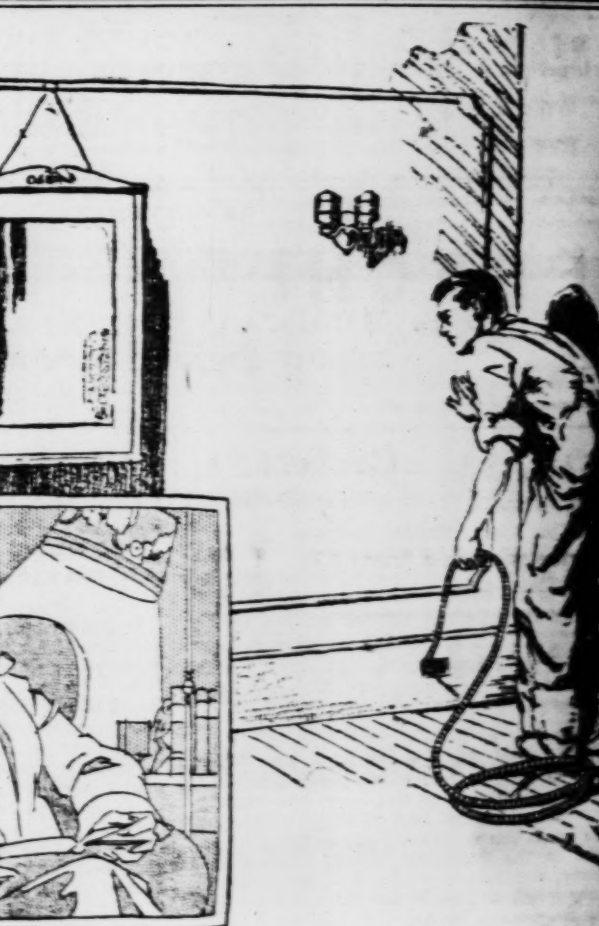

Hurry, Worry, and Overwork Bring Heavy Strain. MODERN life throws a heavy burden on our bodily machinery. The eliminative organs, especially the kidneys, are apt to be overtaxed and become sluggish. Retention of excess uric acid and other poisonous waste is apt to give rise to a dull, tired feeling and, often, toxic backaches and headaches. More and more people are learning to ease their kidneys by drinking plenty of pure water and the occasional use of Doan's Pills—a tested stimulant diuretic. Ask your neighbor!

"Looks So Different in Only Six Months"

Then—

and Today

"I am an Actor," he explained to a physician—"It is vitally necessary for me to look young, healthy and strong. I don't feel so very sick, but I'll admit in the last six months I haven't the old 'come back.' I sleep soundly enough but somehow it doesn't refresh me—I don't get out of bed any more, feeling ready and fit for everything—I take cold showers—play golf very often, or exercise instead but that hasn't done me any good. What's the matter with me anyway, Doctor?"

INTESTINAL Putrefaction is a more frequent condition than has generally been recognized. Intestinal Putrefaction according to scientific medical authorities is constantly undermining the health, youth and strength of fully 90% of civilized mankind. Intestinal Putrefaction is caused by the activity of the ordinary decay germs which are taken into the stomach along with most of our food. These common germs often held dormant in food, when kept in ice boxes, usually commence their activity after eating, in the incubating warmth and moisture of our stomachs and intestines. They decay the waste and undigested food material within us and turn it into a putrefied substance, which partly absorbed, floods the blood stream with vicious poisons—causing changes in the blood vessels, the liver, kidneys, the brain and body tissues. Thus it may be seen that the effects of Intestinal Putrefaction are far reaching. It often causes headaches, aching limbs, loss of physical vigor, constipation, intestinal gas, abdominal pains, depression, dizzy spells, sallow, pasty complexions, skin eruptions and even premature old age. Long ago it was found that ordinary treatment with drugs, medicines, laxatives, etc., only served to aggravate this condition, to such extent, that science was recoiled until recently, to take its presence for granted and to assume that there was no real way to correct inevitable Intestinal Putrefaction.

Fortunately the discoveries of "the great" Pasteur of France indicated a simple and easy way to triumph over harmful germs and disease. With his discoveries came the successful anti-toxins and more recently the Moyer's Intestinal Putrefaction Anti-Toxin—Moyer's Acid-O-Phil Tablets—which destroy the contaminating intestinal germs of decay and thus banish Intestinal Putrefaction. They are easy and economical to take with either plain milk or water, results are quick and they do not form gas or upset the system of stomach in any way. One cannot take too many of these decidedly beneficial Moyer's Acid-O-Phil Tablets because the more you take the better and younger you'll feel and look. They are neither a drug, medicine or laxative. They are simply genuine Bacillus Acidophilus Health Tablets and they destroy the harmful and dangerous germs of putrefaction and leave you feeling like you'd taken a "new lease on life."

AS A TEST

Just try taking two Moyer's Acid-O-Phil Tablets after every meal and at bedtime, regularly for four short weeks. If you don't look and feel 100% better—if you haven't more strength, pep, and energy we will gladly refund your money upon request, without a single question. There is nothing like it, so do not accept imitations or substitutes. You can get the genuine Moyer's Acid-O-Phil Tablets at all good druggists.

JACK DURAND MAKES
PLEA FOR PARDON

Foster Son of Illinois Millionaire to Be Given Hearing
Oct. 12.

By the Associated Press.
JOLIET, Ill., Oct. 7.—Jack Durand, foster son of Mr. and Mrs.
Scott Durand, Lake Bluff millionaires, has applied to the State Board of Pardons and Paroles for a pardon.
The board will hold a hearing on the application Oct. 12, when it meets in Springfield. Young Durand is serving a sentence of three to 20 years in the State penitentiary for robbing the home of F.
Edson White of Armour & Co.
Another case to come before them at the meeting Oct. 12, will be the application of Henry Yepson, "big butter and egg man" of Chicago, who is serving a sentence for operating a confidence game.
The pardon board last night listened to a story of alleged miscarried justice in the case of Henry Schmidt of Chicago, who was exonerated by Michael Valina, the real criminal, after having served six and one-half years in the penitentiary for the crime.

According to Valina, he was arrested in Chicago in 1922 for robbery and made a confession, naming John Smith and another accomplice. Because Schmidt was a friend of Valina and because of the similarity of the two names, Schmidt and Smith, the youth was arrested and tried. The jury heard Valina's testimony exonerating Schmidt, but disregarded it, because the Court was in a hurry, according to Valina. Relatives of Schmidt now seek a complete pardon for the convict, and Minton G.
Clausen expressed the belief that justice had been miscarried and that a pardon may be granted.
Valina has served out his prison sentence for this crime.

Hazel Burnmeister, robber, also will ask for a parole on Oct. 12.
OLD SALOON OF DAWSON
YIELDING FORGOTTEN RICHES

Quantities of Gold Dust Being Found Under Structures Torn Down for Fuel.

By the Associated Press.
DAWSON, Yukon, Oct. 7.—The roaring, swashbuckling days of Dawson's gold rush live only in the memories of the old-timers, but the follies of the boom years, when thousands flocked here in quest of buried riches, are beginning to bear a golden harvest.

Gold dust was the camp's only medium of exchange in those days.
It was plentiful and flowed freely and carelessly across the bars of dance halls and saloons. Some of the old palaces of merriment have been torn down for fuel by the dwindling contingent of prospectors who remain here.
Discovery that liberal quantities of gold dust mingled with the soil beneath the decaying buildings has made the property on which the old resorts stand valuable. It was the gold which long ago had been heedlessly spilled across the bars in moments of abandon and which had found its way through cracks of the rough hewn floors.

FAMIL YOF 16 COMPETING

Joseph Rouse Group of Harrison County, Mississippi. Has Interesting History.

MOBILE, Ala.—Harrison County, Mississippi, boasts of one of the foremost large families in the South, that of Joseph Rouse and wife and their 14 children, ranging in age from 1 to 18 years. There are six girls, none of whom has bobbed her hair, and eight boys.

All of the children were born on the same 40 acres of land, near Saucier, Miss., and all are living under the same roof. They have relatives scattered throughout the country.

The family is competing for a prize offered by the Bureau of Vital Statistics for the largest and most interesting family in the State.

SEALS TAKE WINTER TOURS Herds Leave Fribolof Islands on Annual Journeys.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
DUTCH HARBOR, Alaska.—Uncle Sam's great family of fur seals quietly slipped off the rocks of the Fribolof Islands last week and now are swimming in far flung herds in the Pacific. Not one seal was tardy in making preparations for leaving. All, even the fattest pup, sniffed the frosty air one morning and plunged into the sea.

Where fur seals spend the next six or seven months is not definitely known, but small herds are noted in many parts of the South Pacific in winter. One thing is certain. Next April the herds will appear off the Oregon and Washington coasts leisurely swimming toward the pass in the Aleutian chain of islands, en route to the main Fribolof.

GEESSE RETURN FROM ARCTIC
Southern Migration Indicates Early Winter in North Lands.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
KENNEWICK, Wash.—Long lines of wild geese flying south over the Columbia River basin in the Northwest mark the close of the Arctic summer season. The honking fowl are resting on streams and lakes in British Columbia and Washington, feeding in subtle fields and on sandbars.
It is early for geese to appear in this State, but from reports received from vessels in Bering Sea, a premature winter season is approaching that part of the world within the Arctic circle.

DEPUTY KILLS SLAYER OF CHARLESTON MAN

Two Die in Ambush Sniping Following Negro's Attack on Farmer.

CHARLESTON, Mo., Oct. 7.—
Henry Cherry, about 20 years old, a farmer living south of Charleston, was killed by Henry Lowe, 35, Negro, Tuesday afternoon. Lowe was killed a few minutes later by Deputy-Sheriff Owen, who, with Cherry, was seeking Lowe for an attack on his employer, Roy Starks.
Officers here are investigating the case. They say the trouble leading up to the shooting resulted from an argument and fight between Lowe and Starks, a farmer.
Starks, it was learned, had employed Lowe to do certain things around his farm. Late yesterday he assigned Lowe to other duties.
Lowe objected to the change and an argument followed.
During the heat of the argument, it is said, Lowe called to his wife to bring him a revolver.

She ran into the house, got the gun and returned. Lowe snapped it twice at Starks, but it did not discharge. Then Lowe, who was a larger man than Starks, followed the farmer and beat him over the head with the gun. Immediately after the attack, Lowe ran to a levee ditch.

Cherry notified officers and accompanied Cook on the search for the Negro. Lowe hid in some underbrush near the levee ditch, and when Cherry, who was some distance ahead of the Deputy-Sheriff, passed, Lowe raised up and killed him with a shot from a rifle. Deputy-Sheriff Cook hid himself nearby and waited. Presently the Negro raised up again. The officer called to him to put up his hands, but the Negro apparently made an attempt to shoot him. The officer fired, killing the Negro.

How St. Louis Crowd Cheered Ruth Who Beat Cards Told on Radio

Graham Mc Namee, Yankee Partisan, Tells K S D Listeners of Fans' Tribute to the King of Swat.

"St. Louis has again gone batty." It was a typical New Yorker, formerly of St. Paul, speaking yesterday afternoon at Sportsman's Park—Graham McNamee, famous announcer for WEA, New York; KSD, St. Louis, and 21 other radio stations broadcasting the world series reports to approximately 25,000,000 listeners all over the country.

It was the truth. Even the St. Louis fans in grandstand, pavilion and bleachers would have agreed with the New Yorker had they heard him, but his words were swallowed by a microphone, and to those in the park McNamee was simply one of 400 occupants of the press box.

But the thousands of St. Louisans rooting in front of loudspeakers in their homes or in offices, schools, factories, stores—along Olive street, Broadway, Grand boulevard, everywhere—heard quite plainly that St. Louis was batty, and they murmured their approval.

Good Reason for Battyism.

Who wouldn't be batty? In the very first inning a Yankee named Ruth met and conquered a Carolinian named Rhem, on the firing line for the Cardinals. Rhem shot a fast ball at Ruth and the Babe shot it back faster and farther—over the right field stand for a home run, the first run of the day. Undaunted as always, these Cardinals, Douthit and Southworth, got on the bags in their inning and Manager Hornsby scored Douthit with a single, whereupon battiness ensued.

"The young undertaker finds himself in a certain amount of difficulty," McNamee announced in his best Long Island manner.

"He means Hoyt's in a tight hole," interpreted a Ninth-and-Olive fan. Hoyt, pitching for the Yankees, climbed out of the hole without further scoring.

The third inning came. Ruth batted and again he hit a home run, throwing his fellow townsman, McNamee, into an ecstasy.

"The Babe gets hold of another and drives over the pavilion, way out, much farther than the first one. Wow, what a hand he got! . . . This is an exciting game. I'm going batty myself. . . The bleacher folks are giving Ruth a really great ovation. . . Boy, oh, boy, the stands rise en masse to do homage to the Babe. . . Someone said St. Louis would be nice only to the home team, but that doesn't seem to be the case."

Most Picturesque Game of Years.

A few minutes later: "My, this is the most picturesque game of the year. Fine, lovely day here. St. Louis is showing us lovely weather now."

Genuine sympathy crept into McNamee's baritone when Hafey and Douthit collided chasing a ball in the fourth inning, injuring themselves and letting a Yankee score.

"My God, the doctors are having a busy afternoon," McNamee exclaimed in the last half of the inning, when Meusel of the Yankees required medical attention for dizziness.

Once more the Cardinals were rallying.

"Hafey singled. . . O'Farrell up. . . Oh, a bad error by Koenig allows Hafey to go down to second and O'Farrell is safe at first. . . Thevenow up. . . A hit! . . . A two-base hit along the first base line and Hafey scores. . . Oh, boy, you ought to hear this crowd now. . . Toporcer batting for Rhem. . . A high fly is taken by Combs. . . Now for the race home. . . and the runner scores. . . not a very good throw. . . you ought to hear them roar, oh, baby."

Applause Echoes on Radio.

(Sounds of many voices and cowbells and steady clap-clap of hands.)

"Douthit up and swinging like a gate. . . This is certainly a picturesque, spectacular crowd. . . (roar from the crowd) . . . a long shot! Two bases into deep right center field, breaking the tie and making the score 4 to 3 in favor of St. Louis."

"Southworth up. . . a hit to left field. . . Babe Ruth makes a perfect throw, a gorgeous throw, and gets this bird—you know what I mean—and gets Douthit trying to score. . . Babe shot it like an arrow and Seaverid didn't have to move for it. . . Babe has quite a little to do with this ball game today."

(One hawker cries, "Cigars and cigarettes," another, "Ice cold soda.") Radio fans shiver with excitement or cold.

Fifth inning. Reinhardt, pitching for the Cardinals, walks Combs.

Babe Swings, but Walks.

"If the Babe can get another home run this inning," mused McNamee. "Will they pitch to the Babe? Ruth is down on one knee waiting for his turn at bat. . . the little Yankee mascot is beside him also on his knee. . . probably both are praying. . . Koenig up. . . Koenig doubled, scoring Combs. . . Here's Babe Ruth up. . . One ball on Babe. . . two balls. . . one strike. . . how the Babe does swing. . . his intentions are obvious."

Reinhardt, out of control, walked Ruth and three others, the Yankees scoring four runs in that inning off Reinhardt and his successor, Herman Bell.

"Some inning," exclaimed McNamee. "Nine men batted, made one hit, scored four runs."

The sixth inning also was relished by McNamee when Ruth came to bat with Combs on base.

Ruth Sets Record for Homers.

"Babe's shoulders look like there's murder in them. . . he fouls a high one to the left field stands. . . The count is three and two now. . . this one goes for something. . . Babe, he hits it far into the center field bleachers for a home run. . . for a home run—did you hear what I said? . . . Where's that fellow that told me not to talk so much about Babe Ruth. . . follow up here. . . Ha! Ha! . . . Oh, what a shot. . . and that dumbbell tells me not to talk about Babe Ruth. . . not that I love Ruth, but I do love him like that."

"This is the first time any man

Veiled Prophet Queen's Bouquet

PRICELESS orchids glowed against the silver gown of the Veiled Prophet's Queen last night in yellow, deepening to golden brown and pale mauve, deepening nearly to the royal purple—orchids truly priceless, for their like cannot be bought.

They came from the greatest collection in the world, at Shaw's Garden, where they are on exhibition for today only with the roses of the four maidens of honor, in a gleaming white-enameled electric refrigerator with four glass sides, in the flower display house.

Rarest of them all is a deep yellow cattleya hybrid which won a silver medal for Shaw's Garden at the last International Flower Show. Yellow to golden brown are the slipper orchids among the 75 rare blossoms, and the gamut of the mauves is run by the cattleyas. They came from Burma, India, Panama, Ecuador, Colombia, Brazil, the East Indies and Australia.

The two newest fine varieties of roses were in the maids' bouquets. They were the copper yellow Madam Drew, originated in this country, and the recent masterpiece of French rose-growers, the rich lemon yellow Claudius Cernet.

has hit three homers in a world series game. . . they tell me that was the longest ball, the first ball hit into the center field stand in Sportsman's Park. . . why, that's a mile and a half from the home plate. . . Oh, what a sock that was!"

Soon the Yankees' inning was ended—not all their players were Babes. The fans cheered the Bambino to the echo, and the noise echoed through radio.

Fans as Lively as Ever.

"Now the St. Louis fans are cheering their boys. Never say die. The score is against St. Louis, but the fans are just as lively as in the first inning, these fans down in St. Louis."

But the Cardinals could not score.

"Babe Ruth up," announced McNamee in the eighth inning. "One ball. . . what will the Babe do? . . . two balls. . . three balls. . . ('Pitch to him,' cry the fans). . . The St. Louis crowd is beginning to razz their own pitcher, Hallahan. . . and the Babe walked."

The shadows are getting long out here at Sportsman's Field in Philadelphia—I mean St. Louis. These St. Louis fans have proved themselves mighty good sports. . . If there are any pop bottles around I haven't seen any.

"Now the bases are overflowing

TELLS OF DEMAND FOR DAILY NEWSPAPERS IN LIBRARIES

David Lawrence, Washington Publisher, Says Thrift for Information Is Growing.

ATLANTIC CITY, Oct. 7.—Speaking of "the newspaper and the library" David Lawrence, president of The United States Daily, in an address at the American Library Association convention today pointed out the increasing value of and demand for the newspaper in the library as one of the problems which confront the librarian.

There is, he said, an increasing thirst for information on the part of the average man, for information on national affairs, and particularly for knowledge of the activity of the Federal government. Very largely this class of information is obtainable only through the daily newspaper.

This phase of library work, he said, had been brought home very sharply to him when The United States Daily was founded. Among the first responses to the paper had been the libraries not only throughout the United States but also from foreign countries. He believed the foreign response was largely due to the interest which the governments and people of the world, particularly those new states that grew out of the World War, are taking in our Republic and a desire to direct themselves along its path, and therefore were eager for informative news of the activities of our Government.

PREDICTS NEW COAL RECORD

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Oct. 7.—Approximately 60,000,000 tons of coal will be the output of Kentucky's coal mines this year, according to a statement issued here by W. H. Jones, chief inspector of mines, who recently completed an extensive survey of the industry. This will be the largest coal production for any single year in the history of Kentucky. Jones said a new high record was established last year when 55,000,000 tons of coal were mined in Kentucky, but that there is every indication that this year's production will exceed that figure by approximately 5,000,000 tons.

This increase in production is being made notwithstanding the fact that the market is rather poor at the present time. The present slow market is attributed by Jones to the greater efficiency of engines operated by steam. While individual engines are now more efficient, it is expected that there will be an increase in the number of such engines and thereby increase the demand for coal, and Kentucky is well prepared to supply the demand, he says. He estimates that at the present time there are 122,482,311,225 tons of coal remaining in the ground in this State. In the past 100 years nearly 700,000,000 tons of coal have been mined in Kentucky, and the output is increasing steadily. Last year the Harlan County field led all of the other fields of the State in coal production, mining a total of 11,750,000 tons.

OPTIMISTIC FOR TRADE IN 1927

Manufacturers' Reports Indicate Continuation of Present Business.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—A continuation of the nation's present commercial activity into the beginning of next year is indicated in a trade survey by the National Association of Manufacturers, presented to the association at its convention here today.

The survey was made by a questionnaire covering 16 basic groups of manufacturers. A summary of the answers shows a favorable view of current and winter trade prospects, a higher level of employment and wage conditions, an increase in production sales, quantities and values and a prevailing industrial peace.

The consensus of present trade is 19 per cent excellent, 73 per cent good to fair, and only 8 per cent poor. On winter prospects, 16 per cent report excellent, 83 per cent good to fair and 1 per cent poor.

COLD WAVE IN WEST TEXAS

Wind From Northwest Bears Trace of Snow; Laborers Move Southward

PAMPA, Tex.—For days recently a cold northwest wind, bearing a trace of sleet and snow, passed across the plains of West Texas and great flocks of ducks and geese were to be seen flying before the driving storm.

Many workmen who came to this section from Southern oil fields began moving southward. They had been living in tents. The exodus left this section with a decided shortage of labor for outdoor work.

MISSOURI U. TOWER TO WAR DEAD TO BE DEDICATED NOV. 20

Gothic Memorial Structure in Memory of Students Who Died in France Cost $500,000.

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Oct. 7.—Names of the 116 University of Missouri boys who lost their lives in the World War, and in whose memory university students and alumni have erected a Gothic tower overlooking the college campus, were announced today by Dr. J. C. Jones, director of the memorial project.

The tower, built at a cost of $500,000 and declared by the country's greatest architects to be one of the most beautiful memorial towers in the world, formally will be dedicated Nov. 20. Missouri's new concrete stadium, also erected in memory of the university's war dead, likewise will be dedicated on the same date, when the football teams of Missouri and Kansas clash in their time-honored homecoming gridiron classic.

Dr. Jones, who is president emeritus of the university, has been engaged in conducting the financial end of the projects and has been responsible for successfully carrying out plans for the two memorials which were built with funds subscribed by students and alumni of the institution.

Erection of the two buildings is looked upon by University of Missouri officials as the beginning of an era of gifts of other buildings by students, alumni and other persons interested in the development and welfare of the State institution. The memorial tower and stadium are the first structures ever presented to the institution by its students.

Elaborate plans have been made for their formal dedication and many persons of the State and Nation have been invited to participate in the ceremonies. Dedication of the tower will take place on the morning of November 20, and the memorial stadium will be dedicated just prior to the beginning of the Missouri-Kansas football game.

Magill Leads Independents For Senate in Illinois

Expected to Make Good Showing on Record as Farmer, Educator, Legislator and Religious Worker.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Oct. 7.—Farmer, teacher, State legislator and legislative worker, Hugh S. Magill, independent Republican nominee for United States Senator from Illinois, has the best chances of any of the independent candidates to make a good showing against regular party nominees, in the opinion of Illinois political leaders.

Unlike the majority of the independent, Magill's support includes both the downstate and Chicago regions.

He was born on a farm near Springfield in 1869, his father being one of the early settlers in the region and a warm friend of Abraham Lincoln. Magill received his elementary education in country schools in the Springfield region and also completed his high school course at Auburn.

Taught School at Age of 19.

Magill has numerous friends downstate. When he first entered upon his educational work, it was in the downstate district, teaching in a country school at the age of 19 in order to earn money to enter Illinois Wesleyan College at Bloomington, where he graduated in 1894 with an A. B. degree. In recognition of his services to education as a member of the State Senate, his alma mater later conferred on him the honorary degree of LL. D.

Although Magill studied law, his interest lay primarily in education. After completing his college work he became principal of a village school and was later promoted to principal of the township high school at Princeton.

He was elected a member of the Illinois State Senate in 1910, serving two terms as Senator from Bureau County and leaving his office in 1914. Magill then returned to teaching, becoming superintendent of schools in Springfield.

Following his service in Springfield, he was appointed secretary of the National Educational Association in Washington, holding this position for four years and being in charge of the legislative program of the teachers of the nation.

While a member of the State Senate, Magill wrote the resolution adopted by the Legislature which resulted in the unseating of William Lorimer as United States Senator. He was also the author of the Illinois Woman's Suffrage bill, which he introduced and fought for until its passage in 1913.

Labor Friendly Toward Him.

Magill led in the movement for the teachers' retirement fund, for the certification law for teachers and for an amendment to the revenue code of the State, granting a large increase of funds for school purposes.

For the last two years, Magill has been general secretary of the National Council of Religious Education, with headquarters in Chicago, which has given him an opportunity to secure support in Cook County for his campaign. Among his supporters are numbers such prominent figures in philanthropy and education as Julius Rosenwald, and downstate, Logan Hay of Springfield, former State Senator and Republican leader.

Labor is friendly toward him, the dry Democrats and Republicans look upon him with a kindly eye, and the farmer is not opposed to him. Magill should prove a powerful factor in the Senate race in Illinois, and may possibly upset the regular nominees.

'COLLEGIATE FLIVVER' PASSE AT UNIVERSITY OF MISSOURI

Town License Fee and Dean's Regulations Cut Number of Students.

COLUMBIA, Mo.—Along with lumberjack shirts, Oxford bags, red-and-white striped socks, and other fads at the University of Missouri, the "collegiate flivver" seems to have passed.

Not longer than two years ago gaudily painted, ancient Fords, with their sides painted with the latest "wise cracks" appeared on the campus in large numbers.

A passable stripped-down flivver could be bought for as low as $30. A little paint, a few slogans, perhaps a little overhauling, and it was ready for the street. Repair bills were low. Most of the students did their own repairing.

Columbia has issued an ordinance this year requiring students to buy city auto licenses. The university also has introduced a regulation that students owning cars must register them with the dean of men. To date, fewer than 200 have done so. Two years ago, students of the university, and of Stephens and Christian junior colleges for women, owned 700 automobiles.

SANTA FE STARTS ON LAST 22 MILES OF $2,500,000 WORK

Closing Phase of Railroad's Double-Tracking Program in Texas Panhandle.

AMARILLO, Tex.—With work started on double-tracking 22 miles of the Santa Fe Railroad's line through Amarillo, calling for the expenditure of approximately $2,500,000, the railroad will complete its $2,500,000 improvement program in the Texas Panhandle.

A new line will be laid to St. Francis, a distance of 12 miles, and 10 miles west to Haney Switch. If developments warrant, the double track will be extended to Panhandle and Canyon, thus affording unusual railroad facilities to all towns in the famous Texas Panhandle oil fields. Schedule calls for completion of the double track by early in January.

Other expenditures proposed by the Santa Fe include $400,000 for 10 1/2 miles of additional yard tracks in Amarillo.

Fur Seals Increase $5,251 in Year.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON.—Uncle Sam's herd of fur seals, harbored on Alaskan Islands, increased 38,231 last year. The Bureau of Fisheries reports that a count made on Aug. 10 showed the herd total to be 761,281. The number has increased steadily since the international agreement which made the Government caretaker was reached many years ago.

LARGE SCALE TRADE ON CURB EXCHANGE

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—Trading on the curb today continued on a large scale in the usually active groups, but the market movements were within narrower limits and most of the leading stocks showed little net change. The day was some important new features, among them being net change in dealers in Central leather new preferred certificates, to which the American Corporation added one which ranged from 78 to 79 1/2. Some of the German bonds also were heavily traded today, although the advances were slight. The market for foreign exchange was quiet in a number of stocks, holding several oil stocks moved late liquidation was in progress.

Oil stocks were in an orderly manner. The market for American oil stocks was quiet, although a demand was in evidence for the larger stocks, causing a fractional advance, while many of the smaller stocks in supply at concessional international Petroleum was active, but trading at moderate gain, and a firmer tone was observed in the afternoon.

There was constant alternation in movements in the industrial issues. Some stocks were in supply because of distress selling and the more active speculative elements were somewhat with frequent advances and declines in the course of the day. Dupont de Nemours first advanced, then declined, and finally recovered, and wiped out later on a reaction. Warner and Gillette were active, with the latter the rest of the day, advancing over 3 points to above 62. Goodyear Tire yielded to a decline, and then recovered in supply at a small decline. Gillette and Warner were active, with the latter was in better demand in the afternoon. General Baking. A also showed an increase.

Utilities were irregular. United Gas was active, with a gain of a point in the early trading but lost part of its gain and Northeastern Power after a fractional advance, declined. The market for Northern Power was firm and made a moderate advance. American Gas and Electric after a moderate advance, declined later in the course of about 2 points.

Southern selling was much in evidence strengthening reports that farmers were beginning to hold their cotton away from the market. Prices worked gradually higher on receiving and a little trade buying occurred, but the market was still around 13.35 and March 13.64, or 6 to 7 points net higher.

CLEAN KIDNEYS BY DRINKING LOTS OF WATER

Take Salts to Flush Kidneys if Bladder Bothers or Back Hurts.

Eating too much rich food may produce kidney trouble in some form, says a well-known authority, because the acids created excite the kidneys. Then they become overworked, get sluggish, clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region, rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder, irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, begin drinking lots of good water and also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity; also to neutralize the acids in the system so that they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help keep the kidneys clean, thus often avoiding serious kidney disorders.

AMERICAN ETHICAL UNION OPENS MEETING

Gathering at Sheldon Memorial Also Marks 40th Year of Society in St. Louis.

A conference of the American Ethical Union today opened the four-day celebration of the fortieth anniversary of the St. Louis Ethical Society at Sheldon Memorial, in connection with which the union is holding its annual convention. Mrs. Washington E. Fischel, who presided, is chairman of the local society and president of the union.

A small group of men met in the law offices of Charles Nagel, later to become a Cabinet member, and organized the St. Louis society in 1886. It was the fourth to be organized. Ten years earlier the New York society was founded, then followed the one in Chicago in 1889 and another in Philadelphia in 1885. There now are six in the United States.

The late Dr. Walter L. Sheldon led the St. Louis group from its organization until his death in 1907. The structure at 3648 Washington boulevard was dedicated to his memory in 1912. Formerly the society had met in the old Pickwick Theater and then in the Wyman Crow Memorial Hall of the St. Louis School of Fine Arts. Of the 115 charter members, 48, including Nagel, still are living and active in the society.

Statement of Purposes.
Statement of purposes, as given in the constitution, is, "To aid in developing apart from the churches a new movement, which shall rest upon a basis of ethics, regardless of theology." Dr. Sheldon elaborated on that in a circular written in 1888: "Ethical Culture recognizes that not only as a matter of right and duty should personal morality be taught and cultivated, primarily, but as affording the only solution of the grave practical problems which confront the world at the present day."

"The movement affirms no creed new or old, and denies none. It does not deal directly with theology. The question, whence man derived the power of knowing right and wrong, it leaves open to such belief as may be entertained, without concerning itself at all therein."

Reproductions of a model playground and of the Merrill-Palmer School at Detroit, the first Nursery School in the United States, are among exhibits in the Assembly Hall. The Community Council has provided another exhibit showing what the community is doing and what it is failing to do. Miss Bertha Howell, directing it, stated that although 10,616 children are reached and influenced for good by various boys' and girls' organizations, 41,000 remain untouched.

Symposium on Recreation.

"Recreation for Childhood" was the subject of the symposium this afternoon, followed by a demonstration of Boy Scout activities by Troop 21. For tonight "The Ethical Society as Viewed by a Non-member" is the subject of an address by the Rev. J. Dwight Bradley of Webster Groves, and "The Ethical Ideal as a World-Force" is to be discussed by Henry J. Golding, leader of the New York society.

Laughter as a factor in social work will be the subject of an address by Dr. John L. Elliot of the Hudson Guild, New York, at a luncheon tomorrow at the Coronado Hotel. Preceding it will be a woman's conference at Sheldon Memorial. An afternoon session there will be followed by a drive to Jefferson Memorial, the Art Museum, and Washington University, culminating in a reception and tea at the School of Fine Arts.

"The Search for Religious Unity" will be taken up in symposium tomorrow night.

CHAPTER 24.

A Fresh Turn of Affairs.

HARTLEY took the wireless message from his aunt unfolded and read it.

It seemed to Doris, watching him, that he turned all kinds of colors. He began to say something so unmistakable that Aunt Ada clapped her hands to her ears and admonished him in a shocked voice.

"My dear Jack! Remember your aunt—and your wife!"

He looked down at her wrathfully.

"Then tell me what this—this beastly message means? You must know something about it. It's from my father and it says: 'Am meeting the boat at Havre. Want to see your wife.'"

His aunt smiled playfully.

"My dear boy! Of course I know something about it. You know how impulsive I am? Well, I thought it would be delightful to be the one to tell the good news to your father, so I sent him a wireless about your marriage and your honeymoon. I don't believe in making a secret of such vital things. You were very foolish to want to keep the news to yourself, but, of course, when one's in love—she shook a teasing finger at him.

Hartley thrust the message into Doris' hands.

His aunt tucked her arm through Doris'.

"Foolish boy! He's always so dramatic!"

Doris asked a trifle fearfully:

"Is his father very terrible?"

"Not really," laughed that gentleman's sister. "Of course, he has a bit of a temper—just like Jack. I believe his enthusiasm has made him worse. He sort of—of blows up occasionally. If you know what I mean. But his bark is much worse than his bite. He'll adore you, I'm sure."

She rambled on happily for some time, clearly enjoying her part in this romance which thrilled her vicariously.

Finally, her nephew appeared on deck from the direction of the bar and took Doris forcibly away from her. He led his "bride" to a secluded corner of the deck and said grimly:

"Well, what's to be done?"

"What is to be done?" repeated Doris practically. "I can't go on forever pretending to be your wife."

"I should hope not," he replied with savage ungalantry which the occasion made almost excusable.

"Of course I see now, too late, that I ought to have killed the whole thing at the start by making a clean breast of it to Aunt Ada and Uncle Howard, but there was that accursed passenger list and the suite reserved for 'Mrs. Hartley.' How could I have explained that, without involving—"

He broke off and stared bitterly at the gently undulating sea. After a moment, he roused himself to say with a desperate attempt at hopefulness:

"Of course, there's still a chance that my Dad may rise on his hind legs and order us to get one of these quick French divorces. I'll have to take frightful distress for the sake of the old man, but you can pretend to be awfully disgusted with me and all that, regret, too late. You know what I mean. I'll go on a roaring drunk—that'll be the only truthful touch—and you can register loathing and disgust—perhaps that'll be rather veracious, too. Anyway everybody will be pleased all around—except perhaps my incurably sentimental Aunt Ada."

He groaned and propping his elbows on the rail, dropped his head into his hands.

Doris said: "All right," and was greatly relieved to find the problem so quickly disposed of. After a minute, she added, thoughtfully:

"If your father is so—so formidable, what did you expect to do when you and—Camilla—"

she faltered and stopped.

Hartley shrugged.

"If I loved a woman, all the fathers in the world couldn't take her from me, if she wanted to stay."

"Oh," said Doris, and added more thoughtfully than tactfully: "Only I can't fancy a woman wanting to stay with you."

"Tougher!" he laughed and made her his dearest bow.

After dinner that evening, Doris was in her stateroom packing the shiny, new luggage which had been destined for Camilla. She had found its contents ample for her needs: in fact, it was luxurious. She had never before possessed such frocks and wraps and furs and silken under things, selected with infallible taste for the delight of a beloved woman. Yes, Hartley had done well with his shopping and he had exhibited a proficient knowledge of feminine needs. There were subtle perfumes, the softest and most fragrant creams and powders and rouge. Camilla might even have been a little resentful if she could have seen the numberless aids to beauty which her admirer had provided for the upkeep of her loveliness.

Doris was wearing an exquisite negligee of Gobelins blue, bordered in silver fox, when Hartley's aunt entered the stateroom.

"I hope you won't mind my disturbing you, dear, but I came to see if I could borrow a tiny bit of cold cream. Mine has just given out and my skin is as dry as a bone."

Doris hastened to the shiny little cabinet in the bath and exhibited a row of bottles, jars and vials.

"Take any one you like," she urged hospitably. "I never use cream, so I don't know one brand from another."

"Ah, youth! Youth!" Mrs. Cushing sighed her favorite phrase, but her eyes were busy darting this way and that around the de luxe suite.

It was chastely a feminine bower. Not even so much as a cigarette hinted that a masculine foot had ever been set across its threshold.

"I think I hear Jack in his room," the lady tilted her head in a listening attitude against the door which separated the two suites. "I'll just speak to him a moment."

She laid her hand on the knob and uttered in surprise:

"Why, it's locked!"

"I—the key is somewhere," Doris flustered, began to search.

The lady shook her finger archly. "Clever little girl! She knows just how to manage a man. But, my dear, you'll never be able to keep it up once you're at my brother's villa. He believes in old-fashioned marriage. You'll see!" she promised gravely.

Hartley thrust the message into Doris' hands.

Leeds Jewels, That Aroused Envy of Queens, Secemear

Final Chapter in Romance of Gems Written in Six-Page Document Filed in Court in New York; Proceeds to Go to Grecian Prince Who Was Wedded by Tin Plate King's Widow; Now in Exile.

By Howard McLellan.

IN a six-page document filed perfunctorily a few days ago in the Surrogate's Court at New York is written another and perhaps the final chapter in the dazzling romance of the world's most famous and costliest collection of jewels.

The Leeds jewels, which once adorned the throat and coiffure of the late Anastasia, Princess Christopher of Greece, widow of William B. Leeds, the "tin-plate king," have disintegrated as a collection and are being offered piecemeal in the jewel marts of Paris and New York.

They are valued at millions, and half the income from their sale goes to support the late Anastasia's husband, Christopher, Prince of Greece, living now in exile, at No. 27 Via Ulisse Aldrovandina, Rome.

Brought Owner Grief

Christopher passed up the throne of Greece to wed the tinplate king's widow, but long after her death her jewels assure him the luxuries to which, as a Prince of the royal house, he was accustomed.

The jewels themselves might have brought him grief as they did the Queen of Spain and many brilliant women of Europe's courts whose own collections were outdazzled and outpriced by the wealth of pearls, diamonds and emeralds brought into court by the only American woman to achieve the distinction of marrying a Prince of the royal blood who stood directly in line for one of the oldest and royalist thrones in Europe.

The collection also brought grief to Anastasia, for when she had box, where it has lain since, unused.

Shortly thereafter emeralds and diamonds ceased to mean much in royal circles.

Pearls Sold Separate

And now, as the documents filed disclose, there is no danger that the classic contest for jeweled supremacy will be repeated to plague Kings and Queens and the titled ladies of their courts.

First of all the world's most perfect rope of pearls, which played such a conspicuous and tragic part in that contest, has been torn apart and its 43 pearls, each the size of a dime and weighing 1754 grains, are in the hands of many new owners.

This rope once encircled the royal throat of Catherine, Queen of Russia. In 1907 Leeds paid $220,000 for it. An unusual circumstance led him to make the purchase. After divorcing his first wife he wed the woman who later finally assembled her collection and stood ready to make her resplendent entry into the Court of St. James at a great state occasion she was invited to appear without her jewels. They were far too magnificent even for that brilliant assembly. They fired the souls of too many other court ladies with overweening envy.

Their effect upon the sensitive emotions of royalty's most splendid ladies was already too well known. The Queen of Spain once sought to outdo Anastasia and from the four corners of the globe gathered together what was considered the finest necklace of emeralds and diamonds ever seen. But lo! Anastasia went her one better. With the Leeds millions at her command she put the Queen's collection to shame. An emerald and diamond collar and tiara which cost the Princess $500,000 plunged the Queen into tears and her costly collection was forever relegated to the royal strong-

box. Anastasia showed unusual wisdom in her will. She directed the immediate sale of the rope and the division of the proceeds, half to her son, William B. Leeds Jr., and half to her husband, the Prince. The upkeep has been tremendous.

The buyers are not disclosed in the papers on file, but the sale was consummated through the Paris house of Cartier. An initial payment of $200,000 has been made and installments of $50,000 for the balance are to be made quarterly until Oct. 15, 1929.

Of special interest to the Queen of Spain is the fact that the emerald and diamond collar and tiara were sold Jan. 2, 1925, for $642,275. Like the rope of pearls it was torn apart and scattered among many buyers in New York and in Paris. Experts say that this collection was the costliest and most gorgeous ever assembled. It is said that it was also a part of the Romanoff collection and fell into the hands of Rasputin, the mad monk, who sold it quietly to meet an urgent and private need of the Czarina.
